YOUR SYSTEM OF RECORDS?

BETTER USE OURS

It costs a dollar a mile to go to Chicago in a Special Train, but only a few cents a mile on the Empire State Express. The same is true of the RECORD AND GUIDE QUARTERLY. Each subscriber receives for Twenty Dollars a year a service that would cost him thousands of dollars.

A system of records is as necessary to a real estate broker as the "ticker" to a stock broker. Conceivably a man might get along without either, but he would suffer immensely both in person and estate.

By means of the RECORD AND GUIDE QUARTERLY, which occupies only a few square inches on a shelf or a desk, the real estate man is put in possession of a system of records in which he could find any particular transaction, be it conveyance, mortgage, auction sale or lease, as easily as he can find the name of one of his clients in the telephone book. It is permanent in form, ever ready and available. It does not go "out" like the office boy, or make mistakes like the stenographer.

The annual number of the RECORD AND GUIDE QUARTERLY contains ALL the legal records for the past year concerning real estate and projected buildings, arranged alphabetically and numerically, with invaluable annotations.

These are supplemented by tables of important transactions, with typical prices, covering the past quarter of a century or more, accompanied by expert comments.

RECORD AND GUIDE, FOURTEEN VESEY STREET OPPOSITE ST. PAUL'S

THE bulk of the week's trading in realty was again in flats and tenements, with a few deals in mercantile property and private dwellings. A considerable number of flats in the easterly part of Harlem were sold to builders for improvement. In the Washington Heights district there were a few sales of lots, and one sale reported from the Dyckman section. While there has not been a single building operation in this latter section, and there have been very few recent sales, the property is firmly held, with the expectation that the opening of the subway wll be the beginning of a very active movement. In the auction market the event of the week was the sale of one hundred and eighty-one lots by R. E. Simon, of L. J. Phillips & Co. The buyers were nearly all Bronx residents, and the prices they paid were far beyond what most judges of property in the section thought they were worth. Bryan L. Kennelly's offering of Washington Heights and Dyckman lots, which were offered to settle a partnership, were all bought by parties in interest.

TWENTY years from now it looks as if many western cities would be housing almost as large a proportion of their population in tenements and flats as New York does at present. During the past five years the growth of cities such as Cleveland, Buffalo, St. Louis and Baltimore has been outstripping their means of communication. A business man can no longer find a site in the newer districts which is easily accessible by trolley cars; and the consequence is that residential property in the older districts is increasing so much in value that the newer houses are more often flats than private residences. These flats differ, of course, entirely from those which are erected in New York. They are generally suburban in character—that is, they are surrounded by open spaces and are only at the most four stories high. But in the course of time they are bound to become higher as well as more numerous; and during the life of the existing generation the urban population of the United States will have largely ceased to occupy individual dwellings. Of course, well-to-do people will continue to occupy houses of their own, because they are able in their automobiles to travel ten or fifteen miles to their places of business, and this fact has encouraged the use of motor-cars in the larger western cities to an extent which is unparalleled in the east. But it may be doubted whether motor-cars will ever be so cheap that people who pay less than $500 a year in rent can afford them, and until they do, there seems no escape from the multiple dwelling in the larger American cities.

SOME months ago the Record and Guide pointed out that the municipal election in November would be complicated by a number of wholly un-municipal considerations. The voters of New York City will be asked to keep Mayor McClellan in his present position for four years; but it is very doubtful whether the Mayor himself will take advantage of his re-election to serve out his term. If he should be re-elected by a large majority, he will be a prominent, almost an inevitable, Democratic candidate for Governor. He could not be expected, of his own initiative to decline this honor, in case it were offered to him, because, if nominated, he would have a fair chance of election; and if elected he would be on the high-road for the Democratic Presidential nomination. All this would be very pleasant for the Mayor; but it would not be so pleasant for some of his local supporters. The usual opposition to Tammany has been very much attenuated this fall, because of the personal popularity of the Mayor; and it looks as if this popularity would be used to carry a Tammany administration into power, which might not be either as well-intentioned or as independent as Mr. McClellan has proved to be. Should Mr. McClellan resign, the city would be governed by the Tammany nominees for Controller and President of the Board of Aldermen, and by a substitute for the latter elected by the Aldermen themselves. These officials would control the Board of Estimate, and consequently the whole financial and business policy of the city. No harm may come of this; but it is not precisely the result for which a good many supporters of Mayor McClellan will vote. Inasmuch as such is the case, and inasmuch as it is openly stated that Tammany will not renominate Mr. Jerome, because he might be an effective candidate for the Governorship against Mr. McClellan, we believe that the independent supporters of the Mayor ought to seek some pledge from him that if elected he will serve out his term.

An Obnoxious Imposition.

IN another column of this issue will be found interviews with architects and others in regard to "fireproof wood." It is hardly necessary to tell readers of the "Record and Guide" that fireproof wood does not, at the present moment, enjoy in this city any very high degree of popularity among those who are concerned with building. Indeed, that material seems to have lost in the last few years whatever reputation it once possessed, and certainly the manner in which the promoters of the product have sought to advance its interests illustrates very well how bent some people are in seeking success by necessarily unsuccessful methods.

The fireproofing of wood is not a new thing. It has been attempted over and over again by methods that are, in general, analogous to those that prevail among fireproof wood manufacturers to-day. If any change or progress has been effected, the improvement lies, essentially, in the choice of some different chemical. Like perpetual motion, the fireproofing of wood has been the dream of many enthusiasts. Perhaps to them there has been something of an allurement in the endeavor to realize a sort of contradiction, for, on the face of it, it is as illogical to speak of "fireproof wood" as it is to speak of a heatless fire, or an imponderable substance. There is no such thing as "fireproof" wood so long as wood remains wood. The conversion of wood into something else might do the trick, and, as a matter of fact, our fireproof wood, so called, is a fire retardant only in proportion to the degree in which its cubical contents have been converted into something else.

In the course of the present attack upon fireproof wood, we have heard and we shall no doubt in the near future hear a great deal of controversy as to the degree of fire resistance possessed by the material, but the readers of the "Record and Guide" will do well if they keep entirely out of that technical and cloudy side of the discussion and devote their attention and energies entirely to the one subject about which there can be, in our judgment, no question whatsoever. Fireproof wood is imposed upon our architects, builders and owners by the Building Code. We will not inquire how this imposition crept into the Code. Certainly it did not get there for any purely humanitarian reason, nor at the dictate of experts, nor because of the demands of public opinion. Nobody—architect, builder, owner or citizen—wanted the material—in the law. Nobody has objected to the treated wood merely as a building material, be it good or be it bad, and none to-day should object to it except for the reason that it is foisted upon the public by legal enactment. The value of fire-proof (?) wood as an "elective" in building construction may be considered in a very different temper of mind than is at all possible when considered as a "legal imperative" foisted upon the public at so much per thousand feet by legislation. An article that deserves such special treatment should clearly be of supreme merit, and not even the manufacturers of fireproof wood make that claim for their product. Just as it has been said that no man who needs a monument ought ever to get one, so it may be said that any building material that needs legislation to sell it ought not to be sold—by legislation. If fireproof wood were a material of supreme or even of high importance, the architects and builders of this city would have adopted it without legislation; for, mind you, the law does not require its use in the lower grade of tenement houses, where the danger of fire is greatest, or in our most flimsy and inflammable structures, but in our great office buildings and edifices of a class that are constructed throughout of burnt clay, or cement, under the supervision of our most competent architects and engineers, and at the expense of owners who have not the slightest interest in any construction that is not durable and safe. There is always a tendency to make a Building Law like ours a sort of "sales agency" for manufacturers who desire favors, but a Building Law that forces architect, builder and owner, in spite of their judgment, to expend large sums of money for a dubious article to be placed within solid rooms of absolutely fireprof construction, is sheer absurdity. It merely results in raising the cost of construction and, therefore, rents, in order to help out a few manufacturers who cannot procure the sale of their product in such places on its merit. The whole business is an outrage. The architects and builders of this city should demand peremptorily the repeal of this offensive requirement.

THE statement of Mr. Paul Morton that hereafter the Equitable would invest a larger proportion of its assets in real estate mortgages is a welcome and wise declaration of policy, and it is a policy that some of the other insurance companies will be obliged also to pursue. We have no doubt that the current agitation will result in the severe restriction of the field of investment of the assets of the insurance companies, and that they will be forbidden to participate in syndicate transactions. Such transactions have been very profitable in the past, and for that reason the finance committees of the companies have preferred them. If, however, they are forbidden, it is probable that an insurance company will be able to obtain a somewhat higher rate of interest from real estate mortgages than from railroad bonds, and their managers will be forced to lend larger sums upon good real estate security. There is, however, a method of investing in real estate mortgages, which is quite as doubtful from the point of view of conservative finance as any number of syndicate transactions; and the financial policy of the companies will not be very much improved—in case they substitute speculative building loans for speculative syndicate operations. Speculative building loans sometimes result in large profits, but the profits are precarious, and a trust fund should be more securely invested. It will be remembered that years ago the chief criticism levelled against the former policy of the New York Life concerned chiefly its investment in real estate security; and we imagine that Mr. Hughes could discover a good many interesting facts in case he investigated some of the recent real estate loans of several of the larger companies. Real estate in a large city is the best security in the world; but there are, of course, safe as well as unsafe ways of lending money upon it. In this as in other respects the insurance companies should in their investment policy be raised to the level of saving banks.

Trolley Extensions for the Bronx.

THE UNION COMPANY TO HAVE LONGITUDINAL ROUTES AND THE INTERBOROUGH THE TRANSVERSE LINES.

The matter of the application of the Union Railway Company of New York City to the Board of Estimate for the right to make twenty-two (22) extensions to its existing railway in the Boroughs of Manhattan and The Bronx, which was laid over at meeting of September 15, will come before the Board again on October 13.

On the same day the application of the Interborough Company for thirteen extensions in the Bronx will be heard again.

The New York City Interborough Railway Company (hereinafter referred to as the "Interborough Company") has presented a verified petition, dated June 26, 1905, to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment of the City of New York, praying that the Board grant the company the right to construct, maintain and operate thirteen extensions to its existing and proposed street surface railway, covering about 11.6 miles of streets, with an estimated length of single track, including switches, of about 23.5 miles.

The Board of Aldermen granted a franchise to this company, which ordinance was approved by the Mayor on March 31, 1903. The streets covered by this franchise were about 36.5 miles in length, and comprise three north and south lines, with certain cross-town connections. Subsequently, the "Interborough Company" made application to the State Board of Railroad Commissioners for a "Certificate of Public Convenience and a Necessity," which certificate was granted for only a part of the routes granted by the city, the Board refusing a certificate for about 10.6 miles of street, upon the grounds that certain of the routes paralleled lines of the "Union Company;" in other words, the north and south lines, with the exception of a part of the route on the westerly side of the Bronx, were practically eliminated.

Up to September 1 the company had completed about fifteen miles of single track, the greater part of the work being done on Aqueduct av, Tremont av, 180th st, Kingsbridge road, 189th st, Wilkins place, and Intervale av. The chief engineer of the company expects that the greater portion of the routes granted and upon which the company has been allowed to build, will be completed before winter sets in. All the equipment has been ordered and the line from 181st st and St. Nicholas av, across Washington Bridge, and thence through Aqueduct av to Kingsbridge road, will be in operation very soon after permission has been obtained to cross tracks of other street railway companies at the points of intersection.

As a result of the refusal of the State Railroad Commissioners to grant a "Certificate of Public Convenience and a Necessity" for two of the original lines, the franchises now owned are in nearly every case transverse or cross-town lines, the only exception being the north and south line on Summit, Lind and Aqueduct avs, which extends into the Borough of Manhattan by the way of Central Bridge to 8th av.

The crosstown lines are: one, beginning in the Borough of Manhattan at Lenox av and 145th st, extending east as far as Bronx River; a second, beginning at St. Nicholas av and 181st st, in the Borough of Manhattan, across the Washington Bridge, and extending east as far as Westchester Creek by way of 177th st; and a third, beginning at West 230th st and Bailey av, and extending east as far as the Bronx Park, and thence south to and connecting with the crosstown line last described. In addition, this third line has two branches, one extending to 238th st and Corlear av, and another on Decatur av, extending to and on 200th st, to the Jerome Park Reservoir. There is also a line which extends from Crotona Park to Hunt's Point.

EACH SYSTEM TO SERVE A SEPARATE PURPOSE.

Engineer Harry P. Nichols, of the Department of Finance, considers that each of the two railway systems in the Bronx, as made up by the existing routes and the routes he has recommended to be granted as extensions, would, although in a measure they are competing systems, serve a distinct and separate purpose. The "Union Company," by its many north and south lines leading from the Harlem River to the City Line, and to towns beyond, and by a universal transfer system to its transverse lines, would claim a large part of the local street surface railway traffic within the Bronx and to the towns beyond the city limits. The "Interborough Company's" system, made up largely of transverse lines extending into the Borough of Manhattan and connecting with the stations of the subway, elevated and steam railroads, would be chiefly a system for feeding those lines, and the majority of its patrons would be those who desire to transfer to them. There being no transfer points to north and south lines of its own, little time would be lost by the transferring of passengers, and the running time would, therefore, be somewhat less than that of the "Union Company." This would give the "Interborough Company" an advantage over the "Union Company" for this class of traffic, providing the same terms of transfer to other roads are adopted by both companies.

It is true that the "Interborough Company" would get some of the local traffic within the Bronx, and that the "Union Company" would get considerable of the traffic to subway, elevated and steam roads, and by this means competition would be created between the companies, which would tend to raise the standard of operation of the "Union Company" and cause the "Interborough Company" to set a high standard for the operation of its lines.

The petition of the "Interborough Company" was received by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment on June 30, 1905, and is printed in full in the minutes of that date. In pursuance of law, the Board fixed a day for a public hearing to wit, Sept. 15. At the public hearing counsel appeared on behalf of the Union Railway Company, stating that the applications of the "Interborough Company" conflicted seriously with those made previously by the "Union Company," and that the "Union Company," which was operating north and south lines, was in a better position to afford cheap transportation to all the people of the Borough of the Bronx, if its routes were granted, than the "Interborough Company," and they requested that the Board make careful consideration of the separate routes asked by each company before making its decision. Subsequently, counsel submitted a brief upon the subject, taking up the routes separately and drawing comparisons of the advantages which the extensions would afford the public if granted to either company. Various property owners spoke in favor of granting the extensions proposed.

Before presenting any terms and conditions under which a franchise should be granted, the application of the Interborough Company will probably be referred back to the Interborough Company for amendment.

The Southern Boulevard Railroad Company has presented a petition to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment of the city of New York praying that the Board grant the company the right to construct four extensions to its existing street surface railway, and covering about two miles of streets:

Route 1.—From the existing tracks on Southern Boulevard at Boston road, north on Southern Boulevard to East 182d st, west on East 182d st to Crotona av, on Crotona av to and connecting with the franchise route claimed by the "Union Company" on Pelham av, but as yet unconstructed. Length of single track, 16,120 ft.

Route 2.—From the existing tracks on Southern Boulevard at Cypress av, south on Cypress av to East 132d st, west on East 132d st to St. Ann's av, north on St. Ann's av to and connecting with the existing tracks on Southern Boulevard. Length of single track, 3,560 ft.

Route 3.—From the existing tracks of the "Boulevard Company" on Southern Boulevard, easterly on Leggett av to Garrison av, connecting with the Casanova station of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad. Length of single track, 1,400 ft.

Route 4.—From the existing tracks of the "Boulevard Company" on Southern Boulevard, easterly on Hunt's Point road to Garrison av, connecting with the Hunt's Point station of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad. Length of single track, 1,600 ft.

"FIREPROOF WOOD" IMPEACHED

"Worse than Worthless" Says Prof. Atkinson—Architects and Builders Demand that the Stuff be No Longer Required by Building Code—Alderman Ware's Amendment

At the regular meeting of the Board of Aldermen this week, Alderman Franklin B. Ware introduced the following:

AN ORDNANCE to amend Section 105 of the Building Code relative to the fireproof building. Be is Ordained by the Board of Aldermen of The City of New York as follows: That Section 105 of the Building Code of The City of New York is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 105—Fireproof Buildings. Every building hereafter erected or altered, to be used as a hotel, lodging-house, school, theatre, jail, police station, hospital, asylum, institution for the care or treatment of persons, the height of which exceeds thirty-five feet, excepting all buildings for which specifications and plans have been heretofore submitted to and approved by the Bureau of Buildings, and every other building the height of which exceeds seventy-five feet, except as herein otherwise provided, shall be built fireproof, that is to say, they shall be constructed with walls of brick, stone, Portland cement concrete, iron or steel, in which wood beams of lintels shall not be placed, and in which the floors and roofs shall be of materials provided for in Section 106 of this Code. The stairs and staircase landings shall be built entirely of brick, stone, Portland cement concrete, iron or steel. No woodwork or other inflammable material shall be used in any of the partitions, furrings or ceilings in any such fireproof buildings, excepting, however, that [when the height of the building does not exceed twelve stories nor more than one hundred and fifty feet], the doors and windows and their frames, the trims, the casings, the interior finish when filled solid at the back with fireproof material, and the floor boards and sleepers directly thereunder, may be of wood, but the space between the sleepers shall be solidly filled with firproof materials and extend up to the under side of the floor boards.

[BUCKS AND SLEEPERS.]

When the height of a fireproof building exceeds twelve stories, or more than one hundred and fifty feet, the floor surfaces shall be of stone, cement, rock asphalt, tiling or similar incombustible material [for the sleepers and floors may be of wood treated by some process, approved by the Bureau of Buildings, to render the same fireproof]. All outside window frames and sash shall be of metal, or of wood covered with metal. The inside window frames and sash, doors, trim and other interior finish may be of HARD wood [covered with metal, or of wood treated by some process approved by the Bureau of Buildings to render the same fireproof.]

All hall partitions or permanent partitions between rooms in fireproof buildings shall be built of fireproof material and shall not be started on wood sills, nor on wood floor boards, but be built upon the fireproof construction of the floor and extend to the fireproof beam filling above. The tops of all door and window openings in such partitions shall be at least twelve inches below the ceiling line.

Explanation—Matter in caps is new; matter in brackets [ ] is old wording to be omitted.

Which was referred to the Committee on Buildings.

ALDERMAN WARE'S VIEWS.

Alderman Ware, the introducer of the amendment, who is himself an architect, a member of the firm of James B. Ware & Son, 1170 Broadway, and has the entire confidence of the building trades, said to a representative of the Record and Guide on Wednesday:

"During the past four years while a member of the Board of Aldermen, numerous unsuccessful attempts have been made to amend Section 105 of the Code, all of them undoubtedly introduced through the influence of the manufacturers and having for their object the opening up of a larger field for the use of 'fireproof wood' by compelling its use in buildings under one hundred and fifty feet in height. At present there is being considered by the Committee on Buildings of the Board an amendment which, if it became law, would require its use in all buildings over one hundred feet in height.

"The time has come when everyone interested in the building industry should carefully consider whether the requirements of the Code in relation to the use of 'fireproof wood' are advisable.

"The records of the Bureau of Buildings show that thousands of feet of 'fireproof wood' have been rejected because it could not stand ordinary tests. Whether the wood was improperly treated because of some oversight or defect in the system, or whether the wood never received any treatment because of unscrupulous manufacture, it matters not, it proves conclusively that 'fireproof wood' should not be placed on the same level with true fireproof substances, which position it now holds.

"Recently the United States Government abandoned its use in their war vessels, where formerly it was used more or less extensively. The New York Board of Fire Underwriters no longer consider that its use justifies a reduction in the insurance rate, and the National Board of Fire Underwriters in their Model Building Code just issued, do not mention it as a fireproof or fire-resisting substance, nor do they require its use in buildings, no matter what the height. The New York Chapter of the American Institute of Architects is on record as being opposed to an amendment compelling its use in buildings under 150 feet high, and so also is the Building Trades Association of this city.

"Considering the above facts, it seemed to me proper to introduce an amendment to Section 105 of the Code which would disregard 'fireproof wood' entirely. In order to find out if such a change is desirable, I hope that everyone interested will attend the public hearing soon to be held, due notice of which will be given in the City Record."

HOW IT CAME INTO THE BUILDING CODE.

Mr. William J. Fryer, Chairman of the Board of Examiners and a member of the Commission that drafted the Building Code of 1899, on being asked how it was that the requirement for so-called 'fireproof wood' was incorporated in the Building Code, said:

"It went into the building code because it was thought at the time to be a good thing, and would provide an additional safeguard against fire in high buildings. The Building Code Commissioners determined to put no limitation for height of buildings in the code, as any such limitation would occasion much delay and opposition to the ordinance, and so turned its attention to incorporating in the code requirements that would make high buildings so safe that a fire in any one would do no great harm either to itself or adjoining buildings. Standpipes, hose, auxiliary fire apparatus, steam pumps and at least one passenger elevator to be kept in readiness for the use of the Fire Department during all hours of the day and night, including Sundays and holidays, were among the many requirements thus included. Also there was finally included the provision in Section 105 for the use of so-called 'fireproof wood.'

"At the time there was not much known about treated wood. It was known at that time that the Navy Department had adopted a fireproof treatment for the wood used in its battleships, and for several important buildings in this city architects had specified its use. This treatment consisted of chemical solutions forced into the wood under pressure. The disadvantages of using such wood was revealed later. Some three years after the adoption of the code, the National Fire Protection Association made an elaborate investigation of the subject, and reached the conclusion that the word 'fireproof' as applied to treated wood was a misnomer. The New York Fire Exchange has discontinued all allowance in rate for such wood entering into the construction of buildings. The Underwriters Model Building Code takes no cognizance of wood treated by so-called fireproof processes. The Navy Department has discontinued the use of this character of wood. That Department made a thorough investigation, the details of which have not been given to the public; but it is learned that wherever this wood came in contact with metal the latter corroded very rapidly. Not only has the use of this wood been discontinued, but large quantities have been torn out of the ships. The heating of tar kettles by burning the so-called 'fireproof wood' under them that had been stripped from the decks of ships of war was witnessed. It is also stated that splinters from this wood entered and poisoned the bare feet and hands of the sailors. In the buildings in New York where it has been used—and it has not been used in any building outside of New York, as far as I know, the chemical ingredients forced into the wood evaporate and ooze out and disfigure the finished surfaces and peel off the varnish; nails and screws and hardware are corroded and eaten away: dampness draws the 'fireproofing' out of the wood, so that floor boards and base boards which frequently have to be washed with water and soap or lye become no better in a short time than if they had never been treated; copper nails and sheet copper wherever in contact with this wood is promptly attacked by verdigris or a green fungus substance that entirely eats away the metal. On an important building the copper lining of a gutter nailed to so-called 'fireproof wood' soon became honeycombed; the treated wood was torn away and replaced with natural wood and lined with new copper. In another case sheet copper nailed to treated wood strips, the latter nailed to brick walls, had to be entirely removed and the treated wood replaced with plain wood and entirely new copper substituted; and this in less than nine months' time from the original installation. It so happened that an equally large adjoining surface had been put up where the sheet copper had been nailed to untreated wood strips, and here the work was in perfect condition. Then the time required for getting wood treated by so-called fireproof processes seriously interferes with the completion of a building within contract time, and particularly in the case of putting up partitions to suit tenants' needs for floor space vexatious and costly delays are occasioned. The treated wood is exceedingly hard to work, and the cost in place is increased two or three times that of untreated wood. No other city has followed New York's lead in requiring the use of so-called fireproof wood. I know of no architect who willingly specifies such wood."

SHOULD BE ELIMINATED.

"What remedy would you suggest?" was asked of Mr. Fryer, and in reply he further said:

"Amend the Building Code by striking from Section 105 all reference to so-called 'fireproof wood.' The bill recently introduced by Alderman Ware in the Board of Aldermen goes to the root of the matter. No half-way measure will answer. The requirement for the use of treated wood was put into the code without a thorough knowledge of the subject. Although it was put in with the very best of intentions, it has turned out to be an impracticable and unfair requirement, and therefore this unjust, unnecessary and burdensome provision should be repealed. There are but three manufacturers of this material now attempting supply for the New York market. Their several processes are analogous; tests have shown that there is no great difference in the operation of the different salts with which the wood is treated after it is kiln dried and made receptive for the solutions to soak into it, and on drying to leave a part of the dissolved salts in the cellular structure of the wood. If the material has the merit that these manufacturers claim for it architects everywhere will specify it. But at present it is an artificial business fostered entirely by the building code, and this is wrong in principle and practice. The manufacturers have abandoned their former claims that treated wood is 'fireproof,' and as Prof. Charles L. Norton, in charge of the Insurance Engineering Experiment Station in Boston, says in his second report on fireproof or non-inflammable wood, published in August last, the manufacturers desire to be understood as putting forward the material as being less likely to take fire, as burning with less flame, and as being less likely when once afire, to carry fire along its own length and breadth.

"Prof. Norton made elaborate tests in July, 1902, and again in July, 1905. (For report in full, see Page II. of this paper.) In his last report Prof. Norton says: 'It was noted all through the tests that the fumes of the burning wood was intensely pungent, irritating to eyes and throat, and caused in the case of a number of persons exposed to them for some days acute illness for a short time. In case of fire, it is probable that the firemen would find this smoke a hindrance in entering and working in a building trimmed with 'fireproof wood.' The amount of fixed wood allowed by the code in trim, etc., is not enough to make the fire hazard appreciably greater in a building than if the limited quantity is treated by some so-called fireproof processes. Hard wood, such as oak, maple, mahogany, etc., untreated, burns very slowly anyway. The furniture and draperies in a room are far more dangerous as food for flames than the trim or even the flooring. The day for wood floor boards in high buildings has gone by. Halls, toilet rooms, etc., are almost invariably tiled and the other floor surfaces would be better of similar incombustible material, as many of the high buildings now are.

"Edward Atkinson, the world-wide known insurance expert, has said 'that if the so-called fireproof finish of a building otherwise incombustible is exposed to a high temperature from the combustion of the contents of any room in the building, the chemicals will be speedily distilled; the so-called 'fireproof wood' then becomes ignited and will continue to burn or the fire will go out substantially according to the kind of wood that has been treated.' Mr. Atkinson has also well said: 'The rapid inflaming of hard wood interior finish is commonly due to the use of what we call incendiary varnishes. Nearly every varnish is made of such material that from a spark or match fire will spread over the whole face of the wood work with the speed of a race-horse.' This applies to treated as well as untreated wood.

"So-called 'fireproof wood' is a fake, and from being a believer in the merits of treated wood I have become convinced that it is the very opposite and by reason of its demerits should not be used at all, certainly that its use should not be forced on the public through what is in effect a mandatory provision in the building code. It is probable that a test case taken into the courts would result in the annulment of that portion of Section 105 relating to the so-called fireproofing of wood under a proper showing of the objections thereto, including the presentation of the fact that the only processes available to builders are covered by patents, all these being expressly against public policy and therefore void in law. The shorter way, however, is to amend the building code, and to this end the bill introduced by Alderman Ware deserves to and should receive the aproval of all architects and builders and the endorsement of all societies and associations representing building interests."

A Case in Point.

Mr. Fryer refers to the corroding effect of 'fireproof wood' on metal. The attention of architects and builders has only recently been drawn to this mischief-working proclivity, but a conspicuous instance of it has been discovered on the roof of the beautiful Trinity Building by Mr. Ganson, the superintendent of construction, and was this week called to the attention of Mr. Fryer and the writer. Where the walls rise above the roof line the specifications called for an interior flashing or lining of copper sheathing nailed to studding or strips of "fireproof wood," as outside covering for the elevator enclosure walls or bulkheads, and for a lining of the surfaces of the parapet walls. One day last week Mr. Ganson noticed that the copper was seriously corroded. In a number of places holes had been eaten right through the metal. At first he was at a loss to account for the damage, but an investigation which he instituted disclosed a remarkable state of facts. Wherever the copper touched the treated wood the process of corrosion had set in, and although the work was only finished about nine months ago the corrosion had reached an advanced stage, the nails being deeply rusted, the metal punctured in places, and upon the heads of the nails was a deep incrustation of the green salts that had been formed by the action set up between the chemicals in the wood and the metal. Wherever the metal touched the treated wood were marks of corrosion corresponding to the width of the studding. As the weather would soon have played havoc with the walls, all the copper sheathing was ordered taken off. Then a discovery was made which convicted the 'fireproof wood' beyond all peradventure. It appears that when the construction of this part of the building was in course that, owing to the non-delivery of sufficient fireproof strips at the time required, a number of strips of non-treated wood were inserted to nail the copper sheets to, and where these were used no corrosion was found, and the lining was in as good condition as when put in. The work of removing the copper is still going on, as it is a tedious task in places, not to say an extensive one; and as each piece is chiseled off the same story is told—deep corrosion wherever the 'fireproof wood' has touched the metal, but no injury at all where the common scantlings were used as nailing strips.

President Paul Starrett, of the George A. Fuller Co., general contractor for the Trinity Building, has some samples of the damaged copper and the deeply rusted nails in his office at the Flatiron Building.

What processes of deterioration are going on in the Trinity Building other than that discovered and described can only be conjectured, but are the subject of some apprehension. It is known that the costly mahogany trim, which was as smooth as velvet when it left the workmen's hands, now feels rough to the touch, and Mr. Starrett thinks this also is chargeable to the "fireproofing."

Mr. Starrett is earnestly in favor of the striking out the requirement for "fireproof wood" from the Building Code. He said this week that as the amount of wood in a fireproof building was not sufficient to feed any conflagration, the treatment of this wood for fireproofing processes was unnecessary. For reasons which he gave he also considered it impractical.

WHAT PAUL STARRETT SAYS.

"There are only three concerns who do this fireproofing," he said. "They all have small capital and plants of inadequate capacity. 'Fireproofing wood' under the most favorable conditions cannot be uniformly done, and in cases where material is required quickly in large operations we have never been able to get wood treated in a manner satisfactory to the Building Department; or in other words, we cannot get it so thoroughly done but what one of the rival concerns which did not get the order can pick out pieces which are not fireproof, even though they have been conscientiously treated.

"The chemicals forced into the wood render it very difficult to finish, frequently destroying the varnish and disfiguring the appearance of the finished wood work very badly. Wherever water or dampness gets at the treated wood it draws the fireproofing out of the wood and in a short time it is no better than if it had not been treated. This is especially true in floors that have to be washed from time to time. Pieces of floor and baseboard taken from parts of buildings where 'fireproofed wood' was installed several years ago, burn as readily as non-fireproofed wood.

"'Fireproofed wood' was first adopted for use in construction of ships for the Navy before it was placed in buildings. It has been found by the Navy Department to be impractical, and is now discarded. The Fire Underwriters do not recognize it as of any value in fireproof buildings. They charge as high a rate for a building with 'fireproofed wood' as with non-fireproofed. The law simply states that wood used in buildings over 150 feet in height must be treated by some process approved by the Building Department. Even after a contractor has had this done, and has had his own men at the fireproofing works to oversee the work, he is continually subjected to harassment, delay and loss, because he is held responsible for all the defects of an impractical provision of the Building Code."

Laboratory Tests.

Beginning on page II. of this paper will be found the report (No. 18) by Prof. Norton of the second test of "fireproof" wood made at the Insurance Engineering Experiment Station at Boston, which is under the immediate direction of Dr. Edward Atkinson.

Dr. Atkinson's introductory, after reviewing the history of the material and referring to the first tests, gives this explanation of the reason for making a second test:

"We had given no further attention to this matter until within the last few months. Many of our correspondents on various safeguards against fire, especially in the city of New York, have urgently requested that we make another test, alleging that they were being put to heavy expense under the duress of city ordnances to put inside finish of so-called "fireproof" wood within their buildings which they themselves distrust and where they would much have preferred to put in fire and heat resistant finish of a positively incombustible quality, in their judgment much safer than this chemically treated wood. It was also claimed on the other side by the representatives of these materials that great improvements had been made. They are now claimed to be flame-resistant, but the former claims of being absolutely fireproof are no longer put forward."

Dr. Atkinson's conclusion, based on tests antedating those recorded in Report No. 18, is "that there is no possible ground on which the use of this prepared wood should be made compulsory by the city ordnances or act of Legislature, but that it may be suitable for adoption in certain cases by owners and builders on its merits as herein developed by these tests."

Dr Atkinson left upon a European tour before the second test was made, which was a few weeks ago; but previous to his departure, he arranged for the experiments. In a letter under date of June 7, 1905, addressed the George A. Fuller Co., Dr. Atkinson said:

I had knowledge of this method more than twenty years ago and had condemned it as useless. These treated woods never attained any position in Boston, and are not to be found here.

The Navy Department had used a great deal of it, but had discovered how worthless it was, and also that when laid in the bottom of berths and cupboards in contact with galvanized iron pipes it had eaten them all up. I observe that some of the makers of fireproof wood still assert that it is being used in the Navy. I wrote to the Secretary and have a letter from him denying that statement. It is no longer used in naval vessels.

I have offered to the authorities in the State of New York to repeat these tests if they will supply examples of the different types of wood now being put in. I understand that the Building Department may avail itself of this offer, but there is long delay. I now make the following proposal to you:

Secure in advance examples of every type of fireproof wood that is now being put into New York buildings, not less than six slabs four feet long, of customary width and thickness. Mark each type with a letter or number without having the name of the maker on either set. Send these to the address of Professor Charles L. Norton, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Boston. Then send me a list of all the makers of so-called fireproof wood. . . . If you appprove of this plan, please act upon it. It is time that this stuff was thrown out. It is worse than worthless so far as any example has yet been found. Yours very truly,

(Sgd.) EDWARD ATKINSON.

The report of the tests thus arranged for was written by Prof. Norton. It reiterates the principal intent of the first report, and nothing was discovered that changes the view now unanimously held by builders, that the compulsory requirement of the Building Code is unwarranted by any virtue contained in the treated wood, that it is a hardship upon builders and owners and inefficacious in practice. Let those who wish use it, but don't make its use mandatory.

MR. CLINTON'S VIEW.

One final opinion for this time. Mr. Charles Clinton, head of the firm of Clinton & Russell, leading architects, remarked this week: "In our experience we find that wood treated by a chemical process deteriorates in quality rapidly, especially if subjected to moisture. The color and texture is materially destroyed, and as the amount of trim used in a modern high building is very small as compared with the fireproof materials entering into its construction, we consider that the above section of the Code makes a hardship on owners."

---

The Geo. A. Fuller Company has obtained the contract for the 9-sty fireproof warehouse to be erected for Henry Sonneborn & Co., at Pratt, Paca and King sts, Baltimore, Md. The dimensions of the building are 157x173, and the cost will be $375,000. Messrs. Simonson & Pietch are the architects. Brick, limestone, granite and terra cotta will be used.

They have also obtained the contract for the Gaiety Theatre, Baltimore, Md., for the Columbia Amusement Company, composed of a body of New York City theatrical managers. It will cost about $100,000. The size is 67x120. Brick and terra cotta will be used. (See Record and Guide Sept. 30, Page VIII.)

Allied Real Estate Interests Growing.

Already the membership of the Allied Real Estate Interests of the State of New York has amounted to one thousand, and the work of enrollment has scarcely begun. Secretary Allan Robinson, as well as the other officers, is delighted with the way the property interests are taking hold, and so emphatic has been the success thus far that no one is prepared to gainsay the prediction that eventually the organization will contain a hundred thousand members. By the time the Legislature meets the Allied Interests will hold a very strong position throughout the State. A recent letter sent out by the organization to the owners of mortgaged real estate reads:

As an owner of mortgaged real estate we desire to call your attention to the increase in interest rates on mortgages since the Mortgage Tax Law went into effect on July 1, 1905. This Act imposes a tax of one-half of one per cent. on all mortgages filed on and after that date. The Legislature assumed that it could make the mortgagee pay this tax, and so he does, but he has raised the rate of interest one-half of one per cent. or more, and the burden is, in reality, on the borrower.

The following table taken from the Real Estate Record and Guide of Sept. 16, 1905, shows the effect of this tax in New York City:

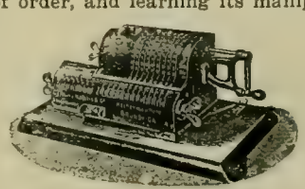
Mortgages recorded in the week ending September 14th, 1905, in Brooklyn, Manhattan and the Bronx.

| | 1905. | 1904. |
|---|---|---|
| Total number | 693 | 663 |
| Amount involved | $4,685,270 | $9,215,819 |
| Number at 6 % | 485 | 313 |
| Number at 5½ % | 91 | 7 |
| Number at 5 % | 106 | 307 |
| Number at 4½ % | 9 | 30 |
| Number at 4 % | 1 | 6 |

This table shows a decided increase in the number of five and one-half and six per cent. mortgages and a corresponding decrease in those of lower rate, indicating that the tax has been added to the interest rate and the borrower might just as well have been required to pay the tax.

As an owner of mortgaged real estate and likely soon to feel, if you have not already felt, the effects of the Mortgage Tax Law, you are invited to join this organization, one of the purposes of which is to endeavor to obtain the repeal or amendment of this law at the next session of the Legislature. No liability, other than the payment of the annual dues of five dollars attaches to members. Very truly yours, Edward Van Ingen, President.

Applications for membership should be sent with the amount of the membership dues to the Secretary, Allan Robinson, 25 Broad st, New York City. Checks should be drawn to the order of B. Aymar Sands, Treasurer.



An extract from another circular letter follows:

"As a result of the operation of the Mortgage Tax Law interest rates on mortgages filed this year have increased over rates in the corresponding period in 1904. This means that the owners of mortgaged real property are placed at a disadvantage, as compared with owners of unencumbered real property, and in consequence their building activities will be affected. If your business brings you in touch with those affected by this double taxation, you will suffer from the same causes that injure them. This organization, one of whose chief objects is to endeavor to obtain the repeal or amendment of the Mortgage Tax Law, has been perfected to protect your interests as well as other interests allied to real estate, and you are earnestly urged to join and to assist in obtaining as large a membership as possible."

An Advisory Committee has just been selected from among the Manhattan and Bronx membership. Later on representatives of Brooklyn, the Hudson River cities and those of the Central and Western parts of the State will be added. The office staff now numbers nine, and it is a very busy place.

The Brunsviga Calculating Machine.

The accompanying illustration shows a form of mechanical calculating machine which is in extended use in Europe and has been introduced in a number of large offices in this country. It performs the four principal functions of arithmetic, multiplication, division, addition, and subtraction, and is adapted for much more complex calculations such as square root, foreign exchange, ratios, etc. It is simple and strong in construction, cannot get out of order, and learning its manipulation is only a matter of a few minutes' practice. After having "set" the necessary figures for the calculation on the cover plate by means of the small levers, the working consists of turning the handle at the side and moving the lower figure case or slide. The figures are always visible during a calculation, and if a mistake is made it can at once be rectified by turning the handle in the opposite direction, thus avoiding the necessity of commencing again at the beginning of the calculation. The machine is especially adapted for multiplication and division, and is, of course, absolutely accurate. It is made in three sizes, having 18, 13 and 9 figures respectively for the products. The larger sizes are fitted with a bell which rings when the calculation is beyond the capacity of the machine. The machines are sold in the United States by Felix Hamburger, 90 William st, New York.

Here is what some users say of the Brunsviga:

American Locomotive Co., New York, N. Y.
"July 26, 1905.

"Have been using the machine in our office for the past three years and it has given entire satisfaction."

J. B. & J. M. Cornell Co., Iron Works, New York, N. Y.
"July 26, 1905.

"Used it to a considerable extent and invariably found it most convenient and satisfactory."

Extract from an article by A. W. Buel, C. E., on "Cost Keeping in General Construction and Contract Work," in the August, 1905, number of the "Engineering Magazine," New York and London:

"For the purpose of carrying out and distributing general expense, and all similar accounts, I have found a Brunsviga calculating machine a very great relief and time saver. It will multiply and divide, pro-rate and compute interest, quickly and accurately. It is simple, and can be operated with less liability to error than any other machine with which I have worked, on account of the facility it affords for checking the work and correcting an error without going back over the entire computation. It will carry a long series of computations and give both the partial and final results.

"An up-to-date accounting department of a large company should be supplied with the best facilities if it is expected to turn out good work economically. This machine both saves time of valuable men, and to some extent permits certain parts of the work to be performed by cheaper labor."

THE REALM OF BUILDING

New Union Square Bank.

UNION SQUARE.—The Union Square Savings Bank will erect in the spring a new banking house, at No. 20 Union Square, from plans by Henry Bacon, of 160 5th av. The general contract has been awarded to Marc Eidlitz & Son, of 489 5th av. The new structure will be one or two stories in height, with a facade of marble, 25x100 ft in size, and cost about $150,000. It will be for the sole use of the bank, of which F. H. Hutchinson is president, informs the Record and Guide that no plans or architect have yet been selected for the new bank building, which they will erect on a plot 37½x75 feet, at Nos. 5-7 Park Place. The new building will be a handsome structure, and will be occupied entirely by the banking firm. Just what style of architecture and materials to be used is also at this time undecided, and of course no awards have been made for its construction. Further particulars will be given in a few weeks.

5TH AV.—The Record and Guide is informed that nothing definite has yet been determined who the successful architect will be for new St. Thomas's edifice to be erected at Fifth av, the northwest corner of 53d st, for St. Thomas's Episcopal Church, except that the selection will be made in competition among well-known invited architects, and the award made through a committee of the board of trustees, of which the Rev. Ernest M. Stires, rector, is the head. Brownstone will be used, the architecture being high-Gothic, and the estimated cost about half a million dollars. The contract for the $25,000 temporary structure of brick, is being advanced by the Andrew J. Robinson Co., 123 East 23d st, from plans by Carpenter & Blair, of 569 5th av. Preliminary sketches have been in course of preparation in the office of R. W. Gibson, 76 William st, for the new parish house and rectory, which it is proposed to build in the rear of the church in 53d st, at a reported expenditure of $200,000. It has now been decided that this project will be carried out and constructed when the church is built, although the new rectory was contemplated before the church disaster. De Witt L. ## BUILDING NOTES

Builders are still sawing wood. But they prefer it plain.

The burdens of real estate are heavy enough.—Why add "fireproof" wood?

Why has the Navy Department never told why they ripped out "fireproof" wood?

It is estimated among builders that it will take 20 years to build the Panama Canal at a cost of $1,000,000,000.

What becomes of all the shavings from "fireproof" wood? Never see any kicking around. Do they sink or float out to sea?

The Eastern Sheet Steel Works, 39 Cortlandt st, have just established a branch office in Philadelphia, 1239 Land Title Building.

Mr. Robert Thompson, treasurer of the National Ventilating Co., I Madison av, is back at his desk after a long and serious illness.

"It is time that this stuff was thrown out."—Prof. Edward Atkinson, director of the Insurance Engineering Experiment Station at Boston made this remark concerning fireproof wood.

A. D. F. Hamlin, consulting architect for the committee on site for the proposed central library in Brooklyn, has submitted a report approving the site at the junction of Flatbush avenue, Eastern parkway and the Plaza, which had already been selected by the committee.

CONVEYANCES

Whenever the letters Q. C., C. a. G. and B. & S. occur, preceded by the name of the grantee, they mean as follows:

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Baragain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it. The street or avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

4th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

5th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

6th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

7th.—A $20,000—$30,000 ndicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only, and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before 2d figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction.

MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

September 29, 30, October 2, 3, 4, 5.

JUDGMENTS

In these lists of Judgments the names alphabetically arranged and which are first on each line, are those of the judgment debtor. The letter (D) means judgment for deficiency. (*) means not summoned. (†) signifies that the first name is fictitious, real name being unknown. Judgments entered during the week and satisfied before day of publication, do not appear in this column but in list of Satisfied Judgments.

The Judgments filed against corporations, etc., will be found at the end of the list.

THE speculative situation in Wall street continues essentially unchanged, and may be fairly summed up somewhat in the following terms: The majority of professional operators realize that conditions are not favorable at present for any considerable or sustained advance in prices; but they are convinced that such an advance will take place, at least in certain stocks, some time during the coming winter. The consequence is that in spite of dear money and the admitted opposition of strong banking interests they prefer rather to buy stocks than sell them. Their purchases do not serve to advance prices very much except in certain specialties; but they frequently give a feverish and somewhat uncertain air to the market. It would be distinctly better that for the next six weeks the market should be dull and a little weak, because when the money stringency is over a buying movement might start on a somewhat lower level which would carry stocks to a higher one than they have yet reached. It is improbable, however, either that prices will sag very much in the near future or that they will advance. They will not sag, because a good demand for stocks soon develops on a slightly lower level, and they will not advance for the present, because the bankers recognize the danger of encouraging speculation under existing conditions. Mr. Frank Vanderlip, in emphasizing this danger, was only repeating what all conservative financiers have been saying during the past two months. The market is likely to remain irregular, uncertain and somewhat treacherous until loanable capital returns in large quantities to New York. Then there should be room for a higher level of prices for certain selected securities, chiefly industrial.

A WELL-DISTRIBUTED activity in certain restricted classes of property remains the dominant characteristic of the real estate market. There is a large amount of ordinary speculative and investment business consummated every week. Tenements which are being completed find a ready sale, and there is a constant demand for lots situated in the active districts which are intended for immediate improvement. All this, however, is an old, although a good, story; and the question is whether the market will continue indefinitely to preserve this routine character, or whether an outburst of speculative interest in some new district will soon develop. On the whole, it looks as if the routine would remain undisturbed for some months to come. The operators and speculators indulged in an orgy of trading in accessible vacant land last year; and they will have to postpone further exploits of a similar kind until the level of prices so established has been justified by the results of building operations. It may well be, however, that greater activity will soon develop in the Dyckman tract. In a short while the Subway will be in operation all the way to Kingsbridge; and the whole Inwood section will become more accessible than are large areas of the Bronx, in which a great deal of building is under way. The level of prices in this section is not yet too high; and there is room for further speculative advance in anticipation of the beginning of building operations. In business property of all kinds very little interest is being shown; and this interest is being confined to the section north of 23d street, between Fourth and Seventh avenues. The area so described will be the scene of a good deal of activity during the current season. The wholesale district south of 23d street does not contain much more room for new buildings; and when the six or seven Fifth avenue corners now under improvement in that vicinity are supplied with their new equipment, the builders of big lofts will have to seek new opportunities north of 23d street. Inasmuch as they are excluded from Fifth avenue because of high prices, and as there are only a few available sites on Broadway, the question as to which avenue will be chosen for this exploitation is interesting and important. It looks to the Record and Guide as if both Madison and Sixth avenues south of 32d street might become thoroughfares available for large loft buildings. Operators who erect these structures like to keep as near as possible to the retail trade, and also along the most central avenues, which they can afford; and Madison and Sixth avenues conform to these requirements.

THE expectation that the tax on mortgages imposed by the Legislature at its last session would tend to increase the amount of money offered for investment in mortgages and so reduce the rate of interest until the tax was paid by the lender, has up to date been completely falsified by the event. The mortgage records show plainly that the tax is being almost universally paid by the borrower, and that one-half of one per cent. has been added to the rate which he would otherwise have been obliged to pay for his loan. The following table shows the number of mortgages recorded during the past three weeks on property situated in Manhattan, the Bronx and Brooklyn compared to the figures for the corresponding week last year:

|---|---|---|
| Mortgages at 6 per cent | 1,634 | 1,188 |
| At 5½ per cent | 435 | 13 |
| At 5 per cent | 259 | 1,153 |
| At 4½ per cent | 31 | 131 |

Such figures as these cannot be misread. Although there were fewer mortgages recorded during the three weeks of 1905 than there were during the three weeks of 1904, the decrease took place entirely in mortgages which carried interest at the rate of five per cent or less. The number of mortgages carrying interest at six per cent increased from 1,188 to 1,634. The number of mortgages carrying interest at 5½ per cent. increased from 13 to 435, which amounts to a demonstration that the money which a year ago would have been loaned at 5 per cent. has been loaned at 5½ per cent, except when the lenders could obtain six per cent. On the other hand, the 1,153 five per cent. mortgages which were recorded last year have in 1905 shrunk merely to 259, while the 131 four and one-half per cent. mortgages have diminished to 31. As to four per cent. loans, there are practically none of them being recorded at present. Thus every borrower is either paying an additional one-half of one per cent. for his money, or else he is paying more than that; and the increased annual charge which this is will be not far from $2,500,000 each year. This money can be paid without any tremendous strain at the present time, because buildings of all kinds are well rented and building operations profitable; but it is an outrage that this additional charge should be laid upon the people who already pay the bulk of the local and state taxes. The success of the new organization of property owners, the Allied Real Estate Interests, in securing a large membership, is a sufficient evidence that the sufferers from this tax are fully alive to its gross injustice; and the course of the market for mortgages on real estate during the next few months will supply them with an abundance of facts, which can be used with telling effect during the next session of the Legislature.

THE municipal campaign which will occupy the next few weeks promises to be much more interesting than seemed probable a short time ago. The Republicans have obtained in their nominee for Mayor a candidate who is fully capable of making an energetic and effective canvass; and while Mr. Ivins has practically no chance of being elected, he will be able and willing to put up a fight which will do Tammany a great deal of harm. The administration of Mayor McClellan is by no means so impeccable as many of his supporters appear to imagine; and his opponent will have an abundance of ammunition with which to make his speeches explosive and dangerous. Moreover, the action of Tammany in nominating a separate candidate for District Attorney will afford Mr. Ivins the strong support of Mr. Jerome. We believe that the Tammany leaders were unwise from their own point of view in not endorsing Mr. Jerome. It was to the interest of that organization to provoke as little opposition as possible during the campaign this fall. But it is a good thing for the city of New York that Mr. Jerome should be forced to take the stump. He may well be beaten; but it is better that he should be beaten after a good fight than that the non-partisan reform ideal should be wholly unrepresented in this important municipal campaign. As for Mr. Hearst, he also will add an interesting phase to the canvass. We have no liking for Mr. Hearst personally; and we believe that his programme of inveterate and uncompromising hostility to the local corporations is both impracticable and unwise. But Mr. Hearst at all events stands for certain ideas in respect to the government of this city which have their value and which need to be agitated. It will be extremely interesting to discover how much of a following Mr. Hearst can obtain on a platform of radical municipal socialism and with the assistance of his newspaper. He has not the remotest chance of election; but he may poll a larger vote than many people suspect or anticipate.

THERE is nothing more extraordinary than the capacity for almost indefinite expansion shown by passenger traffic of such a city as New York. The annual report of the New York City Railway Co., issued during the past week, shows that the operation of the Subway has had comparatively little effect upon the gross earnings of the company. These earnings did indeed decrease by over $500,000 during the course of the year, but the decrease is attributed chiefly to the severe winter, and it is stated that during the summer months the surface cars carried more passengers than they did during the corresponding months of the previous year. Moreover, this traffic was more profitable, because it was obtained by the substitution of passengers who traveled only a short distance for passengers who traveled a very much longer distance. The net result of the operation of the Subway has been to add something over 100,000,000 passengers to the total number which are carried each year in New York county. A large part of this increase is new traffic, developed by the improved means of transit, while the rest represents the ordinary increase for one year. However, although the earnings of the New York City Railway Company have not suffered as much as might be expected from the competition of the Subway, it is, nevertheless, easy to understand how much the future business of that company would suffer—in case it fails to participate in the operation of the Subway system. The best that it could expect to do hereafter with its existing mileage would be to hold its own. As one subway after another was completed and opened for operation, these underground roads would absorb the whole increase in traffic; and the Metropolitan system, which has been financed on the expectation of constantly augmenting receipts, would have to adjust its arrangements to a stationary income. The "Metropolitan" cannot obtain its share of the enormous traffic which will be developed in New York hereafter, except by operating its surface routes in close connection with rapid transit underground roads; and it was a piece of grave mismanagement on the part of the officials of the company that this fact was not recognized many years sooner.

Repeal the Fireproof Wood Clause.

WE print in this issue some additional opinions of architects and others regarding so-called "fireproof" wood. No one can read these carefully expressed judgments and then maintain that fireproof wood is of such supreme importance in building construction that it should be foisted upon the community by force of legal enactment. It has been said that there is a prejudice against fireproof wood, but those who raise this cry do not stop to explain how this "prejudice" came into being, or why the malice of the human mind should attack this particular product and not concrete fireproofing or terra-cotta fireproofing or any other of the many materials that might have been selected by the ignorant and the mendacious. Besides, there must be a common reason for a common result. It is not so easy after all to get a body of men to think together or act together; and yet we have the spectacle of architects, builders and property owners unanimous in their opposition to the legal status of fireproof wood. Can all these men be mistaken or corrupt?

Moreover, if fireproof wood is such an extremely valuable protective, why, O! why! has it not been imposed by law upon any other community under the sun? Are all other legislators save those in this State asleep? or is it they have not been suitably aroused? Surely, if fireproof wood is necessary in a New York office building, it is criminal to omit it from any other building whatsoever intended for human habitation. No other city in the Union builds as solidly as does New York. Are we to infer that the more substantial an edifice is the greater is the need for fireproof wood? There is some such topsy-turvy logic in the situation.

But of course it is useless to ask these questions. Nobody is under any illusion as to why fireproof wood is imposed upon our builders by the Building Code. Not even the manufacturers of fireproof wood could keep a straight face and assert that their product is of such unquestionable value that it deserves to be classed as a "privileged" material, the omission of which from a modern building would endanger the safety of the community. It is a disgrace to the Building Code that the stuff is mentioned in it as an imperative requirement, and the sooner the material is removed from the law the better it will be for all concerned. Indeed, if the manufacturers have any sense of the fitness of things, they will proceed, themselves, as quickly as possible, to petition for an amendment of the code eliminating fireproof wood completely. In that way they may gain friends for themselves and for their product, which may yet have uses outside of a modern skyscraper—and the building laws.

More Testimony Against It.

The issue concerning so-called "fireproof" wood has been plainly and completely set before the public of New York City. Upon the one hand is the architectural profession, the building authorities, the building trades and the real estate interests united in an appeal for the abrogation of what has become an obnoxious requirement of the Code; and upon the other side the selfish interests of a small business carried on by only three concerns seeking to foist its products upon the city by force of a legal enactment. Seeing that whatever doubt there was about the efficacy of the material has been completely removed by the results of scientific experiment and building practice, it is not conceivable that the Board of Aldermen, from whom relief legislation is sought, will longer disregard the appeal.

As there was no meeting of the Board this week, no action other than that mentioned in these columns in the last number has yet been taken, but either a report from the Committee on Buildings, to whom it has been referred, or else the announcement of a date for a public hearing is expected next week. The latter course will probably be followed as the chairman of the committee is known to favor it.

Throughout the building trades great satisfaction is expressed that the long agitation has at last been brought to a head, and immediate action is demanded. The Building Trades Association as a body is on record against the "fireproof" wood requirement. Building Superintendent Hopper, who, as everybody knows, is a practical general contractor of long experience, has said that he has never in his experience seen real fireproof of wood. Dr. Edward Atkinson, director of the National Insurance Experiment Station, pronounces it "worthless stuff" that "ought to be thrown out." The United States Navy Department, which once thought there might be some virtue in the invention, has discontinued its use.

Builders say the heated wood corrodes and eats up nails, pipes and metals that come in contact with it; that it adds enormously to the cost of construction; that it is almost impossible to get it in sufficient quantities when needed; that it isn't fireproof, burns up like other wood, is difficult to work, and is of no use anyway. The distinguished architect and engineer now at the head of the Board of Examiners, who was himself one of the committee which framed the Building Code, came out squarely, in last week's Record and Guide, against the "fireproof" wood provision remaining in the Code any longer.

MR. COBB'S VIEWS.

Henry Ives Cobb, the architect, is a strong advocate of having all buildings constructed in such a manner as to offer the least possible risk of human life, and he hopes the Building Code will be modified to prohibit the dangerous use of combustible materials in all buildings.

"The present law only benefits those controlling patents for the 'fireproofing of lumber,'" says Mr. Cobb, "and works a hardship on all other citizens. The suggested change will exaggerate this condition of affairs. What should be required is non-combustible construction, and limit the quantity of combustible interior finish. Wood floors laid on cement in fireproof office buildings or hotels offer no danger. Narrow trim and heavy doors of wood with fireproof walls and ceilings are absolutely safe. Limit the quantity of wood, and building operation will be assisted, but a sweeping enforcement of fireproofed wood will stop many building operations and advance rentals."

BURDENSOME TO ARCHITECTS AND OWNERS.

At the office of Bruce Price & De Sibour, architects, it was said: "Our experience shows that the wood treated by the so-called fireproofing processes is not made absolutely fireproof, except for a short time, and this especially so of floors which have to be continually washed.

"The use of this process greatly increases the cost of the work and does not diminish the rate of fire insurance, as it is not classed by the Board of Fire Underwriters as a fire retardent.

"We consider that the provision of the Building Code concerning its use is burdensome to both the architect and to the owner."

THE CHEMICALS TAKE LIFE OUT OF THE WOOD.

President Theodore Starrett, of the Thompson-Starrett Company, was found willing to add his testimony against what he believed to be a very serious injury to practically the entire building interests of the city, by the present reading of Section 105 of the Building Code. He said:

"It is our belief, based on considerable experience with material fireproofed by the best known processes, that the chemicals with which the wood is impregnated at best only render it non-inflammable for a comparatively short time. When wood treated by this process has been exposed to water it immediately loses its fireproof quality. Floors have to be scrubbed to keep them clean and two or three applications of water not only destroy the chemicals but ruin the appearance of all treated wood by turning it black.

"But the worst effect of the process, in our opinion, and one which would indicate the great injury done to property interests of the owners of buildings in which the fireproofed wood is used, is the fact that it apparently takes the life out of the wood, rendering it punky and subject to decay. It is our belief that in the buildings which we have finished with fireproofed wood it will be necessary before many years to replace all the trim and doors.

"If wood is used sparingly in fireproof buildings, as proper methods of construction now dictate, there is absolutely no use of attempting to render it fireproof. It is a well-known fact that the furniture and draperies in the modern hotel, office building or other structure are infinitely more dangerous as a food for flames than would be the trim and flooring even in old-fashioned fireproof structures where the use of double floors and heavy panelled wainscoting was customary."

BUILD OF NON-COMBUSTIBLE MATERIALS, SAYS MR. COWEN.

Charles A. Cowen, Second Vive-President of the Building Trades Employers' Association, is another builder who no longer has faith in "fireproof" wood. Mr. Cowen advocates using incombustible materials in construction work as far as possible as a general proposition, but making compromises when necessary. He is not opposed, for example, to metal covered doors and frames, or to wood under-flooring and for bucks for the doors which do not come in contact with the atmosphere.

"I do not know," he said, "of any system of fireproofing by which wood may be treated and not after the expiration of a certain period of time lose its fireproof quality. Our greatest fire hazard is from the furniture of a room or building, and not from the composite parts of a building.

"Furthermore, it is impossible to get 'fireproof' wood promptly. The manufacturers haven't good facilities for turning it out in sufficient quantities to meet the large requirement. This and the enormous cost makes it burdensome on builders and owners."

Ornamental Projections.

PRIVATE ENCROACHMENT UPON PUBLIC PROPERTY JUDICIALLY CONDEMNED.

A judicial decision rendered by the Appellate Division in a suit of Samuel McMillan against the Klaw & Erlanger Construction Co., owners of the New Amsterdam Theatre on the south side of 42d st, has important results for the real estate and building trades. The action was brought by an owner of property situate on 42d st, in the city of New York, to restrain the defendant as owner of the adjacent lot from erecting as a part of its building thereon a structure about 45 ft in height, and extending into the street 4 ft beyond the building line.

The defendant interposed a supplemental answer by which it set up as a defense an ordinance passed by the Board of Aldermen of the city of New York subsequent to the commencement of the action, which ordinance it is claimed sanctioned and legalized the structure complained of.

The plaintiff demurred to the supplemental answer upon the ground that it was insufficient in law; the demurrer was overruled, with leave to the plaintiff to withdraw the same, which it did not do, and final judgment was thereupon entered dismissing the complaint. From this judgment the plaintiff appeals and also brings up for review the interlocutory judgment overruling the demurrer.

"We are of the opinion," says Justice O'Brien, "that the demurrer was improperly overruled, for the reason that the ordinance by which the defendant seeks to justify the structure complained of is unconstitutional, in that it deprives the plaintiff of his property without due process of law. . . .

"The question presented is whether such a municipal enactment is constitutional, the effect of which would permit one property owner, for his own benefit, to erect a structure in the public street which would seriously impair the easements of his neighbor without compensating him therefor.

"In approaching the consideration of this question, it must be borne in mind that three parties have separate and distinct interests and rights in the street upon which the plaintiff's property is situated, to wit, the public at large, the city of New York and owners of property abutting thereon, with respect to the easements therein those enjoyed by the public and those owned by individual property owners are separate and distinct. The former are public and the latter are private easements. Even though the public easements be destroyed, as in the instance of the closing of a street, private easements are not necessarily destroyed by such closing.

"The legislature of the State, acting as the representative of the public at large, has, within constitutional limitations, authority to control the use of the street. It may widen the street or narrow it; may change its course or even close it; and being the representative of the public, it may limit to a certain extent the use thereof by the public, providing that it does not invade the property rights of the individual or destroy his property rights without compensation. The municipality has an interest in the street by reason of its being vested with the fee thereof. But this fee is a qualified one, being held by it in trust for the public use and benefit, and that use cannot be departed from without violating an essential condition of the contract between it and the abutting property owners, as expressed by the adjudication in the street opening proceedings under which the land was obtained. So long as the municipality does not violate the contract it may withdraw from the use of the general public portion of the street, providing that it always acts within the constitutional limits, and either under express legislative authority or in the exercise of the inherent right residing in it for controlling the use of its streets for the purpose for which they were dedicated.

"The structure which the defendant in this case is erecting cannot in any event be regarded as a use of the street which benefits at all the public at large. On the contrary, it enhances the value of the defendant's property alone, and withdraws from the public a portion of the street itself. If the legality of the ordinance be sustained it would permit individuals to appropriate from two to five feet of public property all along the streets of the city, and under the guise of ornamental projections to devote the land to whatever uses their private interests might require. The ordinance attempts to sanction private encroachments upon public property which by the greatest stretch of the imagination cannot be considered as beneficial to the general public, or as contributing to the business or commercial welfare of the community at large. Ordinances which thus devote public property to private uses are not looked upon with favor, and the courts will scan them closely with a desire to jealously guard the rights of the public from illegal invasion under the guise of municipal authority. An attempt by the municipality to authorize a wilful encroachment or construction of this character will always be condemned unless the power to sanction it is clearly shown.

"One of the latest judicial utterances upon this subject is found in the opinion of the Court of Appeals in the case of Ackerman v. True (175 N. Y., 353, p. 364), where it is said: 'Although it is true that the title of the street in the City of New York is in the municipality, that title is held by it in trust for public use, and not even the municipal assembly has authority to permit permanent encroachments thereon.' While that body may, by ordinance, regulate the use of streets, highways, roads, public places and sidewalks, and prevent encroachments on and obstructions to the same, the character expressly provides that they shall have no power to authorize the placing or continuing of any encroachment upon any street or sidewalk, except the temporary occupation thereof, during the erection or repairing of a building on a lot opposite the same.

"Referring again to the particular encroachment here involved, we repeat that it imposes a new, unusual and additional burden upon the street, and diminishes the plaintiff's easements without compensation. No municipal or legislative enactment can justify or sanction such an invasion of the rights of private property guaranteed to the citizen by both state and federal constitutions, and therefore the ordinance set up in the answer is no defense to the plaintiff's cause of action. For these reasons the demurrer thereto should have been sustained as it was insufficient in law.

"It follows that the judgment appealed from must be reversed with costs to the appellant, and that the plaintiff should have judgment for relief prayed for in the complaint, with costs of the action."

—On Monday evening, Oct. 9th, the first regular meeting of the season of the Acmy Realty Club of the West Side Y. M. C. A. was held in one of the dining rooms at Reisenweber's, 58th st and 8th av. After dinner addresses were made by Mr. Robert E. Simon, of L. J. Phillips & Company; Mr. Louis Rodney Berg, J. Clarence Davies and E. A. Tredwell. The Acmy Realty Club is composed of the members of last year's real estate class of the West Side Y. M. C. A., 318 West 57th st. This club was formed in January, its object being to keep together the 235 men who were members of the class, for the mutual benefit of all the members. 150 of them became members of the club. Meetings were held throughout the year, and during the summer many field excursions were taken. The club will meet on the second Monday of every month, at which a dinner will be given, and many prominent men have been asked to address these meetings. The members of this year's real estate class are also eligible to membership in this club.

DEVELOPMENT OF LAND TENURES

By LAWSON PURDY, Secretary of the Tax Reform Association*

My subject is the Development of Land Tenures, and I propose to discuss it with special reference to your prospective business as real estate brokers, agents and appraisers. We must first consider the nature of your business and the conditions necessary to its success.

As real estate brokers you will stand between buyer and seller of real estate, and it is therefore obvious that the greater number of sellers the more likely you are to succeed; that there may be a great number of sellers there must be a great number of owners. There must be a great number of possible buyers, and this requires a high standard of prosperity upon the part of the people at large.

As real estate agents you need a large number of persons competing with each other for your services in order to render your chance of employment good and your remuneration large. Again, it is evident that the same conditions must obtain. There must be a large number of owners and there must be a large number of persons able and willing to pay a good rental for homes, stores, factories and other places of business.

In order that you may find employment as appraisers it is essential that there should be a brisk demand for mortgage loans, and in order that this demand shall continue it is essential that the mortgage loans shall soon be repaid, and often changed and renewed. This means a frequent transfer of ownership, and again requires a large number of buyers and sellers, and a prosperous renting class.

In order that there may be many transfers of ownership, it is evident that there must be no obstacle in the way of freedom of transfer of real property. There must be no tax upon transfers; all must be done that governmental power or private enterprise can do to render titles safe and to facilitate security of possession and rapidity of transfer of that possession. We may therefore sum up the conditions essential to the prosperity of your business as follows: Diffusion of ownership. Prosperity of occupiers. Freedom of transfer.

Mr. Purdy, in developing his subject, spoke of the value of historical study, and referred in an interesting manner to primitive land tenures, to English conditions before the Norman conquest and to feudal tenures. Continuing he said:

ABOLITION OF FEUDAL TENURES.

In 1656 feudal tenures were abolished and all military tenures were changed to free and common socage. The long struggle of the great lords to throw off their feudal burdens and to deal with the land as their own, which had originally been granted to them as trustees, was over. Practically the whole burden of supporting the state was shifted from land holders to occupiers.

Now that the feudal tenures were finally abolished the class of great land owners proceeded to introduce a new mode of settling estates, which depends not on any single statute or law, but on customs mainly, and takes advantage of legal forms already existing. In order to preserve their estates from dispersion, they devised a system of family settlements by which property was divided to several persons with estates for life and in remainder and alienation was rendered impossible for fifty or even eighty or ninety years. Although entails as such had been abrogated, the new policy fully performed its purpose. Small properties were seldom subjected to strict settlement, while large properties continued undiminished. When a small freehold came into the market it was seldom that the owner of the larger estate could not find the money to effect its purchase. Once obtained, the small estate is included in the settlement of the larger estate, and thus permanently withdrawn from the natural process of disintegration.

Reference has already been made to the common lands. So late as 1726 it is stated that one-half of the kingdom was common land. In 1879 only 264,000 acres were left of the common lands. In the annual report of the Enclosure Commissioners for 1867 it was shown that during the 150 years previous no less than one-third of the total cultivated land had been enclosed. The commissioners said that such enclosures had deprived agricultural laborers of ancient rights over the wastes, and kept the occupiers of new cottages from acquiring new rights. The number of landed proprietors was not increased by this process, and enclosure for the greater part was always reserved for the lord of the manor, and no one gained by the enclosure who did not already possess freehold rights.

PRESENT CONDITIONS IN GREAT BRITAIN.

According to the Encyclopedia Britannica, by the Doomsday Book of 1875, it appeared that one-fourth of the total acreage (excluding plots under one acre) is held by 1,200 owners, at an average for each of 16,200 acres; another fourth by 6,200 persons, at an average of 3,150 acres; another fourth is held by 50,770 persons, averaging 380 acres each; and the remaining fourth by 261,830 persons, averaging 70 acres each. Peers, in number about 600, hold rather more than one-fifth of the land in the kingdom. Thus one-half of the whole territory is in the hands of only 7,400 individuals; the other half is divided among 312,500 individuals.

The social effect of the concentration of land in a few hands is most far reaching in many ways. The Hon. George C. Broderick, in his work "English Land and English Landlords," speaks of the large resident land owner of the parish as being "invested with an authority over its inhabitants which neither the Saxon chief nor the Norman lord, in the fullness of his power, ever had the right of exercising." Commenting upon this statement, Alfred Russell Wallace says: "The clergyman is usually his nominee, and often his kinsman. The farmers, who are almost the only employers of labor besides himself, are his tenants-at-will, and, possibly, his debtors. The tradespeople of the village rent under him, and, even if they do not, could be ruined by his disfavor. The laborers live in his cottages, and are absolutely at his mercy for the privilege of hiring allotments, generally of inadequate size, and at an exhorbitant rent as compared with the same land occupied by farmers, and they are also dependent upon him for work in winter. He is usually a magistrate, and thus has the power of the law in his hands to carry out his orders and enhance his authority. Except by his permission, merely to live upon his estate is impossible; while most of the inhabitants may have their lives rendered miserable or maybe actually ruined by his displeasure."

National debts have generally been contracted to defray the cost of war. In feudal times there was little need to borrow money when landlords were obliged to furnish the army as a condition of their holdings. In 1688 Great Britain's national debt was about $3,000,000. At the present time it amounts to $3,885,000,000, and the annual interest charged is about $100,000,000. This vast sum is paid by the occupiers of Great Britain. The concentration of the ownership of land has produced a terrific problem to secure proper housing for the working classes. In 1885 the Royal Commission on the Housing of the Working Classes, of which the present King and Cardinal Manning were members, recommended a change in methods of taxation. At present the occupier pays in proportion to his rental. The Commission recommended that a tax be placed on the value of land without regard to the use to which it is put. This is merely an application to modern conditions of the old feudal principle that he who holds the land shall support the State. As yet, there has been no actual legislation on this line in Great Britain, but the plan is being urged by powerful interests. The Liberal Party has declared for it, the great co-operative societies have recommended it, the councils of over 250 governing bodies, county councils, city councils, town councils and others have resolved in favor of it. It is sure to come. Meanwhile action has been taken on Socialistic lines in imitation of German cities. English cities have recently spent a great deal of money in building municipal tenement houses. German cities are going into the business of land ownership on a large scale.

Five cities in Germany—Frankfort, Mannheim, Breslau, Magdeburg and Dortmund—own more than half a city lot, of New York size, for every inhabitant, and Strasburg owns more than one and a half city lots for every inhabitant. To equal Strasburg in land ownership in proportion to population, New York would have to buy 263,000 acres, which is more than the entire present area.

It must be clear that this will practically destroy one of the three condtions—that of diffusion of ownership, necessary to the prosperity of the real estate business.

In Great Britain to-day there is neither diffusion of ownership nor prosperity of occupiers. Freedom of transfer there is in law, but in practice it is much restricted. Everyone familiar with English conditions will tell you that the real estate business as we know it here is unknown in London. With most of the land in a few hands, real estate agents are mere rent collectors on a salary and commissions for buying and selling, and appraising are few and far between.

PRESENT CONDITIONS IN THE UNITED STATES.

The people of the United States to-day are blessed with a wonderful climate, a most fertile soil, mineral wealth beyond the dreams of the men of a few generations ago, the greatest area of freedom of trade the world has ever seen, a higher standard of living than that of any of the countries of the Old World, and greater average comfort. Our people are at least as intelligent, and they appear to be naturally gifted with inventive ability. This inventive ability is enormously stimulated by the fact that money wages are probably higher than in any other old country. We have much to be thankful for.

In taking account of our conditions to-day, however, it behooves us to observe the tendencies illustrated by our decennial census returns. In 1901, 31% of the families of the United States...

owned homes free oof encumbrances, 15% owned mortgaged homes and 54% paid rent. In the ten years from 1890 to 1900, the ownership of homes has changed thus: Out of every hundred homes two less were owned free and clear in 1900 than ten years before; one more was mortgaged, and one more was rented. Included in the class of owners are those who own no more than the homes they occupy, and these must be deducted to find the landlord class. Prof. J. G. Collins, a statistician who had charge of some of the 1890 census inquiries, estimated that only about 10% of the population were landlords, and these owned and controlled somewhere near 90% of the total value of the land of the country. In our city, 88 in every hundred families are tenants, in Boston 81, and in Philadelphia, the "City of Homes," 77 in every hundred. In 160 cities of at least 25,000 inhabitants the average number of tenants is 74 in the hundred.

Computations of the distribution of wealth made by experienced students confirm the estimates as to the distribution of the land values of the country. In the Political Science Quarterly of 1893, George K. Holmes, writing of the census of 1890, said that 9% of the people owned over 71% of the wealth of the country, while 52% owned only 5% of the wealth. Mr. Charles B. Spahr, in his work on the "Distribution of Wealth in the United States," estimates that in 1890 the poorer classes were 41% of the total, or 5½ million families, with an average wealth of $150, and that ⅞ of the families held but ⅛ of the national wealth, while 1% of the people owned more than ½ of the wealth.

CONCLUSION.

We have seen how land has become more and more monopolized in England, and we have noticed some of the causes. We could trace the same results in the history of France, Germany, Italy and other great European countries. About 2,000 years ago Pliny said that great estates had ruined Italy. The same is true of Italy to-day. Particularly in the South the ownership of land is very much concentrated. The owners are what we call land-poor; they have neither the capital nor the intelligence to develop their properties. They have little inducement to sell because taxes, as in England, are based on product and not on values, as with us.

German cities are trying to solve the problem of housing their people by becoming landlords themselves, and at the same time by imposing heavier taxes on unimproved lands. In Great Britain the cities are acquiring land for workmen's dwellings, but in spite of the Royal Commission twenty years ago declaring in favor of a partial shifting of the burdens of taxation from occupiers to landlords nothing has been accomplished yet in this direction, though we may expect legislation on this line from the next Ministry.

Here in New York there is probably a better field and larger opportunity for the real estate broker than anywhere else in the world. But do not sleep in fancied security. Civilization never stands still. You must be active to improve conditions, or they will grow worse, not better.

In the City of New York to-day our tax system is better than that in any other large city in the world, because the land values, which are the social values of the city, are contributing a larger share to public expenses than in any other great city. Resist every effort to reduce that share of expenses borne by social values, and every effort to increase the burden on trade, business and production.

In the last three years our tax laws have been better enforced in this city than ever before. Their administration still leaves much to be desired. It is to you and the real estate brokers of the City of New York that we must look for betterment. Self-interest demands of you this effort. You have the knowledge, and in proportion to your knowledge and your opportunities there rests upon you this special duty to your fellow-citizens.

It is only by public spirit and eternal vigilance and effort that you can preserve and improve the conditions essential to the improvement of your business—diffusion of ownership, prosperity of occupiers, freedom of transfer.

—At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Allied Real Estate Interests of the State of New York on Thursday, Mr. B. Tymar Sands, who presided in the absence of President Van Ingen, said that it had been found that the Mortgage Tax Law was working harm not only to lenders and borrowers, but to every builder, dealer and holder of mortgaged real estate, and was already affecting values, as new buildings could not be made to show the returns expected, and must be sold for less than they would otherwise have brought. This was said in the presence and with the assent of some of the most prominent men identified with New York real estate, among whom were Robert E. Dowling, William H. Chesebrough, Alfred E. Marling, Henry Morgenthau, Allen L. Mordecai, Joel De Selding, John L. Parish and Secretary Allan Robinson. It is apparent that a most distinguished company of business men assemble when the directors and advisors of the Allied Real Estate Interests meet. Already the membership of the association has grown to nearly twelve hundred, and it is very manifest from the force and wisdom that is being put into the work, and from the objects which it seeks to attain, that it will be the most powerful body of business men that the State of New York has ever seen. For the present the attention of the organization is being given to a campaign for the repeal of or modification of the Mortgage Tax Law. A very pertinent illustration of the effect of the Act was given by Mr. Dowling, who said that if a large loan (secured on a prominent downtown building immediately before the law went into effect) had been secured since, the additional cost of the loan because of the tax would have impaired the income-producing power of the building by as much as the rental of one entire floor.

Building Expectations for 1906.

What explains in part the renewed general interest in real estate throughout the country is the loss of appetite on the part of the public for oil wells, gold mines and doubtful securities of all kinds. A prodigious amount of money was poured into this channel during the decade following the panic of 1893, when in most third class cities and self-centred villages real estate speculation came to a sudden end. Instead of returning thereto when they recovered their financial footing, the people who had money to invest absorbed the impression that building materials were too costly and home building not worth the trouble. Then, being in the mood to entertain silvery-tongued presentations, they invested in the oil fields of Texas, the mines of Mexico, Eldorado and Sheba and other propositions from enchanting distant realms. We know personally of several towns that were simply pillaged by wild-cat schemes, and no doubt hundreds were treated in like manner. Wherever is found a small city in which real estate is dormant, though once very active, in that place will most likely be found, instead of substantial deeds and mortgages, large accumulations of worthless stocks. We think it is because they have become distrustful of everything else that the men and women of the Eastern States are taking such an interest in real estate. While New York City, with its suburbs, appeals to many as a safe field of investment, others are confining their attention to their own neighborhoods, the effect of which will be very pronounced next summer. In most towns this year there was an emphatic increase of rents. The reason which landlords ascribed for this was the increasing carrying charges on property, an increase that has resulted mainly from the fact that, while municipal expenses are naturally in the ascending scale, the cessation of house building has kept the amount of assessible property almost stationary, and so made each owner's proportion higher.

Thus, united to returning appreciation for real estate is the persuasion to build that follows from higher rents and prosperous business conditions. The only deterrent is the higher cost of material; but the general inclination now is to regard this as a fixed element, characteristic of the higher plane of life upon which the country has permanently entered. Moreover, who will not confess that the higher standard of taste in architecture is really the largest item in the list of costs? For who is satisfied to pattern his abode according to the ideas of a preceding generation? It would mean the elimination of improvements now considered indispensable, as well as decorations, spaces and materials no one would like to part with. As people come to a realization of these truths they are prepared to make the larger investment for a home which the age requires, and reports indicate for next year, in the cities of the second and third class, a building movement such as has not been seen since the Eighties, and perhaps not since the Fifties. For labor and material the demand will under these circumstances surpass all previous marks.

Extension to the Infirmary at Yale.

L. De Coppet Bergh, the architect, of 189 Broadway, has completed his plans for the new extension to the Infirmary at Yale University, and has just placed the building under contract. The Sperry & Treat Co. were the successful bidders, and have been awarded the general contract. Jas. A. Church, of New Haven, will do the carpenter work; Mr. T. W. Corbett, the plumbing, heating and ventilating. The operating rooms, toilet rooms and similar parts will have "Taylorite" floors. The building is to be an extension of the present "Yale House," which is really more a home for sick students than a hospital. The extension is to provide the more distinctly hospital features. Mr. Bergh, who is the architect of the former building, has, of course, carried out the same design in the new extension, which is somewhat irregular in plan and extends about 50 ft to the west of the present structure, the grounds falling away rapidly, permit the extension to be lower than the old building, and in plan to be so arranged as not to deprive the old building of any sunshine. So far as possible within the outlay, modern sanitary ideas have been carried out, particularly in the matter of ample ventilation and in avoiding every dust catching projection or angle. Everything will be of the simplest outline, with, of course, rounded corners and angles throughout. The peculiarity of the plan is that each floor is an entity by itself, being entered from a corresponding level of the old building.

Country's Building Operations.

Reports from the principal cities of the United States, for the month of September, disclose unabated energy in building. The gains over last year are general, decidedly large and so distributed as to show that the impetus to building operations is not due to local causes. In Greater New York the gain is 85 per cent. as against 100 per cent. in August.

Permits aggregating more than 21 millions at the beginning of autumn is a remarkable and most promising showing. Chicago reports $7,349,150, a gain of 31 per cent., as against 80 per cent. last month, but even this gain is remarkable when the season of the year is taken into account. The following figures express the percentage of gain of the cities that make the best showing: Allegheny, 111; Buffalo, 140; Cleveland, 66; Dallas, 84; Detroit, 93; Duluth, 110; Harrisburg, Pa., 158; Kansas City, 63. Louisville, 73; Milwaukee, 112; Mobile, 172; Nashville, 133; Newark, 232; New Orleans, 54; Philadelphia, 44; St. Paul, 102; Syracuse, 237; Wilmington, Del., 296. It thus appears that the present building prosperity is widely, almost universally distributed.

Builders Invited to Tremont and Fordham.

An appeal comes from Tremont and Fordham urging builders to erect two and three-family houses in that section. It is made by Charles F. Mehltretter, of 1962 Clinton av, a member of the Board of Bronx Real Estate Brokers. He says:

"The centre of increasing population in the Borough of the Bronx deserves the popularity it has won among the families who come to it seeking homes that are commodious, healthful and within the means of the ordinary man.

"A conspicuous example of such a home place is that portion of the borough between 3d av and West Farms, running from Crotona Park north to Pelham av. It is one of the unsolved problems why the investors are so slow in taking advantage of the opportunity offered. It is not that the builders are themselves blind, but there are not enough of them.

"The real estate deals of this section are daily visited by persons who wish a floor in a two-family or three-family house. The demand is so much in excess of the supply that the question asked is natural: Why do investors not take advantage of the opportunity and build us some two and three-family houses, so that the demand for such apartments may be met?

"What we need are flat houses where the rents would run from $18 to $25. If the builders would build the houses, I can fill them in a week—but let them be intelligently built houses. Families are now crowded. When they wish more room we have no more room to give them. Build five or six stories to each apartment, but let them be rooms, not coops, even at the reasonable rent.

BUILDING NOTES

If "fireproof" wood is only a pretense, why force it on builders and owners?

Money is extraordinarily loose among the brick manufacturers.

Several large manufacturers this week raised quotations on Portland cement ten cents a barrel.

If it is a good thing to have an influential trade journal, the appreciation should take a substantial form.

"Unless the Bronx provides dwellings more inviting than mere tenements, Queens and Brooklyn will make holes in its rent rolls when the rapid transit facilities are completed," was a terse remark of the week.

Thomas Graham, architect, has removed his office from 45 West 21st st to No. 3025 3d av. His telephone number is 2140 Melrose.

Builders in the Bronx are turning their attention very noticeably to dwelling-house construction, and especially to 2-family houses, as for such agents have large waiting lists of both tenants and purchasers. In every case, so far heard from, houses recently finished have found a ready sale.

J. Reeber's Sons, dealers in second hand building materials, foot of 107th st, whose plant was almost destroyed by fire last Saturday morning, wishes to inform their many patrons that their business is going on as usual, and that they are in a position to fill all orders. It will be remembered that they have two branch yards in the Bronx, where they carry a large stock. The plant on 107th st covers a space of 375x100, with a frontage on Pleasant av which they have placed in the market for sale.

On Oct. 1 Mr. P. K. Stephenson resigned as secretary of the Building Trades Employers' Association, and will devote himself to a Pittsburg corporation, of which he is a member, in the manufacture of artificial stone, with offices at No. 1 Madison av. Assistant Secretary William J. Holmes will perform the duties of the office until the annual April meeting, when in all probability he will be elected to fill the vacancy. Mr. Holmes has been assistant secretary for two years, and is familiar with the work, besides being a very capable man.

McBride & Co., Inc., with offices and factory at 1932 Park av, near 131st st, manufacture parquet floors and wood carpets and make a specialty of apartment house work. Recent contracts of the company include "The Jermyn," at Broadway and 61st st, for the Jermyn Realty Co., the Spencer Arms, at Broadway and 69th st, for the Spencer Realty and Construction Co., "Arthur Hall," at Madison av and 96th st, for Arthur A. Silverman, the "Ambassador," at Madison av and 97th st, for C. M. Silverman & Sons, "Sesame" and "Lillie" Courts, on the west side 7th av, 118th to 119th sts, for Max Weinstein, and the apartment house at No. 43 5th av for Wm E. Finn.

The Index to Volume LXXV. of the Record and Guide, covering the period between January 1 and June 30, 1905, is ready for delivery. Price, $1. This Index in its enlarged form is now recognized as indispensable to every one engaged or interested in real estate and building operations. It covers all transactions—deeds, mortgages, leases, auction sales, building plans filed, etc. Orders for the Index should be sent at once to the office of publication, 14 and 16 Vesey St.

Opening Night of the Real Estate Department of the West Side Young Men's Christian Association.

On Tuesday evening, Oct. 10th, the first meeting of this season of the real estate classes of the West Side Y. M. C. A. was held. Three hundred and fifty representative real estate men were present. Henry Harmon Neill, real estate editor of the Evening Mail, presided. Walter Stabler, who has charge of the real estate of Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, made a short address in behalf of the association. Mr. Ronald C. Lee, manager of the Real Estate Directory and Information Bureau, who will have charge of one of the courses this year, made a short address, giving an outline of his work for the season. Mr. Lawson Purdy, secretary of the Tax Reform Association, gave the opening address of the evening on "The Development of Land Tenures."

About four hundred men were present last year at the opening night of this class, and it is interesting to note the continued interest in the work. The first class in real estate perhaps ever formed in the country was started last year by the West Side Y. M. C. A., and through the success of this class two large universities in Pennsylvania have started courses this year, and several other large universities throughout the country have also opened real estate departments.

The work in the real estate classes of the West Side Y. M. C. A. has been greatly broadened over that of last year, the department offering three courses this year, as follows:

Course I. Real Estate Problems.—A course of lectures by men prominent in the real estate business on subjects of interest to real estate men. Each lecturer is a specialist in his particular line of work.

Course II. Real Estate Law.—A series of lectures by Mr. Henry F. Miller on real estate law. Mr. Miller's broad experience as a real estate lawyer qualifies him for this work.

Course III. Real Estate Office Methods and Business Transactions.—This class will be for the study of the details of a real estate office—the system needed; the drawing of the necessary papers; the use of maps and records and other tools of the business; the management of property; sales, exchanges, leases, loans. This will be class-room work where the teacher will come in close touch with the men. The membership in this class will be limited.

Already the enrollment this year is very near two hundred, the membership including many prominent real estate men.

On next Tuesday evening, October 17th, Mr. R. E. Simon, of L. J. Phillips & Company, will address the class on "The Broker and Auctioneer."

Archer and Pancoast Company's Warerooms.

The Archer & Pancoast Company, makers and importers of lighting fixtures for electricity and gas andirons, etc., announce the opening of their new salesrooms at 12 East 33d st, near 5th av, Manhattan, where architects and builders can at all times inspect the latest innovations in these classes of goods. People of Hudson County, N. J., are getting used to condemnation proceedings. When they own property now they are not surprised to learn that some public or quasi-public corporation has claimed it for its own and can take it away from them whenever it desires. The proceedings for the county parks, the new court house, the Shore Line Railroad and the Pennsylvania tunnel have all agitated taxpayers this year, and now the Erie Railroad has started in to complete its purchases for its Jersey City terminal.

At Mr. Well's sale on Tuesday of 110 lots from the Woolf estate, situated in the Jerome av section in the neighborhood of 174th st, good prices prevailed, the total realization exceeding $168,000. On the Grand Boulevard and Concourse, south of Belmont st, lots of somewhat more than full depth were sold for $2,475 each. North of Belmont st, $1,200 each was the bid for lots 68 ft deep. Corners at Sheridan av and Belmont st brought $1,375 and $1,575, and inside lots on Belmont st from $800 to $1,600 each. On Walton av, prices for lots 75 ft deep ranged from $850 to $1,000. Buyers on Eden av paid from $600 to $1,025 a lot. A considerable building movement is expected to follow presently.

Secretary Louis Rodney Berg, of the Jerome Avenue Association, is urging members and owners to sign the consents required for the rapid transit route along that thoroughfare, saying: "Our association, as you know, has held numerous meetings on this subject, and members of our Rapid Transit Committee have appeared before the Rapid Transit Commission urging it to give us rapid transit, and now that the commission has finally adopted rapid transit routes for Jerome av, which have been further adopted by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, it would seem a great pity if property owners should stand in their own light by neglecting to sign the consents now requested, when by co-operating with the Rapid Transit Commission by giving their signatures it will give speedy results."

Teaching Real Estate Business by Correspondence.

The United States Real Estate Correspondence Institute, 200 Broadway, New York, has been organized to teach the real estate business by correspondence. Their aim is to teach systematically and thoroughly the laws, formulas, principles and practices of the real estate business. The United States Real Estate Correspondence Institute course consists of a number of lessons prepared under the direction and advice of leading experts in the real estate world. The course of lessons deals with the Buying, Selling and Exchanging of Real Estate; Renting and Managing of Properties; the Development of Suburban Estates; Land Values and Appraisals; Office Management and Systems; Real Estate Law; Realty Corporations; Insurance, Investment, Advertising, and all other phases of the real estate business. The students are encouraged to ask every conceivable question bearing on the lessons, and these questions are carefully answered by competent authorities. Correspondence schools have successfully taught Law, Advertising, Accounting, Bookkeeping, Engineering, Business Systems and other courses. To learn the real estate business in an office is a matter of several years' time, and then little is learned aside from the practical experience gained. Instruction by means of correspondence is not an experiment. It is recognized to-day as one of the most important factors in the educational world. Nearly everyone is familiar with the surprising growth of schools organized for the purpose of teaching some particular branch or branches of education through the medium of correspondence.

Real estate is so important a form of investment that a knowledge of the conditions governing its value, of the legal requirements in connection with sales, leaseholds and mortgages, and of approved methods in managing properties, is indispensable in the business training of every well-equipped business and professional man. No other form of investment offers so much safety combined with large profits as real estate and nearly all the large fortunes of New York and other cities and towns may be cited as examples. It is a recognized fact that most of the wealthy men of to-day have greatly increased their fortunes by conservative handling of real estate.

The course of the United States Correspondence Institute is a broad and comprehensive one, and is designed to cover every real estate requirement. Full particulars as to terms, etc., will be sent on request.

Another Land Mark Going.

The recent sale by the East Bay Land and Improvement Company of a large plot of its property to the Oak Point Land and Dock Company, with the immediate improvement and development of the property of both companies, will necessitate the demolition of the renowned Casanova Mansion, which for several years in the "fifties" and "sixties" was one of the "show places" on the Westchester side of the East River. Erected in the style of a French chateau, by Benjamin M. Whitlock, a New York merchant, at, for those days, a large expenditure of money, it at once became the centre of fashionable life for that neighborhood.

Upon Whitlock's death the property passed into the hands of Innocienco Casanova, and became the rendezvous of the Cuban patriots during the ten-year war for the freedom of the "ever faithful isle" and mysterious tales, with many traditions, are told of what occurred there, nearly all of which have no foundation in fact.

A portion of the property is now occupied by the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. for its new freight yards, another portion by a large manufacturing plant, and the balance of the eighty or ninety acres in the plot will soon be covered with lumber, brick and stone yards, warehouses and manufactories.

Although the deed has not been recorded, we understand the purchase price is something in excess of $400,000.

CONVEYANCES

Whenever the letters Q. C., C. a. G. and B. & S. occur, preceded by the name of the grantee, they mean as follows:

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Baragain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it. The street or avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

4th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

5th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

October 6, 7, 9, 10, 11, 12.

THERE are times when it would be just as well if the Stock Exchange could close up for a few weeks, and the present appears to be one of them. Conditions apparently forbid any emphatic movement in the direction either of higher or of lower prices; and they also discourage the degree of activity which accompanies a movement of this kind. Dullness and irregularity characterize the business from day to day. The professional traders make attempts to advance specialties with occasional success; but in their operations in the general market they are lucky in case they obtain fractional profits. The underlying situation remains very much as it was—except there are signs that in the steel market the conditions are becoming unwholesome. Prices are high; premiums are being paid for prompt delivery; and under such circumstances there is always danger of the test of collapse which took place in the summer of 1903. In case these symptoms of a "boom" continue to be prominent throughout the coming winter, conservative investors will come to be believed that we have reached the top of the wave. That for the time being money is more valuable than securities. It must always be kept in mind that the current prosperity is not likely to last more than through the current year, and that the extent of the reaction will be measured by the extent of the "boom."

THE real estate activity of the past week, while it has not developed any new characteristics, has been extraordinary in its volume in its wide diffusion. It goes considerably beyond the activity of the corresponding week last year, and it presents every appearance of being a wholesome and justifiable movement. There is no excessive speculation in one section which seeks merely to advance the price of vacant land. On the contrary, the unimproved property, which is being sold, is generally purchased for improvement. A number of important plots on the West Side are, for instance, being transferred for this purpose, and it looks as if that section of the city which was somewhat neglected last season will obtain its full share of the business of the current year. This business will take place particularly along the line of Broadway, which, owing to the Subway, is gradually gaining at the expense of Columbus Avenue. The bulk of the trading, still consists, however, in old five-story flats and tenements, which are being purchased by operators for the purpose of modernizing them and selling them at a profit. This, of course, is a very legitimate kind of trading, which seeks to make profits, by actually adding to values, and which will continue for some time to come. Obviously, however, there must be an end to it sometime; and one cannot help wondering what will become of the large number of small operators now engaged in this business, when these opportunities are all used up. The real estate market at the present time is practically made by these professional operators, whose number has vastly increased during the past few years. The scope of whose operations has very much extended most of their lives on speculation in tenement houses, which they carry upon extremely small margins; and when the time comes, as it surely will, excessive tenement house building, and of a larger number of vacancies, many of these little operators will have to throw over their holdings. At present, however, there are no vacancies and there are profits enough for everybody. It looks as if during the current season there would be a more general and a more wholesome activity in real estate than ever before.—and this in spite of dearer money and the mortgage tax.

THE following table is the first ever published which shows the total number of mortgages recorded since July 1st; that is, since the mortgage tax went into effect. These figures cannot be elicited from the regular tables published by the Record and Guide, because the enormous number of mortgages offered for record during the last few days of June were not entirely published and totalled until about Aug. 1st—so that the totals given each week since July 1st, include many mortgages actually recorded in June.

Of course the large decrease in the amount of money loaned in 1905 compared to the amount loaned in 1904 is caused chiefly by the way in which mortgages were rushed for record before July 1st. It will be seen that a small decrease has taken place in the amount of money loaned at every percentage except five and one-half per cent. At six per cent. only $21,000,000 was loaned against $36,000,000 last year. At five and one-half per cent. $5,000,000 was loaned against about $2,800,000 last year. At five per cent about $7,000,000 was loaned against $17,000,000 during same months of 1904. At four and one-half per cent. only about $2,500,000 was loaned against almost $17,000,000 a year ago. These figures do not show the actual effect of the tax so well as the table published last week, because loaning conditions have now recovered from the orgy of last June; but they are none the less worth careful study.

Some Questions Regarding Fireproof Wood.

LET us take some facts regarding fireproof wood about which there is no dispute.

FACT No. 1. Fireproof wood was adopted by the U. S. Navy Department in the construction of ships and as a protection to the same against fire. There is no doubt about that fact. The fireproof wood people at one time made a great deal of fuss about it and placarded it around, the inference, of course, being that fireproof wood must be of substantial value if adopted by the U. S. Government.

FACT No. 2. The U. S. Government have discontinued the use of fireproof wood in the construction of its ships. Why? Why do not the fireproof wood people take the same pains to tell the community of the Government's second act that they took previously to announce the first. Or are there no two sides regarding fireproof wood?

FACT No. 3. Why do not the Fire Insurance Companies put some premium value upon fireproof wood if there is any value in it as a protection against fire? They put a value upon half a dozen pails of water kept on a rack. Can it be that fireproof wood is not worth even six pails of water?

FACT No. 4. If fireproof wood is a good thing for a big, solidly constructed office building, why has it not been adopted by architects in the construction of even the larger country houses wherein construction is necessarily less substantial and where a Fire Department service is often entirely non-existent? Is there a single country house built of this material anywhere? If not, why not?

FACT No. 5. If it is a good thing to retain fireproof wood in the Building Code of New York City, why has not a single minor city in the country required the use of fireproof wood, even in theatres, churches, and public places? If fireproof wood is a "good thing," is there not an enormous field for its use in cities, say of one hundred thousand inhabitants, and in suburban districts everywhere? Why are builders turning to reinforced concrete rather than to the wood rendered "absolutely fireproof?"

Anybody can answer these questions for all alike point cumulatively to the same conclusion? Quite plainly, fireproof wood if not valueless, is at least not in practice what it is claimed to be by its enthusiastic manufacturers.

There is one point, however, that stands out even a little clearer than all the rest and that is that fireproof wood does not need to be sold by legislation if it really is all that it is claimed to be. It is quite unnecessary to lobby for a really good thing, and the curious fact about so excellent a product as fireproof wood is that it has no general sale apart from legislation. We understand it is used commercially by electrical companies for switchboards and similar minor devices, but apart from that, where is it used? It is used in our big, solid, massively constructed buildings on the top of burnt clay and cement fireproof into which position it is hoisted entirely by the Law, and solely for the purpose of enabling a few manufacturers to have a market which the real facts of the case would not give them.

THE importance which the question of municipal ownership of public utilities is obtaining in the current municipal campaign is extraordinary. The Republican candidate has gone as far, if not farther, in the direction of favoring such a policy as Mr. Hearst has, and the present Mayor in spite of certain theoretical scruples, lags not far behind. Mr. Ivins lays most stress upon the fact that he is in a better position to carry out a policy of immediate municipal ownership than are his opponents, because he is more likely to have the assistance of a Republican Legislature, without which nothing effectual could be done. But the point is that nothing effectual could be accomplished for at least three years even with the assistance of a Republican Legislature. The constitutional debt limit provides an absolute bar to the realization of any drastic policy of municipal ownership, because it prevents the City from raising the money necessary to the carrying out of such a policy. This debt limit might be modified or abolished in three years; but it is extremely doubtful whether it actually could be changed in so short a time. It seems impossible to make people realize the importance of this matter. Yet in truth it constitutes the most serious of all restrictions upon the progressive action of the municipality of New York. As long as it exists the City cannot afford to do many things which it ought to do. It cannot afford to build its new Subways; and it cannot afford to undertake the many street improvements, which are so gravely needed. For that matter, unless the constitutional amendment excepting water bonds from being included in the debt limit is passed at the coming election, it will be unable even to supply itself with the water it needs. Mr. Ivins would in case he were elected, be as incapable as Mr. Hearst to carry out a policy of immediate municipal ownership.

Important Changes in Bronx Street Lines.

An important change in the map of the Bronx results from the sale by the city to the Harlem River and Port Chester Railroad Company of portions of Cypress av, East 130th st, East 131st st, St. Ann's av, Brook av and Alexander av. At a meeting of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment (Public Improvements), held on April 28, 1905, a petition was presented from the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railway Company and the Harlem River and Port Chester Railroad Company, praying the Board to close certain streets between Lincoln and Willow avs, south of 132d st, in the Borough of the Bronx, in order that certain extensive improvements contemplated by the railroad companies might be made.

After a public hearing held on May 26, 1905, the Board passed resolutions altering the map by discontinuing and closing the streets in question, and in connection therewith adopted the following resolution:

"Resolved, that the question of compensation which the railroad companies are to pay the city for the land in those streets be referred to the Finance Department for report, and that in the meantime the Board request the Mayor not to sign the resolution until an agreement has been entered into."

Thereafter the railroad companies presented an agreement to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, at its meeting of July 14, 1905, in which was provided that the city's interest in the land lying within the lines of the streets heretofore discontinued and closed be conveyed to the railroad companies with the following reservations:

First. The city to retain easements for subsurface structures present and future.

Second. Permanent and perpetual underground rights, easements and rights of way for the construction, maintenance and operation of tunnels or subways under Alexander, Brook, St. Ann's and Cypress avs.

Third. Permanent and perpetual rights, easements and rights of way for the construction and maintenance of bridges or viaducts over and along the same avenues.

The railroad companies for themselves agreed, first, to pay the fair and reasonable value of the use and occupation of the land within the lines of Alexander and Brook avs, from the time of the city's acquisition of the same; second, to pay such sums as shall be agreed upon for the grant and conveyance of the land within the lines of streets mentioned, subject to the easements hereinbefore mentioned; third, that the railroad companies would grant to the City of New York an easement for a tunnel or subway along the lines as proposed by the Rapid Transit Commissioners, and known as the "First Avenue Route," such easement to be in exchange for the easement reserved under Alexander av; fourth, the railroad companies will grant to the City permanent and perpetual easements to construct and maintain, first, a subway or tunnel under, and, second, a bridge or viaduct over that portion of Cypress av heretofore discontinued and closed, and subsequently sold and conveyed to the railroad companies by the city.

This latter provision will permit the city to use Cypress av, in addition to the other streets heretofore discontinued and closed, south of 132d st to the river, for either tunnels or bridges although Cypress av, between the northerly line of the Harlem River and Port Chester Railroad property and the bulkhead line, was previously granted to the railroad companies without reservation or easements.

The conditions being acceptable to both parties, the sum of $275,000 has just been agreed upon for the city to receive for the land in the streets under which and over which it has reserved easements. This is a price per square foot which, Mr. Grout says, exceeds by 17 cents the price paid by the railroad companies for the Morris property, a large tract of land in this immediate vicinity, which was purchased by the companies in the open market for a sum of $400,000, or at the rate of 48 cents per square foot, and this conveyance was free and clear without easements of any kind.

Silver Service for Mr. Jordan.

The associated employees of the Manhattan Building Bureau have presented to John L. Jordan, who was the first Deputy of Manhattan under Superintendents Perez M. Stewart, Henry S. Thompson and Isaac A. Hopper, a costly dinner set of sterling silver and gold, as an evidence of regard. The gift comprised 188 different pieces, each decorated with cinquefoil flowers and initialed with a ribbon-letter "J." The presentation was made at a banquet last Saturday night at O'Neill's, at which the whole department staff of engineers, inspectors, clerks and messengers attended. The sentiment prompting the presentation was happily expressed by William H. Class, the veteran chief clerk:

"Of all the officials who have served in the department in the last 40 years," he said, "Mr. Jordan was the happiest. For the public and each of the employees he always had a winsome smile that would never come off. That smile was the passport to all hearts."

Mr. Jordan was welcomed to the banquet by a Reception Committee, consisting of Superintendent Hopper, Deputy Joseph Gordon, Mr. Jordan's good-humored successor, Chief Inspector Bernard J. Gorman and Assistant Corporation Counsel John P. O'Brien. Former Superintendent Perez M. Stewart made a graceful presentation address and very nice things were said to the guest of honor by Mr. O'Brien, Chief Gorman, Deputy Gordon, Corporation Counsel Assistant Louis Gans, Former Superintendent T. J. Brady, Former Highway Commissioner Jas. P. Keating, Former Superintendent John A. Dooner, and Bernard Downing, secretary to Borough President Ahearn, who voiced the latter's friendship for the guest of honor. The assemblage gave rousing cheers to Mr. Hopper and Perez Stewart, Deputies Gordon and Gorman, and an ovation to Mr. Jordan himself. Deputy Water Commissioner Frank Goodwin, the latter's political leader, was also present.

—Under the patronage of the Evening Telegram the Partial Exemption movement is assuming appreciable proportions. Branch associations are being organized in all the boroughs, and a general discussion is being stirred up; a number of men of high standing are giving their sanction to the movement and pronouncing it sound. An expert in taxation statistics assures the Record and Guide that the net effect of an exemption of improvements to the extent of three thousand dollars would be to increase the tax rate from 1.50 to 1.65. The larger rate would be paid of course by every owner, large or small; but the actual burden would be carried by the large taxpayers. That is to say, in the case of a man assessed for $2,000 on land and $3,000 on improvements, he would not be taxed at all for the improvement, but would have to pay 1.65 instead of 1.50 on his land tenure. The net result to him would be a tax of $33 on the value of his land, instead of $75 on the total of both land and improvements. To the owners of buildings assessed at hundreds of thousands or millions of dollars, the three thousand dollar exemption would not be a consideration, but the increase of 15 cents for every hundred dollars would be quite an important matter, and for that reason the bill which it is proposed to introduce in the Legislature is likely to be resisted by representatives of all owners of properties who would lose under the operation. So large are the proportions the question is assuming, it is probable that it will be the subject of much discussion during the legislative session. It is noteworthy, we may add, that the arguments in favor of the proposition are admittedly on the line of those which in times past were advanced in behalf of a single tax, and that on land.

SECRETS OF THE R. E. BUSINESS

Ins and Outs of a Broker's Office
How to Put Through Large Operations

By ROBERT E. SIMON*

The technical knowledge necessary to be a successful broker embraces the building and architectural professions, as well as the knowledge of land values. At times the broker even becomes a promoter and forms syndicates. The reason for this is very simple. In olden days values were low and the amount of capital necessary to make a purchase consequently small.

To-day land values in the heart of the city have grown to enormous sums, and in order to realize interest on the land value, tall buildings must be erected. Consequently, many of the real estate transactions of to-day are beyond the reach of the individual, and capital has to be procured from many in the form of stock to finance the deal.

Here the broker with modern ideas and methods comes in. He first secures a price on a desirable parcel. He then prepares a schedule of cost of a proper structure and estimates the amount of mortgage procurable when completed; adding to this the necessary expenses of building, he arrives at the total cost. Then he prepares a schedule of rents at which the property can be let, and against this a list of expenses, thereby showing the net return on the capital invested. With this statement prepared he submits his proposition to various capitalists, suggesting the formation of a company with a capital stock necessary to carry through the deal, and he gets their individual subscriptions.

In order to do this work intelligently, and have his statement accepted, he must know the cost of building, what class of improvement is best suited for the neighborhood, whether there is a demand for space equal to the supply to be created, and how much tenants can afford to pay for such accommodations.

He must also be fully familiar with how much coal it takes to heat the building and operate the elevators, and how much help to keep it clean. All this is a study best mastered through practical experience, which takes time.

ORGANIZATION.

Modern up-to-date real estate offices, in order to cope with these large propositions, should have their various departments thoroughly equipped and managed by competent heads.

First, the selling department. This brings the firm in touch with buyers and sellers of land and all classes of real estate. Files of prices asked should be kept. Second, the renting department, which keeps him in touch with the income side of real estate. This department should have on file all recorded leases throughout the city and all information as to rents and rental values which may come to the notice of any one connected with the offices. With such a file it is easy to ascertain the income-bearing possibilities of property in any section, even if not actively engaged therein. Third, the Appraisers' Department should have on file all transfers in the city and also any information of any definite figures of sales, not recorded in the deeds, of which they may be aware; also the plans and alterations filed and any outside information procured pertaining thereto. Fourth, the Mortgage Department, should have files of all recorded mortgages showing rate of interest and the due rate. And fifth, the Insurance Department.

Now with this organization complete, it is comparatively easy to swing large transactions. For example, the selling department learns that Mr. A. wishes to sell a valuable piece of land which he can no longer afford to hold, as it does not carry itself with its antiquated improvements. A meeting is called of the heads of departments. The manager of the renting department tells what a proper improvement should be and what it would rent for. The appraiser estimates the cost of such a building, and the mortgage manager tells who would lend on the finished proposition and how much. A statement is made out, the capitalists are found and interested and the company formed. When the operation is completed, the selling department has made a large commission for selling the land. The mortgage department has earned a nice fee for placing the building loan and permanent mortgage, the rental department is running the building and earning its regular monthly fees, and the insurance department is placing the insurance and earning a commission. Such an organization would pay well and not depend entirely on individual effort.

So much for the handling of large investment properties. Small ones are best taken care of in the same manner, with the exception that one individual instead of many need only be interested. In the case of a finished building, the same organization holds good. Only, instead of estimating figures, they go over those submitted, as existing, and see if they are reasonable. Can the rents be increased or are they too high? Can the building be altered so as to bring in more revenue, or operated more economically? Can the insurance be reduced? etc., etc.

THE CARD SYSTEM.

Now all this sounds very expensive and complicated, but it is not so at all. One filing system will do for all departments, by using the card system. After a careful study of all the large card systems in real estate offices at the time I started the one in our office, I found the great fault in most of those I saw was that the information, when it came out, was filed in its place, but there was no way of proving it was filed in the right place. For instance, let us say that a transfer occurred at 325 W. 57th st, and it was placed in the cabinet under 325 W. 56th st, a mistake likely to happen. Later, in looking for information in W. 57th st, if the card was not there, unless you remembered the case, it would not be missed and eventually endless confusion would exist through the plant.

This can all be obviated by making out a card for every lot or gore in the city, then pasting the information on the proper card and returning it to its proper place. In this way there must be a card for every lot, and if one were misplaced it would be noticed immediately and traced until found.

By having various colored cards for the different departments the matters are easily kept separate and readily picked out, and one person, after a little practice, can keep the entire plant going, using the Record and Guide for recorded matter.

The broker must keep in touch with all public improvements, such as parks, or parkways, trolley or other transit facilities, widening of streets, new bridges and their approaches. In fact, anything which may create an increase in value in any section, and keep his clients informed of prices on such properties as are likely to increase in value. As, for example, clients of our office made large sums by purchasing cheap lots in upper Harlem a year ago on our information of the enormous increase in population, owing to the great rush of immigrants, the fact that hundreds of houses were to be destroyed, to make way for the Delancey Street Bridge, and the opening of the subway, making this new territory accessible. Within 18 months lots rose from $3,500 and $4,000 per lot to $10,500 and $11,000. These improvements in conditions are going on about us constantly, and the great danger lies in taking things for granted or waiting until the improvement is completed. Then it is too late. Everyone knew that rents were going up; desirable apartments were rarely vacant, and when so were quickly snapped up. But the average citizen takes conditions for granted, and does not investigate the cause. It was therefore that, when figures from Ellis Island were presented, attention drawn to the large number of houses destroyed, never to be replaced, and the possibilities of the new section were all brought to the attention of the builders and operators, at one time, there was a wild scramble for lots and values naturally rose rapidly.

With the opening of additional transit facilities new sections will be made accessible and ready for development, and then it is that the broker has great opportunities: First, selling the farm in acreage; second, selling the blocks to operators, and then the lots to builders, which also brings with it an opportunity for making building loans and placing insurance.

Now permit me to give to those of you who intend taking up the brokerage business a little friendly advice, and those of you who do not intend being brokers can take from it what may apply to your hand of the business in coming in contact with brokers. In the first place, to the young man just starting out and desirous of learning the business thoroughly and practically, it is best to become an apprentice in a large brokerage office. This is not an easy matter. Because so many young men fail to appreciate how much there is to learn before one is really what may be considered a reliable broker, as we will see as we go on. Secondly, as soon as he has made a few sales, he begrudges his firm their share of the commission, thinks he can do as well by himself and leaves. These conditions discourage the busy successful broker from trying to teach the business and their methods to beginners. Don't forget that although a broker may do a nice business without the elaborate plant of which I spoke, there is one thing which is a necessity, and that is a good reputation. Bear in mind that the broker has no stock on his shelves and no trademark which the public recognize. He depends upon the good opinion of the community, and it is hard to win. Once having it, however, it is the good will of his business and creates a value for his office. When, therefore, a beginner has the privilege of presenting such a firm's card, he must appreciate its great value. First impressions count for a great deal; and the introduction through a reliable firm's card saves the time of first gaining the confidence of the client.

It may be argued, "Well, it's easy to get a price; if a man is anxious to sell his property he don't care who gets the commission." True enough, but not every man is anxious to sell, and often though he may be, his price is still above what the purchaser is willing to give, and then it is that the seller may be influenced by arguments and statements of conditions to meet the figure offered, provided he has confidence in his broker and relies on the truth of his statements.

BUSINESS HONOR.

Don't discount the value of the card of the firm who have a high standing. If you are capable and a good salesman, no matter how much business you may do for yourself, you are apt to do more with their card, and it pays you to stay and learn and become a member of the large firm. For no up-to-date business man will let a good salesman go because of percentages, provided the busness done warrants them.

When an institution or corporation or an individual wishes to collect a large plot from various owners, do they go to the small or inexperienced broker? No; they go to the prominent and reliable firms, whose card will receive a proper reception all over, because of their reputation. This is one of the most difficult undertakings in the brokerage business. He must work quickly and secretly, in order that his plot be complete, otherwise some one in the middle might hold out for a prohibitive figure, and blackmail the purchasers, knowing the surrounding property had been sold and his was necessary to complete the plot. See the absolute confidence reposed in the broker; if he were in the slightest degree tricky or not to be relied upon to be discreet and tactful, he could cost the purchasers thousands upon thousands of dollars. The value of a good reputation cannot be measured.

IT PAYS TO BE HONEST.

Many are the cases where an irresponsible broker has stepped in and permitted a friend or dummy to purchase a portion of the land needed and make a profit for himself. This is absolutely dishonest. It pays the broker to be honest, even at the cost of a commission. The client will appreciate it and give you the necessary good reputation. For instance, there are cases where a broker will be trying to make a deal and his client desires outside advice and intends seeing another broker to get an opinion. Often under such conditions have I heard it said, 'There is no use asking A or B or C. Unless there was something in it for him, he wouldn't give you straight advice.' How can such advice ever be worth anything? If a man cannot be honest unless he is paid, it is almost a certainty that he will be dishonest for pay. There is that narrow point of view that many take, to undervalue property offered by another. It works both ways; if the client misses a few good propositions because of such advice, he will naturally consider it valueless for the future. If, on the other hand, he feels the broker is honest, whether interested in the commission or not, he will in most cases more than make up the lost commission in the future. Here again the confidence and reputation earned are the good will of the business.

A broker, as such, handles other people's money, and must always keep calm and not allow himself to be affected by boom excitements or the desire to make a commission. Many a sale has been spoiled by the over-anxious broker. If you make an offer and the owner wishes to consider, don't show your anxiety and try and push the deal through. Nine cases out of ten the owner will take his time in spite of what is said and may even raise his price, misconstruing the desire for the commisson, for the offer being so low that the broker feared it would be found out.

Another common error made is, after procuring an asking price, inquiring if a price a little lower, naming a figure, would be entertained. The owner may be willing to take considerably less, and when the broker finds the purchaser will not give as much as the figure which had been named. The owner has been made to believe he could get the better amount and holds out. He misses a sale, the broker a commission, and the purchaser a property he might have had. Invariably when an owner says I have been offered so much, I ask: "Have you had that definite offer, or did some broker ask you would you take it, if he could get it?" You would be surprised how many times the latter is the case.

Of course, I regret to say, it is uphill work for the honest broker, but it is the only way to build up a business and take pride in it and eventually it is appreciated by the community and then the road is easy. A lawyer or doctor must study for years to learn the profession; a merchant must manufacture his article before he can sell it. Why should not the real estate broker give up time in building up a reputation even to the loss of commissions? If the moral side of it does not appeal, take it from the hard practical side, that it pays to be honest, and do it even if you think it foolish. The other person knows you are honest and appreciates it, and comes back or sends friends to you; and if you refuse to comply with the request, which may call for something not strictly within the lines of straightforward honest business, the very man you refuse will have respect for you and come back or recommend you when there is need for an honest man.

Don't misunderstand my putting such great emphasis on this phase of the question, but it is deplorable what a large percentage of the brokers will sacrifice their clients' interests, so long as they make a commission. And this is largely due to the fact that the brokerage business needs no capital, and so many drift into it who have failed in other walks of life and being well on in years, care nothing for the future, as long as they are making as much as possible in the present.

THE AUCTION BRANCH.

Now a few words about the auction branch of the business. The same as I said above as to honest methods applies here. There is considerable more in the buying at auction than people imagine. Of course, no one can tell what is in the other bidder's mind. But by keeping close watch on the bidders you can judge whether to bid a small amount or a large one. In the first place a man attending an auction should know what he considers the property worth, and then bid his limit, no matter what he may think is going on.

Often men stop bidding before their limit has been reached, thinking the property is being protected, and bids being made in the interest of the owners. What of it; bid its value; if you don't get it, no harm has been done; if you do you are satisfied. I recall an instance where we offered a plot at auction; our instructions were to sell at $105,000; a well-known operator offered $104,000 and stopped. The property was bid up and bought in by a representative of the owner for $117,000. After the sale the operator said to me I would have gone to $110,000 if I had not seen it was being protected. He would have bought it for $105,000. The next day an offer was made to the owner of $125,000, and the contract was signed for over $130,000 within a few days. This was No. 17 John st, where the Dennison Mfg. Co. is now located.

Another error in buying at auction is to offer small amounts when the property is way below your limit, because the smaller the amount you raise a bid, the more likely is your opponent to bid once more, and so on until it has gone up thousands; whereas one substantial offer would have discouraged further bids and secured the property at less than it was intended to bid for it.

The great advantage of an auction is that one can see and hear what others are willing to offer, and realize that each bid is a bona fide offer. Quick action is necessary to procure the property.

The Mount Vernon Outlook.

BY WILLIAM S. ANDERSON.

The Mount Vernon real estate market is in a very healthy and vigorous condition. A survey of the transfers recorded during the past six months reveals a list twice as long as that for the corresponding six months of last year. There is also a large amount of building going on in various sections, including the erection of flats, stores, two-family houses and private residences. The demand for moderate-priced property of all kinds is strong, and promises to grow stronger. There are several factors which have contributed toward producing this result.

First, the well-matured and far-reaching plans of the railroads now entering our city to handle a greatly increased population throughout this section of Westchester County.

Second, the certainty of the building of the New York, Westchester & Boston Electric road, the right of way for which through the easterly section of our city has been secured, and on which work has been actually started.

Third, the enormous activity in realty in the Borough of the Bronx, where values have risen at such a rapid rate that many people who had been living on quiet residence streets for years have been driven by the invasion of flats and apartment houses, to seek cheaper and more restricted property farther out. To many dwellers in the Borough of the Bronx and in Harlem, the beauty of our well-kept, shady streets and spacious lawns is a revelation, and the moderate price at which comfortable homes among us, either to rent or purchase, can be secured, appeals to them in a practical way. A remarkably large number of our sales are made to just such parties.

The establishing within our midst of several large manufacturing concerns, notably the Mauser Manufacturing Company, the Max Ams Machine Company, and the plant of the Henry Bonnard Bronze Company, now in process of building, has created a great demand for low rents, which only the speedy erection of a cheaper class of flats, two-family an dsmall one-family houses can satisfy. There is much land available for this purpose, and it is certainly one of the greatest needs of the hour.

There are a goodly number of buyers for new and up-to-date houses, on lots 50x100 or more, selling for from $8,000 to $12,000, in a restricted neighborhood, within five to eight minutes' walk to the railroad station. The demand for houses to rent at $40 to $60 is far beyond us, also for flats and apartments renting from $15 to $35, and even higher. Two-family houses, well-located, renting from $25 to $40 per floor, are very much needed, and could be rented from the plans. Well-located lots at fair prices are readily absorbed, as well as acreage, convenient to lines of existing and projected railroads. One of the most promising features of the market is the appearance of numbers of speculators from Manhattan and the Bronx, who, after a thorough examination of the situation, are boldly buying investment property which now shows good returns.

Far-sighted men are needed to take advantage of the present situation and to meet its demands. There is no place or room for pessimists, and they should "go back to the woods."

CONSULTING ENGINEER ON TESTS OF MATERIALS
ENGINEERING BUILDING COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY
TELEPHONE 1600 MORNINGSIDE.

NEW YORK. October 3rd, 1905.

Mr. Paul Kuhne,
President Truss Metal Lath Company,
15 Whitehall Street,
New York City.

Dear Sir:

In response to your request for a statement regarding the condition of the end walls of my partition fire test building which I recently demolished, it affords me pleasure to subscribe to the following:

This building was designed especially for the purpose of making fire tests upon partition constructions according to the regulations of the New York Bureau of Buildings. The end walls and roof were permanent construction, the side walls were built in with the material to be tested.

The building was originally erected by your Company for the purpose of testing your own construction, and upon which test you received the approval of the Bureau of Buildings.

At my request you made the end walls three inches thick and the roof four to five inches thick. The walls were made by filling the spaces with a sheet of your "truss metal lath" and plastered both sides with lime mortar mixed with about 20% of Portland cement. The roof was constructed in a similar manner.

The building was erected in July 1904 and was in service just one year. Improvements near it compelled its removal in August last. During the year ten tests were held in the building

P. K - 2.

The fire in each case was maintained for one hour, and the temperature during the last half hour of each test was an average of 1700 degrees F. Water was applied to the side walls at a pressure of 25 to 25 lbs. and this always struck the ceiling and back wall to some extent. During the year a few patches of plaster came off from the inside of the walls after some of the test, these were repaired as required. Due to a settlement of the roof this Spring, it had to be braced and a small piece cut out and replaced. This is all the repairing that was done except plastering the corners where injured by removal of partitions under test.

Neither the walls nor the floor showed a crack worthy of mention during this service and at the time of their removal they were fit for a number of further tests. In fact they were so secure and solid it was hard task to demolish them with a pick and sledge.

It is self-evident that partitions of such thickness and construction will successfully resist a fierce conflagration of long duration.

Yours very truly,

Ira H. Woolson

BUILDING NOTES

The Steel Plate Association, which held a meeting this week in Jersey City, decided to let prices alone.

Many houses advertised as suitable for two families are short on bedrooms.

It is very significant that the Board of Underwriters, which has an experimental station in Chicago, takes no stand for alleged "fireproof" wood.

R. J. F. Gerstle, 347 East 44th st, was low bidder for fire lines and sprinklers for the new building for the Museum of Natural History, at Central Park West and 77th st. C. Volz, 160 5th av, is architect.

All kinds of prints for the use of architects and contractors are turned out with great rapidity and at very reasonable prices by E. G. Soltmann & Co., 125 East 42d st. The plant of this firm is equipped with new machinery of special make, and rush jobs of the largest size can be handled promptly. Telephone, 6057 38th st.

The Stuyvesant Building, 15th st and 5th av, is to be equipped with 46 double-speed Reliance Ball Bearing Door Hangers; the Knickerbocker Building, 16th st and 5th av, will have 66 of this variety of hanger; while 19 single door hangers will be used in addition. The Government Printing Office at Washington has just been equipped with 65 double-speed hangers made by this company, whose offices are at 1 Madison av, New York.

The Truss Metal Lath Co., Inc., 15-25 Whitehall st, have issued a clean-cut and business-like catalogue. In fireproof construction this material possesses some very admirable qualities peculiar to itself. It was awarded the silver medal at St. Louis in 1904, passed unanimously a crucial test at Columbia University testing station, was in consequence approved for the Borough of Manhattan, and is rapidly growing, as it deserves, in general use for fireproof partitions, elevators, dumb-waiters and vent shafts and bulkheads.

The Index to Volume LXXV. of the Record and Guide, covering the period between January 1 and June 30, 1905, is ready for delivery. Price, $1. A permanent organization formed to protect Real Estate and the interests allied thereto. It purposes to work, amongst other things, for the repeal of the Mortgage Tax Law. This law has increased the rates of interest on mortgages, which means that the borrower pays the Mortgage Tax. An increase in the interest rate depreciates the value of mortgaged real property, since it costs more to carry it. All persons interested in real estate are invited to join this organization. The annual dues are Five Dollars, and no further liability attaches to members.

CONVEYANCES

Whenever the letters Q. C., C. a. G. and B. & S. occur, preceded by the name of the grantee, they mean as follows:

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Baragain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it. The street or avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

4th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

5th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

6th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

7th.—A $20,000—$30,000 ndicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only, and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before 2d figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction.

THE bullish movement which was started in the stocks of certain industrial specialties towards the end of last week has gone the way of all recent movements of the same kind. It had a few days of success; but beyond a definite point it met with stiff resistance, and during the week now ended the increases in quotations have been slowly crumbling away. This is but another indication that the time is not yet; nevertheless, the movement was, to a certain extent, justified. The railway supply companies have the assurance of a year of active and profitable business; and before it is over it is probable that many of them will be able to resume the payment of dividends upon their common stocks. If such proves to be the case, there is room for more of an advance in the securities of these companies than there is in the great mass of railroad securities. The seven per cent. preferred stock of a well-managed industrial corporation should sell above 110; and it might sell even as high as 120. In certain cases such stocks already sell as high as that; and when the dividends on other stocks of the same class are secured by a further accumulation of profits, so that they can hardly be interferred with during a period of depression, they ought to be worth 120 on an investment basis. But, as we have said, no matter how good this reasoning may be, the time is not yet. For the present undoubtedly conservative principles counsel a waiting market; and it is apparent that the conservative influences propose to control the situation. Every indication, however, continues to look in the direction of a persistence of good business throughout 1906. The railroads would not be investing so many million dollars in new rolling stock did they not have the best reasons for anticipating a year in which the freight offered for shipment will assume an unprecedented volume.

THE success of the auction sale of the Aldrich Estate, which took place on Wednesday of the past week, must be accounted for partly by the good general demand which exists at the present time for improved real estate in Manhattan and partly by the excellence of the arrangements which preceded the sale and prepared for it. It is rare that satisfactory prices will be obtained at a sale of this kind unless the fact and the details of the sale are well advertised; and in this instance the gentlemen responsible for the sale did not spare expense in placing and keeping a list of the property to be offered before the public. The consequence was that on the whole a very fair level of values was obtained—particularly for the medium-priced properties. The two large parcels on lower Broadway sold, indeed, for prices which were low rather than high; and the purchasers of both of these parcels will be able to realize in the course of time a handsome profit on their investment. But while the prices were not high, they would have been considered high not so very long ago. The remainder of the property was situated for the most part in the wholesale business district. This is not a part of the city in which real estate is ever active in the speculative sense. It is a district in which property returns a safe and fair income on an investment; but it is not a part of the city in which any early or large increases in value can be expected. Nevertheless, the prices obtained were as high as could be anticipated, and they should be very satisfactory to the heirs of the estate. The buyers of these parcels were, to a very considerable extent, professional operators; and the incident shows that the regular professional demand for property, even in unspeculative neighborhoods, is sufficient to enable a property-owner to sell his property, if necessary, without sacrificing it. It must be a very worthless piece of real estate, indeed, which, if it can be purchased at a fair price, will not offer to some operator the opportunity to make a good profit.

IT is an encouraging sign that, in spite of the enormous business which is being transacted in the various branches of the iron and steel trades, the prices of the most important forms of iron and steel manufacture have not soared anything like as high as they did either in 1899 or in 1902. According to the Iron Age, Bessemer pig iron sold in Pittsburg for $22.05 in 1902 and $25 in 1899, whereas its present price is only $16.60. In 1899 the highest monthly average price for Bessmeer billets was $39; in 1902 it was $35.20, while at present it is $26. Beams are selling now at $1.70, against $2.35 in 1902 and $2.25 in 1899. These figures show plainly that the steel trade is under very much better control than it was during the last two periods of great prosperity; and there can be no doubt that this control is in some measure consciously and intentionally exercised. Leading interests have refused to advance prices, when such advances were economically possible, because they wanted to prevent a runaway market; and the success of these conservative interests in preventing prices from passing the danger point indicates that the reaction when it comes is not likely to be either so severe or so sudden as it was in 1903. Indeed, there is no reason why the American steel trade should not hereafter be spared the terrific and dangerous fluctuations between opulence and starvation, which have marked its past. Of course, there will be periods of comparatively good and periods of comparatively poor business; but if prices can be prevented from becoming excessively high at one time, it should also be possible to prevent them from becoming excessively low at another time. Moreover, the prospect that the great majority of the important American steel roads have been placed permanently on the list of dividend-payers will in the long run make a considerable difference to the steel industry. The railroads are the great consumers of steel; and, in case their finances are permanently improved, their purchases from the steel manufacturers should not vary in different years as largely as they have done heretofore. It will, consequently, be extremely interesting to see whether the conservatism which is characterizing the existing prosperity of the steel trade will serve to prolong the period of good business as well as to break the fall—when it comes.

THE action that the Fire Underwriters have taken recently in regard to "fireproof" wood is set forth in another column of this issue. The individual who can stand up in the face of this action and still assert the value of treated wood as fireproof material must either have some pecuniary interest to serve or be possessed of a mental apparatus that works naturally on the "bias." If the Underwriters do not value fireproof wood, to whom is it valuable? We are speaking, of course, of fireproof wood in connection with the construction of our "skyscrapers" wherein it is ludicrously unnecessary. There may well be a place for it elsewhere as a fire retardant or fire stop in a structure of high combustability where wood and wood only can be used. Even in these cases, however, concrete is now offered at a cost only slightly in excess of the cost of plain untreated lumber. This, however, is beside the immediate matter, which is that the legal requirement regarding fireproof wood should be expunged promptly from the Building Code.

THE "Evening Mail" takes the title insurance companies to task, because they charge for examining the title to a parcel of real estate which they refuse to guarantee; and it compares the title insurance companies unfavorably in this respect with fire or life insurance companies, which when they refuse to insure charge nothing for the examination. But surely this comparison is based upon an absurd misunderstanding of the function of title insurance, as contrasted to that of life insurance. When a company insures a man's life, it assumes the risk of contracting to pay a certain sum of money in return for a comparatively small annual premium; and it takes this risk because it is a matter of experience that if a man enjoys ordinary good health, he will probably live an average number of years. He may not do so in any particular case; but in a large number of cases the company can count upon the maintenance of the average. The only purpose of the examination is to obtain some assurance that a particular case has the average chance of life for a man of his age, and the expense of the examination is exceedingly small compared to one year's premium on an ordinary policy. The title insurance companies, on the other hand, merely insure against a possible mistake in the examination of a title. The work and expense to which they are put is the same in the case of a defective as it is in the case of a perfect title; and they have every right to charge for it. To ask a responsible title insurance company not to charge unless the title is insured, would be very much the same thing as to ask a physician not to put in a bill unless the patient gets well.

THE work of the assessors of the Tax Department is so frequently criticized that when any instance occurs which exhibits their work in a favorable light, that instance should be given its share of publicity. The prices obtained at the sale of the Aldrich Estate, which were by common consent counted fair, are compared below with the assessed valuations of these properties; and it will be seen that the result makes a very creditable showing for the Tax Department. The following list includes all the more important parcels sold:

| | Selling price | Assessed value | Percentage of assessed value to selling price |
|---|---|---|---|
| Broadway, 29 | $1,050,000 | $850,000 | 80 20-21 |
| Broadway, 41-45 | 1,200,000 | 1,100,000 | 91 2-3 |
| Broadway, 600-602, and Crosby st, 134-136 | 405,000 | 370,000 | 91 29-81 |
| Broadway, 681 | 175,000 | 155,000 | 88 4-7 |
| Broadway, 372 | 139,000 | 138,000 | 99 39-139 |
| Warren st, 32, and Chambers st, 102 | 248,000 | 215,000 | 86 43-62 |
| Leonard st, 75-77 | 169,000 | 155,000 | 91 121-169 |
| Warren st, 82-84 | 102,500 | 85,000 | 82 38-41 |
| Worth st, 71-77 | 374,500 | 380,000 | 101 50-107 |
| Murray st, 17-19 | 200,000 | 166,000 | 83 |
| Murray st, 23-27 Warren st, 27-31 | 435,000 | 368,000 | 84 52-87 |
| 83d st, 48 East | 33,500 | 27,000 | 80 40-67 |
| Amsterdam av, 321-331 | 267,000 | 225,000 | 84 24-89 |
| Total | $4,798,500 | $4,477,000 | 93 1-3 |

It will be seen that in one instance the property did not bring as much money as the price at which it was assessed; and at the other end of the scale a private house is assessed for only 80 per cent. of its selling value. But these variations and the others which the list shows are not wider than must always exist between official and real valuations. There is always room for an honest difference of opinion respecting the value of a piece of real estate, and such differences may well represent 10 or 15 per cent. of the actual value of the property. But taking the whole list together the official appraisal shows a valuation amounting to about 93 per cent. of the selling value, which certainly reflects credit upon the work of the official appraisers.

THE various tax-payers' associations are doing their best to make the mortgage tax count in the present campaign, particularly in relation to the election of Assemblymen. Their influence should be and is being exerted against every candidate, be he Republican or Democratic, who refuses to promise his vote in favor of a repeal of the tax, and there is so much active discontent with the operation of the law, that a candidate who refuses such a promise will seriously compromise his chance of re-election. It is to be regretted, however, that the more important Democratic speakers have not been somewhat more free and persistent in denouncing the tax. The Mayor has made certain reference to it, but it is not being used as a campaign argument to the extent that its injustice and unpopularity demand. It is a comforting reflection, however, that the powers at Albany who imposed the tax on the people of this State will not retain for long the authority which they have used so badly. They certainly look like one of the most unpopular body of politicians which has ever set in council around the Governor's chair.

The Proposed Partial Exemption Tax Bill.

NO PROBABILITY OF ENACTING IT, PRESIDENT KELSEY, OF THE TITLE GUARANTEE CO., BELIEVES.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

In answer to your letter asking my views on the subject of the proposed Partial Tax Exemption Bill which is being advocated, I desire to say that I do not approve of the proposition. I see no reason why the owner of a small house should not pay the regular real estate tax on it. Undoubtedly, he would be glad to be relieved of it. I know of no taxpayers, large or small, who do not have the same feeling. The measure would have a distinctively bad influence, for the small householders are very numerous and are the strength of the body politic. They should feel the burdens of government sufficiently to be zealous in watching it and in seeing it economically administered.

If the parties who are urging the measure would put the same amount of effort into securing the repeal of the new Mortgage Tax Law, which has raised the interest on all the small and large householders who have mortgages on their property, they would help to correct an injustice instead of trying to create a new one. Furthermore, there is good prospect of success in the effort to repeal the new Mortgage Tax Law, and none whatever, in my judgment, in the effort to relieve a portion of the community of real estate taxes altogether. Truly yours,

C. H. KELSEY.

What Would Be the Ultimate Effect?

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

I cannot say that I have considered the subject of partial tax exemption which is being advocated by the "Evening Telegram," but on its surface it looks rather as if it were taking from your right hand to give to your left. Undoubtedly there would be some relief for small owners, but the increased tax on the balance of property, to say nothing of the increased tax on vacant land, might ultimately affect the value of the property, thereby affecting the value of the property of the small owner whom it is meant to benefit.

Again, it must be considered that it is generally a large owner of property who, by buying the large pieces and cutting them up or building, makes it possible for the small owner to obtain property. It would seem to me that the law might affect the interests of the middleman, who takes risks before the small owner gets the benefit, and whose interests should be carefully considered.

I can quite understand the desire of the outlying districts for a law of this kind. At a first glance it would seem to be desirable, but whether the ultimate effect and principle established would not in the end react to the detriment of all real estate is, in my mind, a question to be carefully considered.

Washington's New Municipal Building.

(Special Correspondence of the Record and Guide.)

Washington, Oct. 23.—At last Washington is to have a City Hall in keeping with the dignity of the capital of the nation. The venerable, old, cracked and scarred structure that now does duty as a City Hall is to be replaced by a beautiful modern structure, costing $2,500,000. It is located in the triangle designated by the Park Commissioners for Public Buildings, and has been designed with the idea of working it into the extensive scheme for the beautification of Pennsylvania avenue and The Mall. South of it are the new Agricultural Department building and the new National Museum.

Already visitors are beginning to see an improvement in the stretch of parking from the Capitol to the White House, and when the architects, landscape gardeners, and bridge builders are through with this section of the capital it will have one of the most beautiful parkways in the world, stretching from the Capitol on the east to the Potomac on the west. Even the yellow clay banks of the upper Potomac are to be beautified in the carrying out of the general plan for the reservation, which will include all the departmental buildings, except the Interior and the Post Office Departments, and the White House.

The new District of Columbia Municipal Building will be a great change from the present City Hall, with its dark, damp halls, ill-ventilated rooms and unsanitary arrangement, literally smelling to Heaven. The new building has an imposing facade of light stone, four stories above the basement, the high cornice, which supports an arched roof, being ornamented along the Pennsylvania avenue front with colossal statues. A highly ornamental group, containing three figures, surmounts the centre of the building. In general the design accords well with the architectural style of the Treasury Department and the Post Office Buildings.

The inner arrangement and construction of the new Municipal Building is of the most up-to-date type, consisting of National Fireproofing standard hollow tile arches, reinforced by special steel bars. Cope & Stewardson, of Philadelphia, are the architects, and the builder is James L. Parsons.

WANAMAKER MUST OBEY LAW

By Building His Counters and Shelves of Fireproof Wood—An Instance of the Hardship of the Code—No Alternative for the Building Bureau

On August 7th, 1905, Mr. Isaac A. Hopper, Superintendent of Building for the Borough of Manhattan, sent notice of violation to the A. T. Stewart Real Estate Company, owner, and William C. Lewis, architect, that a violation of the Building Code exists at the premises described below, consisting in building stationary platforms, setting up shelves and fixtures of wood that has not been treated by any process to make it fireproof. The building referred to is situated on the whole of the block on the east side of Broadway, from 8th to 9th sts, and running to Fourth av, being a 14-sty brick and stone building, about 188 feet 2¾ inches front, 187 feet, 10 inches rear, 339 feet 4 inches deep, and 217 feet 6 inches high, and intended to be occupied as a store.

The violation not having been removed, and the work of installing interior finish continuing, the Superintendent of Buildings, on the 6th day of September, 1905, applied to the Supreme Court for an injunction to restrain the A. T. Stewart Realty Company "from placing or erecting in said building, or any part thereof, any dwarfed partitions, shelves, platforms, cases or counters constructed of wood that has not been covered with metal, or that has not been treated by some process approved by the Superintendent of Buildings to render the same fireproof." A temporary injunction was issued, returnable on Monday, Sept. 11th, 1905.

The complaint alleges, among other things, that the building being constructed by the A. T. Stewart Realty Company, known as Wanamaker's, was being constructed in violation of Section 105 of the Building Code, in the following particulars:

The interior finish, consisting of dwarfed partitions, shelves, platforms, cases and counters, is being placed on the various floors of the said building, constructed of wood which is not covered with metal, or has not been treated by some process approved by the Superintendent of Buildings to render the same fireproof. The said partitions extend about seven feet high above the floor; the shelves are from six to eight feet high; the platforms are about six inches high.

It is contended in the Twelfth Item of the Complaint that the words "other interior finish," as employed in Section 105 of the Building Code, are intended to include the dwarfed partitions, shelves, platforms, cases and counters, as above specified, inasmuch as such structures are essential features of the building for the purposes of the business proposed to be conducted therein. "They form a part of the building itself, and are being put therein for the purpose of finishing and preparing the building for occupation. These structures are in fact a part of the interior finish of the building."

In the Thirteenth Item of the Complaint, it is stated "that the building is one of the largest in the city of New York, and several thousands of feet of inflammable wood have been and will be placed in said building in the construction of said interior finish . . . which will endanger the building in case of fire and render the same less fireproof than is contemplated by the aforesaid laws and Building Code."

In the affidavit of Superintendent Hopper it is stated (in addition to the intention of the meaning of the words "other interior finish," already quoted in the Complaint) that "Section "105 of the Building Code goes so far as to provide that the "inside window frames and sash, doors and trim, all of which "form only a small portion of the woodwork in a building of this "kind, shall be covered with metal, or that the wood shall be "treated by some process approved by the Superintendent of "Buildings to render the same fireproof. It surely was not the "intention of the framers of the Building Code to provide for the "fireproof construction of such minor details in a building, and "at the same time permit the placing within such building of the "vast quantities of inflammable wood now being placed in said "building. . . . Not was it the intention to require fireproof "floors to be provided in this building, as said section does, and "at the same time permit such floors to be covered by the in-"flammable structures that are now being placed. . . . The "section provides for the fireproofing of nearly everything in the "building; it then concludes by requiring 'other interior finish' "to be rendered fireproof. These words were obviously intended "to cover such constructions as dwarfed partitions, shelves, "platforms, cases and counters."

Mr. Robert C. Ogden, President of the A. T. Stewart Realty Company, and also a member of the firm of John Wanamaker, which is to occupy the building, in an affidavit replying to the complaint in the action, contended: "For the purpose of carry-"ing on such business, it is necessary to display various goods "on proper shelves, cases and counters. The nature, condition "and form of such partitions, shelves, platforms, cases and coun-"ters are only temporary, and do not in any sense constitute a "part of the building, and their placing is dictated merely by "the exigencies and demands of the business. That on the "tenth floor of said building, wooden cases are placed as alleged "in the complaint. The design, and construction and workman-"ship of the same are proper in every respect. The said cases "are placed on the system of detachable and sectional packing "cases, and are used for the following purposes, viz.: When "original wooden cases of china or other breakable goods ar-"rive at the store they are usually left in such original wooden "cases until actually needed. To simplify the large business "which the said firm intends to carry on in said building, it is "proposed to do away with the storing of such original wooden "cases, to remove the goods from the same immediately upon "their arrival and to place same in an orderly and systematic "manner in said wooden cases, constructed as aforesaid. Such "cases on the tenth and thirteenth floors are merely to replace "the original wooden cases. The dwarfed partitions mentioned "are necessary for the purposes of the business, viz.: To enable "the patrons and customers to try on shoes, clothes, dresses, etc. "The said partitions do not reach up to the ceiling of any of the "rooms, and are likely to be removed at various times of the "year according to the places where the goods are sold which necessitate the presence of such dwarfed partitions. The con-"struction of such partitions is of the most temporary nature. "They can be easily removed. They serve merely the purpose "of dividing stalls to try on goods sold by said firm as is cus-"tomary in all department stores."

MR. BURNHAM SAYS FIREPROOF WOOD WILL SPOIL THE GOODS.

Mr. Ernest F. Graham, a member of the firm of D. H. Burnham & Co., architects for the building, in his affidavit, contended: "From the very nature of the retail business it would "be useless, as well as injurious to the business, to have such "so-called fireproof wood used for counters, etc., as many of the "goods carried in such business would be spoiled and ruined by "the moisture and the composition which is forced into this "wood in the process of fireproofing, which continually oozes "out of the wood, thus absolutely ruining the goods placed "thereon . . ."

THE DECISION.

Following is the decision of Judge Truax, continuing the injunction:

I have no doubt that it was the intention of the framers of Sec. 105 of the Building Code that the words "other interior finish" would include such structures as "dwarfed" partitions, shelves, platforms, cases and counters. The section above referred to requires that the inside window frames, sash, door trim and other interior finish of a building more than twelve stories high must be of wood covered with metal or of wood treated by some process approved by the Superintendent of Buildings to render the same fireproof.

It is shown by the papers on this motion and is in fact conceded that the interior finish which the defendant is putting in the building, and which consists of "dwarfed" partitions, shelves, platform, cases and counters, is constructed with wood that has not been covered with metal or treated with some process approved by the Superintendent of Buildings, so as to render the same fireproof. The dwarfed partitions, shelves, platforms, cases and counters, that the defendant is placing in this building form part of the interior finish of the building, and in fact are necessary in order to render the building fit for occupancy and business. They form by far the largest part of the woodwork in the building. In fact, it was stated on the argument that it would cost some 400 or 500 thousand dollars to put in said partitions, shelves, platforms, cases and counters. If the defendant continues using material that it is now using, the building that it is constructing will not be a fireproof building, and the object of the Building Code will have been defeated.

It is claimed, however, by the defendant that the plaintiff has no right to maintain this action, and that this court has no jurisdiction to grant an injunction herein. And the defendant cites the case of the village of New Rochelle vs. Lange 75 Hun. 608, and the city of Mt. Vernon vs. Seeley 74 App. Div. in support of its claim; these decisions do not apply to the case at bar. . . .

Motion to continue the injunction is granted. Settle order on notice.

Every builder, architect and contractor who demands that the Fireproof Wood provision be stricken from the Building Code should write to the Building Committee of the Board of Aldermen, or to the Hon. John T. McCall, and urge an early hearing on the ordinance.

Moving a Bridge.

METHODS EMPLOYED BY THE TERRY & TENCH COMPANY AT KINGSBRIDGE.

The necessity of changing the bridge over the Ship Canal at Kingsbridge was caused by the building of the Rapid Transit road, which, it is intended, will be run to Van Cortlandt Park. From the high hill back of Fort George the track is carried on an elevated structure, which, in turn, required a double-deck bridge across the Ship Canal, and as the present drawbridge could not be changed to suit the requirements, a new bridge had to be designed with a floor system for street traffic and an upper deck for the Rapid Transit. At the same time arrangements were made to provide for Broadway surface cars across by putting a system of yokes in the floor system that would accommodate the sub-trolleys of the Metropolitan system.

In order to interfere as little as possible with the street traffic, the contractors, Terry & Tench, were allowed only three days at the most in which to close the bridge to traffic at any one time, and consequently they had to devise a means whereby the work of changing the several spans would be done in the most expeditious manner. They therefore made use of the largest scows to be obtained, viz.: 33 ft by 100 ft by 10 ft sides, and upon these were built suitable timber falsework to a height which would permit of the scows being floated under the spans at low tide, and the span to be moved, lifted by the tide as the tide rose. One scow was used to float out the old span on the south end of the draw, and a similar scow carried the new span into position; and as the tide lowered, this span was guided into its permanent location. One span, the south shore span, was thus moved on Thursday last, the 19th inst. These scows, with their spans on, were pulled by fall lines led to a hoisting engine located on a derrick barge alongside. It should be explained, however, that the shore ends of the two spans above referred to rested on heavy car trucks, which in turn traveled on a railroad track constructed for the purpose, and only the ends of the spans toward the channel rested on the scows.

It had been advertised that two days would be allowed for the changing of this south span, but the bridge was only closed to the crossing of wagons from nine in the morning until about six-thirty in the evening of the same day, and foot traffic was only stopped for a very short time. Fifteen minutes elapsed from the time of starting to move out the old span until the new span was in place; but about nine minutes of this time was used in overhauling the drift in the fall lines.

The same system will be used to place the north shore span in position, and this work will be done shortly after the first of the coming month.

In building these two spans it was found possible to do so alongside of the present bridge, but this cannot be done in the case of the draw span. Accordingly a site was selected at 215th st where piles were driven and falsework constructed upon which the draw span will be built. There is a delay in the building of this, as some small amount of material has been condemned, in consequence of which the whole span has been held up. It is now expected that everything will be on hand by December 1st, so that the work can then be hurried to completion.

The method of moving the old draw span out and the new one in will be in principle the same as that used in moving the shore span, excepting that the old draw will be floated out entirely, four scows being used for the purpose, and deposited in its new location. Then the new draw will be immediately floated from 215th st to its permanent position. It is intended that all machinery will be in working condition, so that when the new draw is placed on the old pier it will be ready to operate.

All of the three spans of the old bridge will be floated to 207th st, Harlem River, to form part of the new bridge being erected at that point, landing on the Bronx side just below Fordham and University Heights. The foundation for the draw span is already in, and the additional foundations are now being constructed. This bridge will give a most convenient means of communication between the Subway (West Side) at 207th st and Amsterdam av, and a largely populated and growing section of the Bronx.

BOARD OF UNDERWRITERS ACT

Pronounce Against the Fireproof Wood Law, and Will Seek to Repeal It

THE popular movement in the building trade for the repeal of the Fireproof Wood Law received a particularly valuable accession this week, when the Board of Underwriters voted unanimously to give their support to the cause, and appointed a committee to appear before the Aldermanic Committee on Buildings and urge the expurgation of the provision from the Building Code. The committee consists of Messrs. Henry Evans, chairman, of the Continental Fire Insurance Company; Elijah Kennedy, of Weed & Kennedy; and C. T. Smith, of the German-American Fire Insurance Company. Heretofore the Board has not been committed either for or against the material, but has made no concession in its favor. Previous to the appointment of this committee the Board took the position that so long as the Building Department did not require the wood for any one building be treated by but one fireproofing company, the Board would not be in a position to give an opinion of the efficiency of that treatment. This announcement of the intention of the Underwriters to advocate the Ware amendment striking out of the Building Code the obnoxious provision, is certain to be received with great satisfaction by architects and builders.

THE UNDERWIRTERS' ACTION.

The position of the Board was officially stated by Mr. Elijah A. Kennedy, a member of the committee.

"The sentiment of fire underwriters is, as far as I can observe," said Mr. Kennedy, "quite unanimous in favor of the proposal to repeal the present requirement of the Building Law for the use of so-called 'fireproof' wood. The New York Board has appointed a committee, consisting of Mr. Evans, President of the Continental; Mr. Smith, Secretary of the German-American; and myself, to represent and express the sentiments and convictions of underwriters in this matter. Mr. Evans, as chairman of the committee, will address the committee of the Board of Aldermen, to whom this matter has been referred.

"As underwriters, we feel that we can take any provision of the Building Law or any other law, and fix our rates accordingly; but, while we have nothing to request of the authorities, as good citizens we feel it incumbent upon us to tell the results of our observations and experience, and we, therefore, UTTERLY CONDEMN the present provision of the law requiring the use of this so-called fireproof wood."

NO DATE FOR A HEARING YET.

Busy with election interests, the members of the Building Committee of the Board of Aldermen have not had time to take up the Ware ordinance and arrange for a hearing, and an intimation has been made that nothing can be done until after election. But certain it is, that whenever the hearing is held, there will assemble representatives of the most influential interests in the city—real estate, insurance, building, architectural, engineering, manufacturing and financial—to support the amendment. Patience under imposition has been exhausted. A striking instance of the hardship caused by the existing law is given in another article. Mr. Wanamaker, besides having to use "fireproof" wood for structural parts and trim of his new building, is virtually compelled to use it also for shelves, counters and dwarf partitions, the Supreme Court having this week decided against him in a legal action which he brought for relief; and this in the face of the probability, in the opinion of his architects, D. H. Burnham & Co., that the chemicals in the treated wood will more or less injure goods stored thereon.

MR. HARDENBERGH'S VIEWS.

Mr. H. J. Hardenbergh, architect of the Waldorf-Astoria, and distinguished in his profession throughout the country, speaking this week for publication in the Record and Guide, expressed his views very plainly in the matter.

"Without going into the question of 'fireproofed' wood in general," said Mr. Hardenbergh, "I am pleased to be able to put myself on record as being strongly opposed to the ordinance which compels the use, in buildings over a certain height, of wood treated by the processes thus far invented for rendering it fireproof, all of which have proved unsatisfactory. In my judgment wood cannot be properly fireproofed by the methods lately employed and insisted upon by the Bureau of Buildings. The arguments against the use of the processes have all been clearly stated, and it is useless for me to more than name them:

"The resulting corrosion when metals are brought in contact; the injury to woods which are to receive cabinet finish; the uncertainty of the process of forcing silicates into the pores of woods which are of varying density; the lessening of the efficiency after a lapse of time. These arguments have all been confirmed in my experience and practice.

"I deem it a great injustice to owners and architects to insist upon enforcing the ordinance as it now stands, and I urgently recommend its repeal."

THE DAMAGE TO THE TRINITY BUILDING.

Mr. Francis H. Kimball, the distinguished architect of the Trinity Building, this week remarked that he could corroborate in every particular the account given in the Record and Guide three weeks ago of the damage done in the Trinity Building by fireproof wood. Mr. Kimball spoke strongly against the "fireproof" wood imposition in an interview for the Record and Guide. He said it was a very remarkable thing that the Board of Underwriters refuse to recognize the treated wood, and continue to charge enormous rates for insuring the furniture and contents of offices. Notwithstanding, fireproof buildings are in reality proof against the spread of fires originating within them. Two fires in the Manhattan Building have been confined to the room in which they originated, though no "fireproof" wood is used in that building, and a fire in the Empire Building recently was confined to a small space, as it had nothing to feed upon, Mr. Kimball added:

"If this process was recognized by the Board of Underwriters as a sufficient and lasting protection of the material treated to the end that rates of insurance on high buildings would be proportionately lessened, then its value would be apparent and the measure should not be confined strictly to buildings of a certain height, but should embrace all classes of structures in which wood is largely used, not only for finishing work, but in their construction. But the contrary is the case. Its value as a fire protection is not recognized by the Board of Fire Underwriters, so I am informed; therefore, why should the law require the use of a method not recognized by our very highest authorities in such matters.

"Furthermore, it limits the use of finishing woods to a few kinds, as some species will become brittle after treatment, and be rendered unfit for use; in other cases it discolors and destroys the original color and fibre of the material. We are thus compelled to adopt a certain kind of material, shutting out other kinds which are of greater value for decorative purposes.

"Again, the life of the process is of serious moment. It has been found that dampness destroys the effect of the solution. In the case of floors thus treated frequent washing will soon nullify its protective qualities, and the duration of its natural life is, under the very best conditions, problematical.

"There are but few concerns engaged in this business, none of which have the facilities for meeting quickly the great demand for lumber, and at the same time do the work in a conscientious manner. It requires a long time to thoroughly fill the wood with the solution and kiln-dry it for use, so that it is more than likely that 'forcing or driving' will be resorted to in order to meet the demand. This no doubt explains the reason of its failure in tests made by the Building Department.

"These tests are made by a qualified inspector, who selects samples throughout a building where the work is being put up, marking and locating each sample, and in case of failure the particular work affected is condemned and notice of violation is served on the contractor, with an order for its removal. This, as you may well see, is a most unjust proceeding. The contractor is held responsible for non-compliance with an unjust and defective measure, which he is powerless to remedy, as he is compelled to accept an article, which, although meeting the approval of the Building Department, is, as a matter of fact, totally unreliable for the purposes intended."

The Home Club Not a Tenement House.

The Superintendent of Buildings, Isaac A. Hopper, Esq., has had under consideration an application (No. 1,202, N. B., 1905) for approval of the plans for the new "Home Club," at Nos. 11, 13 and 15 East 45th street, which is to be a nine-story fireproof building, described by the architects as a hotel, and as such, with some changes, it could have been approved by the Building Bureau.

An examination of the plans, however, disclosed that the building might perhaps be construed as coming under the Tenement House Law. It is to be known as "The Home Club," and from statements that appeared in the newspapers it seems that it is intended to be occupied by several families who wish to live independently and yet have hotel facilities without the necessity of leaving the building.

THE CITY HALL OF COPENHAGEN. Martin Nyrop, Architect.

The first story of the building contains a large kitchen, service room and serving pantry, besides a living apartment for a concierge, and a billiard room. The second story contains a large dining-room, drawing-room, reception room and serving room. Several of the upper stories contain complete apartments, with living rooms, bedrooms, reception rooms, dining-rooms and butlers' pantries. On some of the floors the rooms are also arranged to be let singly or in suites without dining-room facilities. The fourth floor so far has not yet been divided, being apparently left to be arranged to suit some future tenant.

It will be observed that there are no separate kitchens, and that the dining-rooms of the various apartments are served from the general kitchen in the first story.

Being in doubt himself, Superintendent Hopper sent the plans and application submitted to him to the Tenement House Commissioner, Edmond J. Butler, requesting his opinion as to whether or not the building is to be classed as a tenement house under the Tenement House Law, and whether or not plans and application should be filed with the Tenement House Department.

Mr. Butler, after a consideration of the plans, was forced to the conclusion that the Home Club cannot be classed as a tenement house under the Tenement House Law.

BUILDING NOTES

Hon. John Weiley MacKnight, one of the pioneers in concrete and asphalt construction in this city and Washington, D. C., died in Washington, D. C., Oct. 24.

The authoritative letter of Professor Woolson, of Columbia University, published in to-day's Record and Guide, properly places Truss Metal Lath alongside of the best in the very front rank of fireproofing materials.

L. C. Holden, 1133 Broadway, is architect for the 4-sty garage, 115x145, which Harry S. Houpt, 1591 Broadway, will build on the southeast corner of Broadway and 63d st. Houpt & Finney, Times Building, have the general contract.

Every builder in New York reads the Record and Guide. Hence, a message dropped into our columns will reach them. "We regard the Record and Guide as the standard paper of the Metropolitan building interests," said a prominent builder this week.

Mr. C. O. Mailloux, 76 William st, has been appointed electrical engineer for the new building for the New York Club, also for the new club house at 44th st, near Broadway, for the Alpha Delta Phi Club, of 33 West 33d st, for which Palmer & Hornbostel, 63 William st, are architects.

You can run your apartment house for less money if you install a combined garbage crematory and water heater. Why burn expensive coal when your water can be heated by burning the waste of the house? Send to W. T. Crook, 1133 Broadway, for particulars and a liberal introductory offer.

Work has been begun on the new chapel of the Novitiate of St. Andrew-on-Hudson, near Poughkeepsie, the gift of Mrs.

THIS illustrates the bronze Marquise of Hotel St. Regis, New York, Messrs. Trowbridge and Livingston, Architects, considered by connoisseurs to be the finest of its kind in the world. Over twenty tons of bronze were used in its fabricating, the massive brackets alone weighing a ton each. This wonderful achievement in art metal work is but one of many for which this firm is famous and of which they are the pioneers and leading manufacturers in this country.

The Hecla Iron Works is recognized as the first and foremost concern in the manufacture of Architectural Metal Work in the World. Its plant is the largest and most complete, and the quality of its work is considered the standard, the world over.

North 10th, 11th and 12th Sts., from Wythe Ave. to Berry St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Thomas F. Ryan. The cost, it is estimated, will be about $100,000. Mrs. Ryan has given many churches, chapels, hospitals and schools throughout the country.

The laying of the corner stone of the Chapel of Saint Cornelius Centurion, at Governor's Island, New York Harbor, took place Friday morning, Oct. 27th. Architect Charles C. Haight, of 452 5th av, was present and superintended the operation. The new edifice is to be a handsome structure of gray granite.

Actual work on the new $3,000,000 plant which the Procter & Gamble Co., of Cincinnati, manufacturers of soap, candles, and glycerine, will erect on Staten Island, on some sixty-eight acres of land, will probably begin next spring, and will be completed in little over a year. The company will increase its common stock fifty per cent., or from $6,000,000 to $9,000,000. The present stock is quoted at $450 a share in Cincinnati. (See issue of Oct. 14, 1905.)

—Three hundred apartment houses are in course of erection on Washington Heights, from 125th st north. Many have been started this fall; indeed, the building movement has renewed and greatly added to its strength in the past few weeks, as if builders had after some consideration satisfied themselves that they would be justified in going ahead with houses that are to be finished next year. There was a noticeable slackening of pace for a while, as if builders were taking observations like a sea captain at sea, and estimating the amount of housing the town would need next year.

The annual meeting of the Electrical Committee of the National Electrical Association will be held at the rooms of the New York Board of Fire Underwriters, 32 Nassau st, New York City, Wednesday, December 6th, 1905, at 10 a. m. As in the past, the meetings will be open to all interested in the matter of rules for the installation of electric wiring and apparatus, as contained in the National Electrical Code. Reports of committees and all suggestions for changes in the Code to be acted upon at this meeting should be in the hands of the secretary by November 5th, in order that they may be put into print for the meeting.

What the Employers Might Do.

With a membership of about nine hundred, the Building Trades Employers' Association finds itself, midway of another official year, strong of body, active in mind and mighty in influence, and it seems to many it should have a voice in affairs more or less general outside of its immediate private interests. Consider what a power the building trades are in this city, and why let that power lie inert? Put it at work, we say, in behalf of the general good of the community. If the Building Trades Employers' Association should call to a man up a tree to come down, drop he would at once. A lot of reforms this association could work out if it would, and the Record and Guide thinks that this big, wealthy and muscular body, with its long arms and fingers capable of reaching so many people, ought to speak out again on the subject of "Fireproof Wood, S. C." (so-called), and say to Mr. John T. McCall, the dominant leader in the Board of Aldermen, that a report from the Building Committee upon the Ware ordinance is highly desirable at once.

At the semi-annual meeting of the association the Building Committee, of which Mr. Lewis Harding is chairman, stated, as we learn from the esteemed Bulletin, that 697 shares of $100 each out of 5,000 shares in the building fund had been subscribed for by members of the association. The Building Committee evidently was pessimistic and inclined to regard its work as a failure, asking that its report be received and the committee discharged. This, however, was not the view of the association as represented in the meeting. A beginning of $69,700 was regarded as fair and quite a sufficient encouragement to warrant the association in keeping at the "own its own home" project. It was pointed out that the subscription to 697 shares was practically the result of the sending out of two circular letters, the committee not having entered "upon personal solicitations"; also that these letters were issued closely following upon the successful settlements (by arbitration) of the prolonged labor troubles and that the association's members were disinclined to even give attention to anything but the pushing of their own business, which was derelict through prolonged idleness. The Building Committee's report was received, approved and commended, and the committee was instructed to "cheer up" and continue the work in which it was held to have made a very encouraging beginning.

The Building Committee's personnel is as follows: Charles T. Wills, chairman; John I. Downey, Thomas Dimond, John J. Roberts, F. M. Weeks, R. F. Tucker and Lewis Harding.

The Method of Procuring Improved Property for Exchange in New York

By JOHN R. FOLEY

TAKE your RECORD AND GUIDE every week and find Projected Building,* purchase a book similar to the one I have here, copy down the property, name and address of builder and architect, style of improvement and cost of same, in this book. Every one erecting buildings in New York is required to file plans with the Building Department, and our official trade paper publishes these weekly. It is fair to assume that a building will be completed according to size in from six months to a year, so it is a very easy matter to keep tabs on the plans and communicate with the speculative builders with a view of procuring the sale. You will find they will be only too glad to put the sale of their property in your hands, as no speculative builder, or at least with very few exceptions, erects apartments, tenements or business buildings for his own investment, but for the purpose of disposing of them at the earliest possible moment. My experience has been that seventy-five per cent. of the builders of apartment houses worth $250,000 will entertain an exchange of other property in part payment, and when it comes to apartment houses, apartment hotels and office buildings valued at a million or over, I venture to assert that there has not been a sale of this kind in years where there has not been an element of trade of some kind or another, and why is not this kind of a real estate transaction as legitimate as a cash transaction? Two people own properties, each side is dissatisfied. A may have use for B's property and vice versa; they trade and perhaps retrade; each time they lessen their liabilities until at last they realize all the cash the original property was worth. There is no property in this little Manhattan Island of ours, be it ever so poor, but what someone can see a way to make money out of it. Very often people are too stiff in their asking price and cannot sell for cash, but someone comes along and offers a trade allowing the party his price, he makes a deal deluded with the idea that he has realized his asking price, but to his sorrow finds that the other fellow has inflated his prices to meet his.

As you receive properties for sale, ask the owner if he will entertain an exchange, have all the particulars, on an index card and filed in your card cabinet; you can commence your card-filing system modestly and gradually increase it by purchasing sections of drawers. Have a drawer indexed with blue cards with equities of $25,000 to $2,000,000. As each property comes in, file it, not only in its proper street, but also in the equity box; all equities of $25,000 behind the blue card with $25,000 written on it, and so on with each amount. In this way, when a party comes to you with a property worth $25,000 or $100,000 or $1,000,000 to trade, all you have to do is to look at your equity box and you have all the properties of that amount together. Another excellent plan is to advertise your properties in the daily and evening papers under the exchange column; you would be surprised at the result. I know of one instance not very long ago where a broker made a $2,500,000 exchange through a four line advertisement in one of the New York papers. An excellent plan also to bring your trading properties before wealthy out-of-town people is to have a first class real estate man as correspondent in large cities. They generally have good people as clients and will only be too anxious to co-operate with you on the basis that they receive the commission on their side and you on yours.

While on this subject, it is much more satisfactory to have a broker represent the other end of the deal; it makes the transaction run smoother, and very often a successful deal is accomplished on the plan of "Two heads are better than one." This leads up to the question of brokers' commissions on exchanges, and it is very important where you are representing both sides of an exchange to have an agreement in writing from each owner that he will pay you the commission in case the contract is signed. The broker's commission is earned as soon as this is accomplished; it is not necessary for him to wait until the title passes, although in large transactions where the commissions amount to thousands of dollars, it is a very difficult matter to procure your commission on the signing of the contract.

It has been the custom of our office in exchanges to have our firm name inserted in the contract stating that we are the brokers in the transaction and are entitled to commission; this covers the law which requires the broker to have written authority in order to collect. Another point is that to the best of my judgment brokers cannot collect commissions from both sides unless by special agreements. You are supposed to be the agents for one side or another, although you can collect where you have an agreement in writing. It is always well to have the commission agreed on, agreements drawn before the deal is up to a closing point; if you delay to bring in your commission, the chances are that one side or the other will try to cut you down.

Until I started in compiling my data for this lecture I never realized how difficult it was to theoretically explain the methods of conducting real estate exchanges. While it has been the good fortune of my firm to successfully carry through many transactions, some of them unique in the history of trading, yet if we were asked just how they came about we could only answer, it was by constantly trying to match up trade. Sometimes there is a large element in luck, and, on the other hand, there are cases where the broker has worked so hard that the commission has been more than well earned. Before I close, allow me to give a piece of valuable advice to the aspirant for real estate exchange honors. Never converse on the properties in question while seated in the lawyer's office during the preparation of a contract. It is human nature for a broker to feel elated over the successful consummation of a deal, but remember you are in the presence of both principals and attorneys. A contract is not valid until both sides have signed, and one little word on your part innocently expressed may bring up a question that will break the deal. Allow the lawyers to do the talking on this occasion; they generally have enough to say, finding fault with the terms of the contract. You have accomplished your work and your thoughts may be pleasantly occupied to good advantage as to how you are going to spend your commission for the best interests of promoting your business.

Strong Resolution Against the Mortgage Tax.

So intense is the feeling against the Mortgage Tax that the Association of Bronx Real Estate Brokers officially advises all owners and tenants of property, regardless of political affiliations, to vote at the next election only for such candidates for State senators and members of Assembly as will pledge themselves to aid in its repeal. This is going farther than any other real estate association has yet gone. The document is as follows:

Whereas, the Mortgage Tax law has been in effect for about 3½ months, the practical effect has been that the interest on mortgages has been raised ½ to 1%, and thereby causing the tax to fall on the borrower of the money instead of on the lender, and resulting in an increased cost to builders and owners of mortgaged real estate, and the necessity of raising the rents to the tenants. Therefore be it

Resolved, that the "Association of Bronx Real Estate Brokers" request all property owners and tenants, builders and all depending on building interests, regardless of political affiliations, to vote during the coming election only for such Senator or a member of the Assembly as will pledge himself to use every effort to have this obnoxious law repealed. And further,

Resolved, that they advise all interested in real estate and building to join the Allied Real Estate Interests, which association is making active efforts throughout the entire State of New York to have this done.

Mr. J. Clarence Davies finds that instead of the rich man paying the tax, that the poor man is paying it. "Rents have been raised," he said, "and the burden falls on the tenant. Rich men who are lending money have increased the rate, not only ½%, but have gone as far as 1%.

"That is the practical effect of the Mortgage Tax law. The rich man who has his property free and clear pays nothing, while the poor man pays it all. If this law is not repealed at once it will affect the entire building industry."

A permanent organization formed to protect Real Estate and the interests allied thereto. It purposes to work, amongst other things, for the repeal of the Mortgage Tax Law. This law has increased the rates of interest on mortgages, which means that the borrower pays the Mortgage Tax. An increase in the interest rate depreciates the value of mortgaged real property, since it costs more to carry it. All persons interested in real estate are invited to join this organization. The annual dues are Five Dollars, and no further liability attaches to members.

TRUSS METAL LATH—TRIUMPHANT

IRA H. WOOLSON, E. M
CONSULTING ENGINEER ON TESTS OF MATERIALS
ENGINEERING BUILDING, COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY
TELEPHONE 1000 MORNINGSIDE.

NEW YORK, October 3rd, 1905

Mr. Paul Kuhne,
President Truss Metal Lath Company,
15 Whitehall Street,
New York City.

Dear Sir:

In response to your request for a statement regarding the condition of the end walls of my partition fire test building which I recently demolished, if affords me pleasure to subscribe to the following:

This building was designed especially for the purpose of making fire tests upon partition constructions according to the regulations of the New York Bureau of Buildings. The end walls and roof were permanent construction, the side walls were built in with the material to be tested.

The building was originally erected by your Company for the purpose of testing your own construction, and upon which test you received the approval of the Bureau of Buildings.

At my request you made the end walls three inches thick and the roof four to five inches thick. The walls were made by filling the spaces with a sheet of your "truss metal lath" and plastered both sides with lime mortar mixed with about 20% of Portland cement. The roof was constructed in a similar manner.

P. T. 2.

The building was erected in July 1904 and was in service just one year. Improvements near it compelled its removal in August last. During the year ten tests were held in the building The fire in each case was maintained for one hour, and the temperature during the last half hour of each test was an average of 1700 degrees F. Water was applied to the side walls at a pressure of 25 to 27 lbs. and this always struck the ceiling and back wall to some extent. During the year a few patches of plaster came off from the inside of the walls after some of the tests, these were repaired as required. Due to a settlement of the roof this Spring it had to be braced and a small piece cut out and replaced. This is all the repairing that was done except plastering the corners where injured by removal of partitions under test.

Neither the walls nor the floor showed a crack worthy of mention during this service and at the time of their removal they were fit for a number of further tests. In fact they were so secure and solid it was a hard task to demolish them with a pick and sledge.

It is self-evident that partitions of such thickness and construction will successfully resist a fierce conflagration of long duration.

Yours very truly,

Isaac H. Woolson

Herbert A. Sherman has sold for Edward Meeks to George Coleman the Sarles farm property at New Castle, N. Y., near Mt. Kisco, Westchester County, about 156 acres. It adjoins the residence of Mr. J. Borden Harriman.

As the owners of many flats will not start their boilers no matter how low the temperature descends until the first of November, tenants have been complaining of the cold during the past week. Coal is expensive, but tenants who pay for comfort should not be denied it.

Albert A. Wendland, real estate broker and agent, for many years at the northeast corner of Bowery and Delancy st, now occupies offices in Germania Bank Building, corner Bowery and Spring st. Mr. Wendland makes a specialty of taking entire charge of property and the collection of rents.

The Separate Bronx county proposition, disowned by the substantial business interests, seems to have been left to perish by the wayside. The title and guarantee companies said that if the Bronx were made a separate county, they would not be so ready to loan money in that county. The Astor, Chanler and other large estates also opposed the scheme, as well as many representative real estate firms.

J. Edward Kells, who has had eight years' experience in real estate on the west side of Manhattan, especially in the upper section of the borough, has opened an office at 527 Amsterdam av, near 86th st, where he is conducting a brokerage, renting and insurance business. Mr. Kells was long identified with one of the leading real estate offices of the city, and as a consequenee of his intimate knowledge of values, his large acquaintance and his known probity, begins business on his own account under the most favorable conditions.

An addition to the Trinity Building, about 25 ft wide, will be built along its northerly side, upon what is now the bed of Thames st. Adjoining this on the north, and extending from Broadway to Trinity pl, a new Thames st will be given to the city, and between this new street and Cedar st will be erected a 20-sty building, which will be practically a duplicate of the enlarged Trinity Building. In return for the privilege of closing the block mentioned on Temple st, the company has agreed to give a strip about 3 ft wide, which will be added to Cedar st along its southerly side.

The Boreel Building site at 115 Broadway is to be improved practically in accordance with plans announced several months ago by the owners of the property, the United States Realty and Improvement Co. Recently there have been reports to the effect that some of the neighboring property-owners had refused to give their consent to the closing of streets necessary to the carrying out of the scheme. The North American Trust Co. and the Fidelity and Casualty Company objected to the closing of Temple st, between Thames and Cedar sts. These objections, it is learned, have been withdrawn.

An action for the specific performance of contract has been begun by the Broad and Beaver Street Co. against the City Real Property Investing Co., involving the properties at the southeast corner of Broad and Beaver sts, known as 61 to 69 Broad st, 34 to 46 Beaver st, and 8 South William st. These properties were secured under contract about three months ago by the City Investing Co., the Century Realty Co., and the United States Realty and Improvement Co., the Broad and Beaver Street Co. being formed by the three corporations for the purpose of handling this particular operation.

William H. Appleton & Co., Inc., has sold for the First National Bank of Redbank, N. J., to the Property Development Co. the famous Sheriff Thompson Farm at Atlantic Highlands, N. J., comprising about 108 acres, together with the Thompson homestead. The property is about three-quarters of a mile west of the Atlantic Highlands pier of the New Jersey Central Railroad, and has a frontage of about 1,200 feet on Valley Drive, and about 4,000 feet frontage on Thompson av, running through to other streets and down to Raritan Bay. The Property Development Co. is cutting up this addition into about 1,100 lots, and it will be known as "Mardean."

The Board of Estimate has determined that the whole cost and expense of the reconstruction of sewers in the following streets shall be borne by the City of New York: Canal st, between Greenwich and Washington sts; 13th st, between 5th and 6th avs; 104th st and Harlem River; Pitt st, between Delancey and Rivington sts; 16th st, between Irving pl and 4th av; Nassau st, between Fulton and John sts; 97th st, at Columbus av, curve; 20th st, between 3d av and Irving pl; 10th av, west side, between 23d and 24th sts; 8th st, from Av C to East River; Av C, east sde, from 8th to 11th sts; 5th st, from Av A to Av C; 4th st, from Av A to Av C; East 15th st, from Av A to first manhole east of Av C; Worth st, between Broadway and West Broadway; 113th st, between 1st and 3d avs.

Mammoth Department Store for Albany to be Planned By Trowbridge & Livingston.

It was decided on Monday last that the mammoth new department store building for the dry-goods firm of J. G. Meyers of Albany, New York, to be erected on an entire block front in that city, will be designed and erected according to plans and specifications by Messrs. Trowbridge & Livingston, of No. 424 5th av, Manhattan. The new structure is to replace the store building which collapsed, and will cover the old site and additional land, altogether about 65x100x200 feet.

It is the intention to erect a structure of six or eight stories, and probably more. The exterior will be of light brick, stone and marble, with tile roof, and the latest improved fire-protection outfits. There will be many electric passenger and freight elevators, elaborate furnishings, large waiting parlors, restaurant, etc. The estimated cost of the site and building together will approach near a million dollars. No figures have yet been received, or any contracts let.

NEED OF CHEAPER FLATS.

Thomas T. Uren, of Kunz & Uren, 3205 3d av, says there is an unsatisfied requirement for 5 and 6-sty modern tenements, with three, four and five-room apartments for four families on each floor, renting at from $14 to $22 a month.

"There is a great scarcity of moderate priced apartments in the borough," says Mr. Uren, "and this field offers big inducements to builders to produce that class of property, as the tendency seems to be to vacate the dark and dingy apartments of the old houses for the better lighted and well ventilated new law buildings.

"There are few sections of The Bronx that will warrant the erection of high priced apartments. Along the Boston road and in the vicinity of Prospect and Longwood avs, there are a goodly number of such apartments, but the workingman's home is mostly in demand."

CONVEYANCES

Whenever the letters Q. C., C. a. G. and B. & S. occur, preceded by the name of the grantee, they mean as follows:

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Baragain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it. The street or avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

4th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

5th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

6th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

7th.—A $20,000—$30,000 ndicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only, and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before 2d figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction.

MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

October 20, 21, 23, 24, 25, 26.

THE Stock Market still plainly betrays the effect of conflicting ideas and purposes; and the result of the conflict continues to be an irregular and indefinite movement of prices. Professional traders make repeated and desperate attempts to advance the prices of certain stocks, but their success becomes barren as soon as they seek to sell the stocks they have accumulated. The conservative influences remain in complete control of the situation, which arouses comparatively little interest on the part of the outside public. In the meantime a general apprehension is being created as to the results of competitive railroad ambitions in the Far West. Considering the great prosperity of all of the important transcontinental lines it assuredly looks as if the traffic situation in the Far West justified a good deal of additional railroad construction; but the danger of such construction always is that it will become excessive. If one railroad builds a new line, other railroads follow suit, not because there is traffic enough for two such lines, but in self-protection. In order to avoid such unnecessary and unprofitable construction, there ought to be an agreement among the several systems, which will provide for an equitable division of opportunities.

THE trading in the older tenement house districts continues to break even the unprecedented totals of last year. The number of transfers recorded on the first of November were almost as numerous as they were on the first of any month last spring; and these large totals are reached in spite of unfavorable conditions in respect to the borrowing of money. The activity is almost exclusively professional and is rendered possible by the fact that in all the older districts of Manhattan there are very few vacancies in flats and tenements. But in view of the over building which is taking place in the Bronx it is improbable that this condition will continue; and when renting conditions deteriorate a collapse of the speculation will soon follow. There are indications that a diminished quantity of building is being projected both on Washington Heights and in the Bronx. On the other hand, the more expensive property on the West Side adapted to fire-proof apartment houses continues to be in excellent demand. Costly apartments are renting so well, that it looks as if the people who were being displaced from private houses along the line of Fifth ave were going into West Side apartments, instead of East Side dwellings. In all probability the West Side will be an area of very considerable and profitable building operations during the coming year. The only other part of Manhattan which is also exhibiting signs of increased life are the side streets west of Broadway and north of 23d st. There has been considerable buying in this region for the purpose of substituting loft buildings for the old boarding houses and tenements; and it is evident that when the wholesale trade has finished the occupation of the side streets south of 23d st and east of 6th ave, it will spread into the district mentioned above. A great deal of buying has already taken place between Broadway and Sixth ave, and Sixth and Seventh aves, while recently there have been some indications that it may extend to the streets between Seventh and Eighth avs. Plans have been filed for an eleven-story loft building to be erected on 24th st west of 7th ave; and there has been buying on other streets. If such a movement takes place, it would not be the first time in the history of New York real estate, when a very dubious residential neighborhood was transformed into a clean and serviceable business district.

THE fact that the population of New York is increasing only at the rate of 125,000 a year should supply speculative builders with grounds for reflection. During the current year plans have been filed for new buildings to be erected in the several boroughs of this city, which will afford living accommodations for at least 250,000 people. Nor is this all, many million dollars have, also, been spent on old five-story flats and tenements, the result of which will be to increase considerably the number of people who will sleep under their roofs. It is evident that if this rate of building is continued, the result will be an over-production of residences, and a repetition of the conditions which prevailed on the West Side and in Harlem three or four years ago. It is true that the demand for new living accommodations is not accurately measured by the increase in population. Every year a certain encroachment takes place in Manhattan by business upon land formerly devoted to residence; and in this way a larger or smaller number of people are unhoused. In exceptional years, when the city acquires the land for a new park, or when railroad and bridge terminals are required this displacement is very considerable; and in any event it probably forces several thousand people to seek new accommodations. But after making the fullest allowance for this condition, there still remains a large margin of over-production in tenements and dwellings. Let us take, for instance, the Bronx alone. The State census indicates that during the past five years an average of 15,000 people have been added to the population of that Borough. This is certainly an under-estimate of the increase which is taking place at the present time—now that the Subway is in operation. But even if we guess the present annual increase to be 30,000, it is evident that too many tenements are being erected. Plans will be filed during the year for about 525 brick tenements alone, which will accommodate over 50,000 inhabitants; and frame tenements and private dwellings under construction will house 10,000 more people. Such an over-production can only mean foreclosures, rebates of rents, and general loss and depression. Or again, take the case of Manhattan. In that Borough plans have already been filed for 350 new tenements to be erected on Washington Heights, and this number will become almost 400 before the end of the year. These 400 flats and tenements will accommodate not less than 40,000 inhabitants, whereas the total annual increase in the population of Manhattan is only 50,000, and as many tenements are being erected on the East Side as on Washington Heights. It is time for more prudent counsels to prevail.

THERE can be no doubt that Mr. William Travers Jerome has been the hero of the municipal campaign which is now drawing to a close. His candidacy and his personality have dominated the canvass; and the issue which he has made against "Boss" rule has been the issue, which has provoked the greatest popular interest and enthusiasm. The personalities and the public utterances of the several candidates for Mayor have seemed by comparison tame. Mr. Hearst has made a vigorous canvass; but, standing as he does on a wholly impracticable platform and depending as he does upon an appeal to a selfish class interest, he has not improved his position by the public discussion of his programme. He is not running as strong to-day as he was three weeks ago. Mr. Ivins has assuredly made the best of a desperate situation. He has exhibited plainly his competence, his good sense, his independence and his courage; but the good impression that he has made has not availed to do away with the fatal handicap under which he started. Mayor McClellan has stood in a dignified way upon his record; and although he has gained no ground by his speeches, he will doubtless be re-elected. But if Mr. Jerome is re-elected, also, as he probably will be, the Mayor's triumph will be deprived of much of the prestige, which might otherwise have attached to it. A few months ago, it looked as if Tammany would win a victory so complete that the organization would be able to dictate and probably elect the next Democratic candidate for Governor. Now it looks as if its victory might be both a narrow and a barren one; and if so, the great mistake was the failure to endorse the candidacy of Mr. Jerome. That candidacy has appealed to many of the strongest and best instincts of the voters of New York County—to their wish to reward a faithful public servant, to their love of fair play, to their dislike of arbitrary dictation, and to their admiration of political courage and uncorruptibility. Moreover it has offered them a way of acting on these instincts without breaking in other respects from the party allegiance to which also, they are attached. They have been placed in a position which does not oblige them to choose between regularity and independence. They can vote regularly for Mayor and independently for District Attorney—and so satisfy both ends of their conscience. That enough of them will do so to re-elect Mr. Jerome seems extremely probable.

THE results of the State census in relation to the population of this city are disappointing. According to all superficial indications New York City has been increasing at a more rapid rate in the number of its inhabitants during the past five years than during the ten years previous to 1900. It has been a period of great industrial expansion, of unprecedented immigration, of enormous building activity, and towards the end of an actual scarcity of living accommodation; and all these facts have been much more noticeable since 1900 than they were before 1900. They would lead one to expect the population to increase at a larger percentage, whereas according to the census the percentage has been smaller. From 1890 to 1900 the percentage of increase was 37 per cent. During the past five years it was 16.8 per cent. The diminution is very small, but it is wholly unexpected. One cannot help thinking that the difficulties of accurately enumerating the population of New York have proved to be too great for the State officials. It is certainly harder to record the number of inhabitants of a city, which is full of aliens living in overcrowded tenement houses, than it is the population of a city which lives mostly in individual dwellings, and as New York is becoming more and more a city of tenements, the difficulties of the task and the chances of error are constantly increasing. A failure to enumerate two hundred thousand people would not be at all impossible. As, however, there is no way of proving such to be the case, we shall have to wait until the next national census in order to secure any possible justification for such doubts. In the meantime, even the State census shows that the population of New York is increasing at the rate of over 3 per cent. a year, which means that at the present time the number of inhabitants added annually to the existing stock is something over 125,000. Of this increase about 50,000 are housed in Manhattan, about 40,000 in Brooklyn, and 50,000 in the Bronx, and the rest in Queens and Richmond. The Bronx has a much larger percentage of increase than any other borough.

An Answer for Mr. Kelsey.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

Dear Sir: In last week's number you published two letters which discuss the proposed exemption of real estate improvements from taxation to the extent of $3,000. One letter is from President Kelsey, of the Title Guarantee & Trust Company, the other is from Mr. J. Clarence Davies, one of the leading real estate brokers in the Bronx. President Kelsey's letter deals mainly with the principal objections to the scheme, viz., that there is no reason why a working man's cottage should not be taxed at the same rate as the multi-millionaire's palace. This is not exactly the way Mr. Kelsey puts it, but I think that it is a fair statement of his point. In making it he misunderstood the purport of the proposed law. I am the president of the Manhattan League for the partial exemption of improvements from taxation, and I know that our object is to exempt not only small buildings, but all buildings to the extent of $3,000. Indeed, the very name of our organization shows that the exemption of all improvements, to the extent indicated, is our object.

To be perfectly fair, however, I must admit that the proposed exemption, if it becomes crystalized into law, will be of more benefit to the poor man than to the rich man. The question then arises, why, in a Republic where, theoretically at least, all classes of citizens should be taxed alike in proportion to the value of their property, should there be any exemption at all? The answer is: Up to a certain point a man's income is used for bare subsistence, clothing and shelter; beyond that point luxury begins.

Tax a man of small income and property, and you lessen the amount of his food and the adequacy of his clothing and shelter. Tax a man of large income, and you merely tend to lessen his luxuries. In doing the former, you weaken and deteriorate the very man who produces both the necessities and the luxuries, thus lessening the wealth of the nation.

All civilized governments recognize this truth and have, in small measure, endeavored to embody it into statute law. England, in fixing a minimum amount upon which the income tax shall not be levied, has this idea in mind. The United States government and various State governments in their homestead laws, bow to this economic law.

The income tax levied by the federal government during the War of the Rebellion stated that incomes of less than $1,000 were not to be taxed. The income tax law passed during the Cleveland administration provided that incomes of less than $4,000 should not be taxed. Unfortunately this law was declared unconstitutional by the United States Supreme Court by a majority of one vote, but not because of the exemption.

The best practical illustration of the recognition of this economic law is the building association. There are in this country about six thousand building and loan associations, with a membership of almost two millions and assets of about $600,000,000. They have during the last fifty years enabled working men to build hundreds of thousands of homes that would never have been erected but for them.

It is estimated, for instance, that two-thirds of the dwellings in Philadelphia have been erected through the help of those associations; so that a tenement house in that city is a rarity. All the State governments, and the federal governments as well, have recognized the beneficent character of building associations, and the fact that they are adding to the wealth of the nation, as well as to the contentment of the citizenship, by uniformly exempting them from taxation.

The war revenue law of 1898 specifically provides that the mortgages given by members of building and loan associations to such associations are exempt from the stamp tax. This was the only class that was exempted, and not even charitable institutions were included. Ever since 1853 the State of New York has by statute prescribed that building and loan associations shall not be taxed; and the banking law, under whose supervision these associations come, provides that any statute taxing corporations shall not apply to building associations unless they are specifically named therein. The new mortgage tax law provides that mortgages on dwelling houses, made by members of building associations to such associations, up to $3,000, shall be exempt from the mortgage tax.

Thus we see that the economic truth that taxation of persons of small means tends to deprive them of the means of subsistence and shelter, has been embodied in statute law. The practical application of this truth, however, has not been carried far enough.

During my seventeen years' connection with numerous building and loan associations, as attorney and officer, I have frequently been told by persons of small means whom I have urged to join the associations and get loans to build homes, that they might do so if it were not for the fact that they could not, in addition to the charges of such associations, pay the taxes.

Mr. Kelsey urges that we, instead of agitating for this exemption, should unite our efforts with those who are seeking to repeal all the mortgage tax laws. I agree with him, and so do the members of the League for the Partial Exemption of Improvements from Taxation, in considering this mortgage tax economically bad. It does not bear so harshly, however, on the poor man who desires to build a home, as he can secure a loan from some building association whose mortgages are exempted from this tax. Besides that, there is no reason why we cannot work for the repeal both of this law and for the enactment of the tax exemption law.

The last point made by Mr. Kelsey is that if the small householders are exempt from taxation as proposed, they will not take sufficient interest in good government, because they will not feel its burdens. He forgets that not only will these small home owners continue to pay taxes on improvements over $3,000, but that in any event they must pay taxes on their lots.

Mr. Davies' criticism is, that the exemption would be taking money from the right hand in order to give it to the left, as it would result in an increased tax on the lot covered by the improvement and on other vacant land. It might be that, for the first year after the law went into effect, there would be a slight increase in the rate of taxation; but I submit that immediately following the enactment of the law there would be such a boom in building that the tax-rate will ultimately fall instead of rise. It is true that first the owners of vacant land would be compelled to pay higher taxes. This, however, would not be an unmitigated evil; for it would tend to induce the owners of vacant land to improve their holdings, thus further increasing the building of homes. The benefit of such a boom to the community in general is almost incalculable; for it would keep labor constantly employed at higher wages both in putting up the buildings and in manufacturing building materials.

I VENTURE THE PROPHECY, DERIVED FROM MANY YEARS OF EXPERIENCE, THAT IF DWELLING HOUSES UP TO $3,000 WERE TO BE EXEMPTED FROM TAXATION, INSIDE OF TEN YEARS THE NUMBER OF HOMES OF THE PEOPLE WOULD BE DOUBLED. This would tend to depopulate the tenements, those pestilential breeding spots that may some day hatch out the demons that will subvert our liberties.

Statesmen should recognize the fact that, apart from the benefit they will confer upon humanity, such an act will tend to the stability of the government. If we have a contented citizenship, we will have no anarchistic plots and rioting. I would therefore say to our legislators—enact such a law, and the demand for masons, carpenters and house builders generally will be so great that wages will rise and thus enable the mechanics in their turn to become home owners; enact such a law, and in a few years the number of homes will be doubled; enact such a law and the pressure of the population in the tenement house districts will be lessened, while little cottages will multiply in the suburbs; enact such a law and tens of thousands of little pallid children, instead of dying amid the stenches of the tenements, will grow to sturdy manhood and sweet womanhood in God's country.

FRED. CYRUS LEUBUSCHER.

Advantages from Partial Exemption.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

In reply to C. H. Kelsey's letter published in last week's Record and Guide, permit me to state that the $3,000 exemption on improvements is not specifically intended to aid the small house-owner alone, but every one who puts up a building, whether big or little, costly or cheap, and who thereby aids in giving work to those engaged in the building trade, which in turn will enable the workers to pay their rents more promptly or to build small homes for themselves. It will encourage holders of vacant lots to put up buildings on their lots, which will not continue to be without an income, and an eye-sore to the community.

It would take up too much of your valuable space to show all the benefits that would follow this exemption. They all follow the same line of reasoning as procured the exemptions of religious and charitable institutions, hospitals, etc.

As to the mortgage tax, we all agree with the writer and will aid him to have that law repealed. We ask, in turn, his aid to bring about the passage of this beneficial law.

In reply to J. Clarence Davies' letter, I have only to add to the above that, if one of the effects of the law is to increase the tax on vacant land, this is not an objection in the eyes of those who regard the holders of such land as dogs in the manger, unwilling to build themselves and preventing those who wish to from building until they have paid an exorbitant and ever-increasing price for the land. And the same holds good as far as the "poor" middlemen whom he commiserates. As to the small owner, he will very well be able to take care of himself under the proposed law, and will not need the "sympathy" offered by Mr. Davies in his behalf.

Office Buildings a Block Square.

FUTURE CONDITIONS WILL REQUIRE THEM—LAND-OWNING THE GREATEST MONOPOLY.

The weekly lecture at the Real Estate Class of the West Side of the Y. M. C. A. was given Tuesday evening on the subject of "Management of Downtown Property." The lecturer was E. A. Tredwell, the agent for the Times Building. Prefacing the lecture, through the kindness of the New York Edison Company, a number of maps of the company's system of street mains were distributed to the audience, and during the lecture the lecturer also read a letter from the New York Steam Company, in which some details of their system of supplying steam through street mains was given.

The following synopsis of his remarks may be of interest. The lecture was divided into three parts—past, present and future. The advice of the lecturer, to begin with, was that a real estate agent should be optimistic, for most of the things you hear are not so, and the rest do not happen, so why worry? He suggested that the agent get a good idea, even though it be an old one and work it consistently, as ultimately it would bring its reward. In speaking of the past, the lecturer referred to the old five-story buildings on lots 25x100, with no improvements and non-fireproof, and spoke of the time when downtown New York contained individual homes. It was the day of small things and the "simple life," with no thought of factory inspection or Tenement House Department; but being past, it has no more use for the present time, except as a guide post to the present and future. The modern loft building, he stated, rented from 40 to 60 cents a sq. ft., when situated in the manufacturing districts, with power charged for extra; they usually contain passenger and freight elevators, electric light and gas, and steam and heat, ranging from 8 to 10 stories high, and are run with fairly rigid rules and considerable system.

In speaking of downtown tenements, it was asserted that they were probably as bad as any in New York, and in the speaker's opinion they were permitted to exist by the Tenement House Department because the neighborhood conditions were changing and the lots would probably only be occupied as tenements for a few years. The remark of Jane Addams in Social Settlements was quoted: "It is much easier to deal with the first generation of great city life, than with the second or third, because it is more natural and cast in a more simple mould." The old office buildings referred to by the lecturer were built before 1870, and were usually old mercantile buildings remodelled; today the street current furnishing light and power for the elevator, and a low pressure steam plant giving the heat, and what with new sash, a tiled main hall floor and plenty of white paint the old buildings are rejuvenated into office structures of a certain type, renting from sixty cents to a dollar per square foot.

It was stated that the business unit for lots now was 50x100, and that while you could build too small in New York City, it was difficult to build too large. Also, that office buildings of the future would be a block square, to be in accordance with modern conditions, and that beauty was an increasingly valuable asset, as progress was made in the general wealth of the community. It also was stated that aesthetic development went hand in hand with the increase of material wealth and the gradual formation of a leisure class.

Regarding rental policies, Mr. Tredwell remarked that three courses were open to the modern agent. First, high rentals and considerable vacancies at all times; second, moderate rents, with particular attention paid to keeping buildings full, if possible; third, low rents, giving a waiting list. The speaker expressed his preference for the second course, as being more advantageous in the production of net income to the landlord. The Empire Building and the Mutual Life Insurance Building were referred to as the highest type of office buildings in the lower part of the city, and the Metropolitan Life Insurance Building, as the best type in the middle office section. The speaker referred to employers, favoring Scandinavian help as being more reliable, although slower, and stated that the management of an office building was the application entirely of system, the janitor being the most important man next to the agent, and the chief engineer third.

Speaking of renting, a comparison was made between the personal and the Hopper system, the first where the agent gave his personal attention to the building and the business at hand, and the second or Hopper system being where the business at hand was only part of a series of other businesses of the same character and got no special treatment. Referring to elevator service, he advised small cars and frequent trips instead of large cars and slow service. Ninety office buildings were built in New York City in the four years, 1901, 1902, 1903 and 1904, costing $34,805,500, an average of $367,500 each, and during the same time 677 loft and factory buildings were built, costing $61,942,500, an average of $91,500 each, and the speaker insisted that a real estate agent, expecting to be trusted with the management of single properties, each of which amounted to a fortune in itself, should not alone have working capacity and character, but it was essential that he should have good judgment, as the unexpected, to which no rules could apply, would often happen, and he thought for that reason many properties had been placed in the hands of relatives to be mismanaged, because an estate believes that a person interested would exercise greater care in settling important questions than the agent might do; but as the real estate business had progressed into what he believed was a science, so gradually many of the estate properties of considerable size had naturally fallen into the hands of competent real estate firms and were still continuing to do so.

In referring to old buildings downtown, the speaker insisted they should be handled carefully, that they were in the nature of dynamite and that repairs should be made with judgment, that in case of difficulty with tenants that anything was permissible except to lose the tenant, the law for old property being always to hold your tenant. The city was credited with being the largest downtown tenant, paying $294,000 for 178,000 sq. ft., within one-half mile of the City Hall.

In referring to the management of property, it was stated that many of the properties that lawyers used to manage have been turned over with their consent to competent firms, new conditions making it inadvisable for legal firms to manage property. Trust company management was not favorably spoken of. The management of real estate by insurance companies was considered usually of a very excellent character, and the management of estate properties was of a widely varying character, depending on the peculiar personality of the estate. Light was an essential for the procuring of high rents; indeed, the speaker made it quite plain that he believed a downtown agent rented light rather than space. Ventilation was referred to as one of the unsolved problems of the modern high class buildings.

In closing, Mr. Tredwell referred to C. W. Steevens' description of New York City. "Never have I seen a city more hideous, or more splendidly uncouth, formless, piebald and chaotic, and yet it impresses you as a magnificent embodiment of titanic force and energy." It was stated that the real estate men of the future must take into account ethical and social problems that twenty-five years ago were not worthy of mention and today receive but small consideration, but that in a few years will be of very pressing and serious moment to the business. He referred to certain economic facts, quoting Robert Giffen, the English economist, who said that "Land owning is beyond all other callings in the nature of a monopoly," and that if this be so, as all economists seem to agree, then real estate agents are practically the agents of a great monopoly. Further, he stated that 7% of New York City population owned the entire land of the city and that one-half the property in the United States was owned by 100,000 men. Building departments, factory inspection and tenement house departments were but the beginning of a sociological guardianship of real estate.

Fireproofing Company Urges Repeal

The Pioneer Concern in Full Accord for Amendment of the Building Code

ANOTHER important accession has been made to the forces united in behalf of the amendment of the Building Code, to eliminate the compulsory provision relating to "fireproof" wood, and it has come from an unexpected quarter. One of the companies engaged in the business of fireproofing wood makes known, in a communication written by its president to the Record and Guide, that it is in full accord with the movement, for reasons that are clearly and ably set forth. Conceding that the market has been "flooded" by other companies with "inferior and imperfectly treated woods," it has decided to urge, upon the ground of imperfect work, but not upon the ground that "properly and thoroughly fireproofed wood" cannot be had, that the provision in the Code be repealed. There remains, therefore, no opposition to the Amendment that the city authorities can rightfully consider of importance, all the creditable authorities being in accord and asking with one voice for this reform and relief. The Board of Underwriters demand it, the Building Trades Employers' Association as a body demands it, the architects are unanimously for it, likewise the general contractors and owners; and the highest scientific authorities agree with the view now unanimously held by builders that, as Dr. Atkinson, the Director of the Engineering Experiment Station has said, "the compulsory requirement of the Building Code is unwarranted by any virtue contained in the treated wood, that it is a hardship upon builders and owners, and inefficacious in practice."

VIEWS OF CHARLES T. WILLS.

One of the leading and most esteemed general building contractors in the city is Mr. Charles T. Wills, who, upon being asked for his opinion upon the merits of the question, in a talk with the writer, said:

The requirement of that part of the Building Code which exacts from owners and builders the fireproofing of all woodwork structures over 150 ft. in height, is a most onerous one, as well as grossly inconsistent. Such wood as ordinarily enters into the construction of the modern high structure is of so small a quantity as to be measurably inconsiderable. The doors, trims, base, chair and picture mouldings are so small an amount when compared to that comprising the furniture, which is not required to be fireproofed, that it is the minor quantity. Experience has demonstrated that in most cases fires starting in rooms of such buildings have been contained in the rooms and have not spread beyond its confines. So much for the inconsistency of the law. If wood trim should be fireproofed, why not furniture?

"I have found, aside from other objections which I will refer to later, the one of delays an almost fatal one. Owners and architects rightfully expect that their work shall be done with the utmost expedition consistent with good workmanship. Time being the essence of all contracts, as much insisted on by owners as any of the other conditions of the agreements, the delay on the part of the treating companies is disastrous.

"Wood treated by the processes patented by the different treating companies is impossible of being finished in the way the material is capable of—mahogany and other fine woods might just as well be whitewood painted. The fibre being filled with salts which, it is claimed, make the wood incombustible, discolor it and make it to lose its natural beauty. Then when in place only a reasonably short time the solutions with which the wood is treated appear on the surface, through the oils and varnish, destroying them, and the efflorescence therefrom can be wiped off with a cloth, only to appear again after a time.

"Wood treated in the way prescribed is almost doubly costly to mill and manufacture. When in place screws and nails are corroded and will not hold in place in any such way as in the natural wood. The fibre also loses its tenacity.

THE MAIN QUESTION.

"The great question in relation to the subject, however, is 'fireproof wood' fireproof? Much could be said on this subject, but there is little use taking up time concerning it. From my observations I would freely say, that generally, it is not. Some parts of a shipment appeared to be so treated that it would resist fire, but finally it was consumed. Other parts of the same shipment would blaze away immediately. I have seen my men use it to heat their lunches, and have seen it used to fire boilers for hoisting engines.

"There is nothing in my experience or observation on the subject that causes me to change the conclusion that I came to some years ago, viz.: that there is no justification in putting owners to the great additional cost and builders to the exasperating delays attending the requirement of the law, and it ought to be repealed."

AN ARCHITECT'S REMARKS.

We have heard from a great builder, let us next take the testimony of a very prominent architect, one who has designed and planned many of the most important and beautiful structures in this metropolis, Mr. Cyrus L. W. Eidlitz. In the course of a conversation this week with the writer, Mr. Eidlitz made these interesting observations:

"The unprecedented era of great and costly building operations, together with the rapid advance in the structural as well as the artistic merits of the same, requires the keenest energy and care on the part of architects and builders to meet the problems which are presented. While bearing in mind the necessity of maintaining the highest standard of workmanship, more especially from the point of view of durability and protection against fire, it would seem most desirable that such laws as are enacted to protect any section of Greater New York from destruction by fire, should be enacted with every consideration for these difficult conditions.

"An act which requires the use of building material which is in any form a monopoly, or which cannot be procured in competition in the open market, must necessarily be a hindrance, if not a detriment, to our great building interests. While it is not the intention to criticise, or in any way depreciate the merits of a new industry, such as fireproof wood, which is required by Section 105 of the Building Code for all buildings over twelve stories in height, the results thus far obtained have proven most unsatisfactory from a practical, as well as an artistic, standpoint.

"An analysis of the merits (or demerits) of fireproof wood should be sufficient to demonstrate whether this provision in the Building Code should not be revised or entirely stricken out. From six to eight weeks under the most favorable condition is required to have woodwork treated under the so-called 'fireproof process,' and at times, when a great amount of work requiring fireproofed wood is in progress, a much greater period is required, owing to the lack of sufficient facilities to treat the material; consequently delays are encountered which seriously impede the progress of important work.

THE ARTISTIC OBJECTION

"The treatment of different kinds of wood under this process destroys or deadens the appearance of the surface and graining, to the great detriment of its merit as natural hardwood work. No other country has the advantage of as many beautifully grained hardwoods as America, and it seems a great pity that this advantage should be practically eliminated for our most prominent and expensive buildings.

"Aside from the artistic standpoint, it has not been demonstrated or proven, nor does it seem probable that the present process of fireproofing wood gives the practical results looked for. The cost under this process is not only doubled, while the quality is practically destroyed, but it has not been demonstrated that in a considerable conflagration fireproofed woodwork will sufficiently prevent the spread of fire to warrant its use.

"Its durability is also an unknown quantity. It is a fact, however, that no method of varnishing or finishing has been devised which can be made to stand without loosing its lustre and becoming unsightly after a short period of time. If costly woods treated under this process cannot be made to look better than a cheap imitation of graining, it would seem probable that in time, for economical reasons, if for no other, the use of hardwood finish in our important buildings will become a thing of the past for decorative finish where it can be dispensed with."

THE ELECTRIC FIREPROOFING COMPANY ALSO SAYS AMEND THE CODE.

A very significant and important contribution to the discussion which, it is hoped, will result in the repeal of the compulsory Fireproof Wood provision of the Building Code, has been received from President Bachert, of the Electric Fireproofing Company, as follows:

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

Under the present condition of things the campaign recently inaugurated in the Record and Guide for the amendment of Section 105 of the Building Code, about the use of fireproofed wood, is welcomed and is in full accord with the views of the Electric Fireproofing Company, of New York (the pioneer company for the fireproofing of wood). Yet it must be said that this campaign is not being conducted on entirely correct lines, inasmuch as it does not set forth the real ground upon which it is urged to bring about the repeal of the clause.

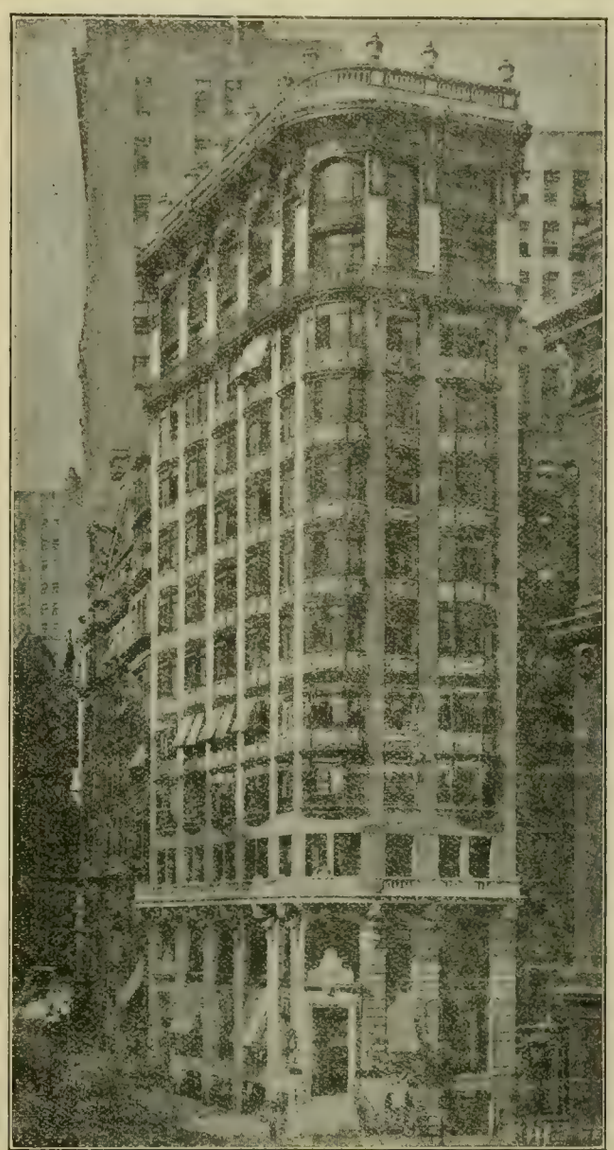
When the framers of the Building Code embodied fireproofed wood as one of the essentials in buildings over 150 ft. high, it was found that wood could be rendered absolutely fire resistant by our process, as has been substantiated by wood taken out of the R. G. Dun Building, which had been installed before that time, and can now be found intact. It can also be found that wood thoroughly fireproofed and properly handled by mill men or manufacturers—as was the case in that building—that fireproofed wood is capable of receiving a fine finish or polish and remain so permanently; but, unfortunately, since the time the Building Code was framed, material said to have been fireproofed by some other companies has been thrust upon the market in many instances, and has been found to be little better than untreated wood, and while the building Code specifically says "Wood may be used if treated by some process approved by the Department of Buildings that will render it fireproof," it is a well known fact that during Commissioner Thos. J. Brady's administration, practical and exhaustive tests were made upon fireproofed wood on a large scale, as a result of which wood fireproofed by some of these companies was declared by the Building Commissioner unfit for use in fireproof buildings; and in consequence, Commissioner Brady refused to approve their process; but by persistent appeals made by these companies to Commissioner Wallace, who succeeded Commissioner Brady, they were granted a conditional approval of their material—but only conditional. And what has been the result?

Ever since that time the market has been flooded with inferior and imperfectly treated wood, which has been used in buildings where absolutely fire resistant material was called for, and was paid for by the owners of the buildings. Some of these companies for the fireproofing of wood with a few of the trim manufacturers or mill men are responsible for the present condition of things and for the movement now on foot. It cannot be questioned that in every line of material there is found good and bad, as is the case with fireproofed wood. The recent tests made by Prof. Chas. L. Norton, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, under the direction of Edward Atkinson, show conclusively the great difference in results of fireproofing wood treated by various companies.

The process of fireproofing wood is not an easy one, so that if wood that has been treated by a process of fireproofing is found to burn, it must necessarily prove that it is a poor process, and may be so for two reasons: that it is not thoroughly impregnated, or that the chemicals used are of a poor and inexpensive character. Therefore, for the production of thoroughly fireproofed wood, it requires knowledge, experience and a high class of chemicals, making the cost of production somewhat higher than for the wood which is treated by companies using correspondingly inexpensive and ineffective chemicals; so that the cost of absolutely or thoroughly fire resistant material is more than wood fireproofed indifferently. There is the "rub."

The general contractor gives out his sub-contract to the carpenter; the carpenter gives out the trim to the trim manufacturer; the trim manufacturer applies to the various fireproofing companies for the cost of fireproofing; and what is the result?

Some of the trim manufacturers will take the cheapest thing they can get, but they tell us, "We like your process and know that you have the best process for the fireproofing of wood, but we are not obliged to buy the best. All we are called upon is to use any process that will pass the Building Inspector, and we are told by the other companies they will guarantee that their stuff will pass the Inspector, and we don't care whether it burns or not." And that is what we are up against, and this is just what brings the proper article in disrepute along with the fake; and, therefore, we think that if the clause is amended or repealed, anyone that really wants fireproofed wood for protection will first investigate and secure the best and pay for such, and the owner will then get it in his building.



It is true that pieces of wood taken from stock which is to go into each of these so-called fireproof buildings are being sent to Prof. Woolson, of Columbia College, to be tested and be reported upon to the Bureau of Buildings, and that is all.

The wood sent to the fireproofing companies by the trim contractors to be treated, generally finds its way into the buildings as long as some of these trim contractors have to pay for the fireproofing, whether it is properly fireproofed or not, for if any of such wood is rejected by the Inspector, he is informed by the fireproofing company that it will be fireproofed over; but, as a matter of fact, wood once found not to be thoroughly fireproofed or impregnated cannot be retreated and improved upon by further treatment, and there you are.

Now, in conclusion, would say that under the existing conditions we are in full accord with the Record and Guide, and some of the architects, and urge upon the ground of imperfect work the repeal; but it must be understood that it is not urged upon the ground that properly and thoroughly fireproofed wood cannot be had, for with thorough knowledge, care and use of the best chemicals, wood has been and is being treated to-day to the entire satisfaction of patrons who are using our product from choice and not by requirement of the law, viz.: The American Locomotive Company, at Schenectady, N. Y.; the N. Y. Central Railway Company, the Western Electric Company, Westinghouse, Church, Kerr & Co., the Hale & Kilburn Mfg. Co., all of whom we give as references; and we think if the law is amended, fireproofed wood will once more take the proper rank among fireproofing material; and anyone in search of it will secure the best and pay its price.

It has been for some time a well known fact that the Electric Fireproofing Company has expressed itself on many occasions that, under existing conditions, it would support any amendment to be asked for in this direction, as can be confirmed by ex-Supt. of Buildings, Perez M. Stewart, Wm. A. Anderson, Supt. of the Board of New York Fire Underwriters, Ralph Starrett, of the Thompson-Starrett Company, and Sloane & Moller, carpenters and trim manufactuers.

Respectfully yours,
ELECTRIC FIREPROOFING COMPANY.

Simplex Concrete Pile Foundation: The Foundation Co.

A recent architectural improvement to lower Broadway, at the corner of Beaver st, is the Produce Exchange Bank designed by Ernest Flagg. Occupying a sightly corner, opposite the Produce Exchange, it rises twelve stories high, with frontages of 73 ft. on Broadway and 32 on Beaver st. Exterior walls are of granite to the first floor level, then Indiana limestone to the third floor, and the remaining stories of brick and ornamental iron. The floor arches in the building are 14.8 from center to center of I-beams, under the Clinton Fireproofing System. The first floor, which is used by the bank, is shut off from the rest of the building.

All the materials used in the construction are the best, and the structure is a model of good workmanship in all its parts, and represents an expenditure of about $750,000 exclusive of the value of the site. The main floor contains the vaults, officers' rooms and the counters, the latter in form of an elipse, and there is a gallery around the apartment at the second story level, which is reached by two ornamental spiral staircases of metal. Four windows, each 9 ft. 6 ins. wide, extend through two stories on the Broadway side. Each of the upper floors contains five offices.

AROUSED AGAINST MORTGAGE TAX

Every New York City Candidate for Senate and Assembly Pledged for Repeal—Sentiment Up the State

The announcement of the death of Mr. Edward Van Ingen, President of the Allied Real Estate Interests, was received with profound sorrow by his associates. A minute adopted at a meeting of the Board of Directors says: "He was indefatigable and unselfish in his efforts on behalf of the objects of this organization. We recognized in him a faithful and able leader and feel that by his death the real estate interests of the State have sustained an irreparable loss. His associates on this board desire in this minute to express their recognition of his great service to the organization, their high appreciation of his character and ability, and their keen personal sorrow at his death."

Treasurer B. Aymar Sands has been appointed Acting President. No movement ever started in this city or State under the patronage of the real estate business has had such success as the Allied Interests have been favored with. Their demand for the repeal of the Mortgage Tax law has been echoed on every hand; business men's and taxpayers' associations have espoused it, and candidates for office are proclaiming their adherence to it in the mass meetings of the campaign. Letters sent to every candidate for the Senate and Assembly in Greater New York have elicited responses from 57, all of whom have pledged themselves to support a measure for the repeal of the law.

Already the membership roll of the Allied Real Estate Interests bears the names of 1,500 men identified with real estate, and the number grows every day; and thus far the State outside of New York City has scarcely been touched. At a meeting at the office of D. & M. Cnauncey, 207 Montague street, Brooklyn, between the Brooklyn committee and a committee from the association at large, on Thursday, the Brooklyn branch was formally organized and started. It is the intention to organize a similar branch in every city in the State, and this work will be under the auspices of the following named, who have been collectively constituted as the Membership Committee:

REPRESENTATIVE VIEWS.

Letters are being received by Secretary Allan Robinson expressive of the state of feeling throughout the State upon the Mortgage Tax law. The following came from a prominent citizen of Buffalo:

"Dear Sir: In answer to your question in yours of the 10th inst., I am unalterably opposed to the present Mortgage Tax law. The principal reason is that it makes real estate more difficult to dispose of, owing to the fact that sellers will not take back a purchase money mortgage unless they receive the additional one-half per cent. interest over and above that they would have accepted before July first. People will not buy as readily for investment, owing to the fact that the rate of interest has increased from one-half to one per cent., and it is almost impossible to get people who do not make a regular business of loaning money on real estate to look at the loan, owing to the fact that it is a good deal of a nuisance to look after the tax on it from year to year. The Real Estate Association of the Chamber of Commerce, of which I am one of the Board of Governors, has decided upon a discussion of this subject at the next meeting. I have talked with a number of dealers, and all seem to voice the sentiments expressed herein, and have decided to take action in the matter at the next meeting."

LESS DEMAND FOR MORTGAGE LOANS.

A business man at Cuba, N. Y., writes:

"Gentlemen: I am opposed to the present Mortgage Tax law for the following reasons: First: A part of my business is the lending of money on mortgages. I have received money from other States, and even from as far west as Oregon, for the purpose of making loans on real estate here, which was sent to me almost solely because mortgages were taxed in the States from which the funds came. The supply of loanable funds for mortgage loans in this locality has never been any too plenty, as in this rural locality the savings banks and trust companies do not make loans; and the capital available for that purpose is all furnished by individuals, and any restrictions which may be placed on the going-in of capital to supply the demand on mortgage must necessarily work hardship to the borrower. We are located on the border line of Pennsylvania, and individuals living here and having loanable funds can step over the line and lend their funds at 6% on real estate security and pay no tax. Second: Since the law has been in operation there has been a marked paucity for mortgage loans made within my knowledge, though in all candor I am not able to say that this is entirely due to the Mortgage Tax law."

MONEY LEAVING THE STATE.

A letter from Watertown says:

"Dear Sir: Yours of the 28th inst. received and noted. In relation to the recent Mortgage Tax law will say, that I am heartily in favor having this law repealed, and would be pleased to assist you in any way to accomplish your purpose. I am decidedly opposed to the present Mortgage Tax law for the reason that it has injured my business badly in the way of loaning money. I have many clients, who since this law came into effect have placed their money out of the State of New York, and they say that they will not loan money on real estate in this State until the law is repealed. It certainly is an imposition to the population of the State of New York to impose such a law."

Electric Trains Will Run to Peekskill.

Real estate transactions at Peekskill have disclosed an important fact regarding the New York Central Railroad's electrical improvements that is in the nature of a surprise. Heretofore it has been said that Croton should be the terminus of the new electrical division, but now it is known Peekskill will have that distinction, and that large purchases of land are being made with this object in view. Peekskill is at the southern gate of the Highlands of the Hudson, forty miles from the Grand Central Depot, and the natural termination for a suburban division. A train speed of fifty miles an hour over all will bring it well within an hour's ride, and will do proportionately better for Yonkers, Irvington, Dobbs Ferry, Tarrytown, Sing Sing and Croton, all of which towns are certain in time to receive great additions in population. Newburgh and Fishkill and Poughkeepsie, though not to be at first within the electric zone, will derive an immediate benefit from the operation of this first electrical division, which in due time will be succeeded by another, extending to Poughkeepsie. From here down the east shore of the river will see a great up-building within the next ten years, for the electrification of the Central does not mean simply a smokeless road, but a great six-track line, more numerous trains and swifter, and consequently an expansion of the commuting area and the multiplication of commuters.

The Record and Guide is informed that real estate agents and emissaries of the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad have been securing options on dock property at Peekskill for many months, and the time has now come when these are about to expire. The sale of the Finch property, 52 acres, to James W. Husted is announced; and the same person, who is believed to be acting for the Central, has purchased the Henry L. Armstrong coal yard property, west of the railroad track, for $45,000. Representatives of the railroad company, as is believed, have also purchased the extensive and valuable water grants obtained by David G. Montross and John J. Dolan, and are negotiating also for the land under water grant belonging to O. W. von der Bosch. They want Travis Point and have practically secured options from the owners, the Missionary Sisters of the Third Order of St. Francis, Dr. D. D. Stevens (Old Point Comfort) and Stephen D. Horton. There is no option on the New York Stove Works property, but it is wanted and a cash price has been offered. N. Dain's Sons gave some months ago an option on their lumber yard property. They have as extensive and valuable a river frontage, dockage and slip as there is in Peekskill. The Isaac Roe property, better known as the Rossmore foundry property and now occupied by the William M. Crane Co. factory, the Willis H. Chase Coal Co. land and river front and the Frost property (Captain Morton's upper dock) are under consideration. Their titles have been searched at the county seat and options have been secured upon some of the land.

It is the intention of the railroad company to straighten out the curve between Fleischmann's and Flat Rock as much as possible; to lay six tracks through the village, and to make the terminal of the electrical system there. There will be also established at Peekskill a company and manufactory for making steel rails, steel car wheels and other similar appurtenances. This company will be an independent one at first, but later will be absorbed by the railroad company.

NORFOLK ST.—Herbert R. Mainzer and Edward Necarsulmer, 31 Union sq, have awarded to Walter Reid & Co., of 156 5th av, the general contract to build the 3-sty bank building, 45x41.2x49.7 and 97.4, which the State Bank, 376 Grand st, will build at 52-54 Norfolk st, at an estimated cost of $100,000. (See issue Sept. 30, 1905.)

Plans for a $100,000 Stable.

46TH ST.—Messrs. Schwartzschild & Sulzberger, 1st av and 45th st, will in the near future erect on the south side of 46th st, 250 ft east of 2d av, a new 6-sty fireproof stable building, 100x100 ft in size, equipped with the latest stable conveniences. The estimated cost will be about $100,000. A. M. Huntley, the firm's architect, 1st av and 45th st, is preparing the plans. No. contract has yet been issued.

Contract for the A. J. Robinson Co.

FORDHAM.—The general contract for the erection of the new home to be erected at Fordham for the Messiah Home for Children, of No. 490 Mott av, this city, has been awarded to the Andrew J. Robinson Co., of No. 123 East 23d st, for which Charles Brigham, of Boston, Mass., is the architect. The structure will be 3 stories in height, fireproof, 185x65 ft in size, and will cost in the neighborhood of $150,000.

Robert E. Dowling to Build a Fine Residence.

RIVERSIDE DRIVE.—Robert E. Dowling, president of the City Investing Co., of No. 111 Broadway, will build a residence on the southeast corner of Riverside Drive and 73d st. Although no plans have yet been settled upon, in all probability John H. Duncan, of 208 Fifth av, will be the architect, as he has done Mr. Dowling's work in previous operations. Further particulars will be given in later issues. Mr. Dowling is to be congratulated on securing so choice a site for his residence.

New York Club Plans Ready for Bidders.

40TH ST.—Architect H. J. Hardenbergh, No. 1 West 34th st, is now ready for figures on the general contract for the handsome new 8-sty club house, to be erected on a plot 55x100, at Nos. 18 to 22 West 40th st, for the New York Club, 5th av and 35th st, at a cost of about $500,000. The site faces the new library building, and is in the same block with the Republican Club and the new Engineers' Club building. G. P. Sheldon, of 68 William st, is president; William A. Lane, secretary; and John Jurgenson, treasurer. No award for any of the work has been made. Mr. C. O. Mailloux, 76 William st, has been appointed electrical engineer.

Ranald H. Macdonald & Co. to Build on Riverside Drive.

RIVERSIDE DRIVE.—Ranald H. Macdonald & Co., of No. 5 West 31st st, have just purchased a plot of eight lots at the southeast corner of Riverside Drive and 86th st, 200x102.2 ft, and will build on the corner of about 100x100 ft, a 12-sty high-class elevator apartment house. Actual work will be begun on July 1st, as soon as they get possession. The building will have exteriors of light brick, limestone and terra cotta, and fine ornamental iron work. The interior will contain electric elevators, steam heat, electric lights, marble, tile, mosaic and hard wood finish, and apartments will be arranged in suits for housekeeping purposes. Macdonald & Co., will be the general contractors, receiving all estimates and issuing all sub-contracts. Charles E. Birge, of No. 5 West 31st st, will be the architect. The project they estimate will cost about $700,000.

Old Custom-House Will be Altered to a Bank.

WALL ST.—It is officially announced that Messrs. McKim, Mead & White, of No. 160 Fifth av, will be the architects for extensive alterations and improvements to the Old Custom-House Building at Wall, Hanover, William sts, and Exchange place, which is to be renovated for banking purposes, and occupied solely as the future home of the National City Bank, now located at No. 52 Wall st. Various rumors have been circulated regarding the future use of this historic old structure, but no official statement was issued until Monday of this week. To what extent the building actually will be altered, and just what the cost will be, cannot be given thus early, as really nothing definite has been decided, except that plans for the improvement are under way. At the rate of progress on the new Custom-House in lower Broadway, by the time it is completed the old building will have become almost a gift from the United States Government to the National City Bank, according to the deal through which the concern comes into possession of this immensely valuable property. Bids for the purchase of the old Custom-House were opened on July 2d, 1899, the National City Bank being the highest bidder at $3,265,000. In submitting the bid, President James Stillman outlined an ingenious scheme, which was accepted by Lyman J. Gage, then secretary of the Treasury. The plan was that the bank should pay into the Treasury all but $40,000 of the purchase price, and that the Government should hold the deed to the property in escrow pending the payment of this sum three years later. By this means the Government became the tenant of the bank, at $130,000 a year, on August 21st, 1899, when the payment of $3,225,000 was made. No deed to the property having passed, the real estate records of Manhattan continued to show the United States as the owner, and consequently the property remained exempt from taxation. The property is valued on the assessment roll at something like $5,000,000, but it is not taxed, If it were the taxes would amount to about $75,000 a year. Thus by the time the bank takes possession of its property, with profits in rent, taxes, and increased valuation, the net cost to the bank, after considering the increase in the value of the property since the sale, and the further fact that the sum paid by the bank was immediately turned back to the bank as a Government deposit, will make the net cost very small.

BUILDING NOTES

The Electric Motor Inspection & Repair Co., 1 Beekman st, under the management of Harry S. Smith, makes a specialty of maintaining electrical machinery under yearly contracts, and reducing cost of current to lowest possible figure.

The Knickerbocker Construction Co., 15 Cortlandt st, New York, is builder, and Geo. Keister, of 11 West 29th st, architect, for a $300,000 apartment house to be erected at Syracuse, N. Y. The owner is the Lynch estate, of which Chas. C. Cook and Walter McMullin are trustees.

Mr. Fleck, of 442 Pleasant av, is manufacturing a new design in builders and plasterers furnaces and much superior to the old style. These furnaces are made of sixteen-gauge steel, in the best manner possible, and will average from 50 to 80 pounds in weight. Prices and description will be furnished on request.

Services were held for the first time on Wednesday at St. Thomas's, Fifth av and 53d st, in the temporary edifice constructed within the old church walls recently destroyed by fire. The structure is being erected by the Andrew J. Robinson Co., of 123 East 23d st, under the supervision of Messrs. Carpenter & Blair, of 569 Fifth av.

The demand in this section for the fine products of the Decorators' Supply Company, of Chicago, has so steadily and rapidly increased in the last few months that the carrying of greatly enlarged stocks and consequent increase of storage capacity is the result, Carl A. Kehrwieder, 156 Fifth av, New York, is the manager for the Eastern district.

The Board of Aldermen on Tuesday last approved an appropriation of $800,000 for the Staten Island tuberculosis hospital, one of $115,000 for municipal lodging houses, $500,000 for the Manhattan terminal of the Williamsburgh Bridge, $300,000 for the Pelham Bay Bridge improvement, $175,000 for the Dutch Kills Bridge, and $20,000 for the Botanical Gardens.

Demands on behalf of 12,000 union carpenters were made on Wednesday by the New York District Council of the Brotherhood of Carpenters on the members of the Master Carpenters' Association for an increase in wages of 50 cents a day, to go into effect Jan. 1. The carpenters are now getting $4 and $4.50 a day. The employers will be required to give their answer not later than Dec. 15.

Public School No. 62, at Hester, Essex and Norfolk sts, the largest elementary school in the world, was opened on Wednesday. The building contains 87 classrooms and has a seating capacity of 4,500. The auditorium is in the basement and will accommodate 1,600. There are cooking rooms, workshops, gymnasia, baths and four elevators. The building cost $518,000 to construct.

President John B. Sheehan, of the Master Builders' Association, states that demands have been made on him and other members of the association by the journeymen plasterers which, if granted, will make it possible for union plasterers to earn $12 per day. The demands are for $6 a day, with the usual clause in the agreement, providing that overtime be paid as double time. Thus a man working twelve hours a day would receive $12 a day. The plasterers are now receiving $5.70 a day. This association is not affiliated with the Building Trades Employes' Association.

Comfort and Profit in Brooklyn Real Estate.

Concerning building conditions in Brooklyn on the whole we have the opinion of Mr. Frank H. Tyler, 1183 Fulton st, that they have not been better in twenty-five years. Mr. Tyler, in an interview this week, said also: "Investors are so numerous that many of them go direct to the builders. It is indeed a misfortune that the residents of Brooklyn are not more alive to the fact that there are so many first-class income properties for sale, as New Yorkers and many non-residents are awake to it and are buying properties throughout the borough. I am pleased to note the great increase in the population in Brooklyn since the last census, and when we have our subways completed and in operation, we shall within five years at the most cease to be a rival of the Borough of Manhattan and will vastly outnumber their population.

"There is not any direction in which you can go in Brooklyn where you cannot find most attractive and desirable houses for the classes or the masses. As to the question of over-production, it is not a question which will admit of any discussion as the future of Brooklyn is so great and the transit facilities now so well under way that it would not be possible to have any over-production, and the same conditions prevail with apartment houses, dwellings and even cold water flats, and there is continual demand every month in the year for them.

"I could cite any number of instances where property in Brooklyn has increased from 10% to 40% in valuation within fifteen months and have readily been sold at the increased price, which in any event was only approaching its actual value. In other words, in the Borough of Manhattan an investor congratulates himself when he procures a piece of property which yields an income of from 5 to 8% gross, while in Brooklyn investors can readily procure gilt-edged property paying from 10% to 15% gross, and are fast availing themselves of such fine opportunities. The Borough of Brooklyn, figuratively speaking, ceased to wear short trowsers many years ago, although there are some residents still left in Brooklyn who have not grown so rich that they developed throat trouble and went to Manhattan, who were not aware of the fact. The future of Brooklyn is wonderful and the natural advantages are without number. It is truly a city of homes.

"When our rapid transit system is developed and our population doubled, which it surely will be, and present prices have doubled and tripled, then will come the time for the pessimist who has been asleep to his opportunities for investment to tell his friends of what he could have bought only a few years ago."

A Concrete Association Formed.

Action taken on Thursday night in the assembly rooms of the Building Trades Employers' Association is said to mark the beginning of the first concentrated movement toward the development of the concrete situation ever attempted in this country. At this meeting more than fifty of the most prominent concrete engineers and contractors in Greater New York were present, and officers were elected as follows: Ross F. Tucker, Pres.; H. C. Turner, First Vice-Pres.; H. C. Miller, Second Vice-Pres.; Mr. Benson, of the Standard Stone Co., Third Vice-Pres.; Mr. Barr, of the Vulcanite Portland Cenemt Co., Secy., and Ronald Taylor, Treas. A committee of six was appointed to draw up a constitution and by-laws for the organization, which will be known as "The Concrete Association."

The plan and scope of this association is largely contained in a paper sent out a few days ago to various branches of the concrete industry by Mr. Ross F. Tucker, the prime leader of the movement. Some of the points made in this paper ars as follows: "The great advance made in recent years in the use of cement and concrete has brought with it many new problems and many complications and antagonisms which should be dealt with systematically and thoroughly as they arise, so that the cement industry may not only retain the position it has gained in the building world, but may progress without interruption and fortify itself against the assaults of unfriendly interests. You are doubtless well aware of the following:

"That the National Board of Fire Underwriters is not giving as equitable rates of insurance on concrete and concrete constructions as the excellence of the material for fire protection warrants. That the influence of the brick and terra cotta fireproofing interests are powerful, and should be offset by influences in the concrete industry equally as powerful. That the building authorities in many cases require of concrete a much higher duty and higher factors of safety than established rules of design demand. That by reason of the great number of reinforcing devices and varying methods of construction, much confusion exists among architects, engineers and the building public as to the exact statues and value of concrete as a building material. That certain powerful trade interests connected with the brick industry are using all possible influence to hinder and block the extension of concrete, while other interests quite as powerful allied with our industry, are making the most unreasonable demands in order to control concrete construction, thereby greatly increasing the cost to the investor, and rendering competition with brick and terra cotta the more difficult.

"The time has arrived for a general line-up of the cement and concrete industry, and its allied trades, for the purpose of securing a more positive regognition of the merits of cement and concrete, for a more systematic presentation of the methods of construction to the investing public, and for the purpose of setting up a strong opposition to the demands and encroachments of trade unions. To this end, it is proposed to form an association which shall embrace all those firms and individuals interested in the cement and concrete industry, including manufacturers and users of cement and those in the trades allied therewith. The purpose of this organization is as follows: 1. To inaugurate a movement in the public press and otherwise, in order to obtain fair and equitable rates of insurance upon buildings constructed wholly or in part of concrete. 2. To secure from the building authorities a full recognition of the proper valuation in the design and erection of concrete structures. 3. To acquaint the building and technical professions with the value of concrete as a fire-resisting material, and to present in a tangible manner the great possibilities of this material for constructional purposes. 4. To collect and classify data relating to cement and concrete, with a view to standardizing concrete methods and regulating the design and construction of concrete structures within safe and conservative limits. 5. To form a large and representative exhibition of cement and of concrete structures and apparatus illustrating not only the broad scope of the industry but also the several systems and methods of construction, reinforcing devices and mechanical appliances pertaining to the craft. 6. To establish headquarters and meeting rooms in connection with the exhibition, where all interested in the industry may be gathered for business and social intercourse, and where from time to time lectures may be given by authorities on the subject, or those who may be engaged in extensive and original operations in various parts of the world. 7. To perfect a thorough organization for regulating disputes with trade unions, and to devise ways and means for resisting the unreasonable demands of these unions, for the purpose, primarily, of keeping the cost of concrete structures within reasonable limits.

From the viewpoints of architectural beauty, solidity of construction and up-to-date equipment, it ranks among the first of its kind in the world. Among the artistic features of this remarkable building, the art metal work, consisting of stairways, railings, gates and window frames and sashes of iron, finished in Duplex Bronze Plate, all manufactured by the Hecla Iron Works, stand out boldly as master specimens of the artisan in metal.

"It is clear that a thorough organization of the firms and individuals engaged in the manufacture, sale and use of cement, together with those trades which naturally are allied with them, would be a powerful influence, and would accomplish a great good along the lines above indicated, and it requires no argument to demonstrate that a permanent exhibition covering the indusrty as a whole would do more than a world of literature in the education of the technical investing public in the possibilities of Portland cement."

The next meeting of the association will be held Thursday evening, Nov. 16th, at which time the committee will recommend the by-laws and constitution and other regulations governing the association. All who attend this meeting may be admitted to the association as charter members and thus secure the advantage of the lower or charter member rate of initiation fee. The projectors say that the organization is bound to be a success.

—With the arrival of November and lowering temperature comes the reminder that the end of the brick building season is at hand. Last winter's experiences taught us that, after all, the building season has natural limitations. Through a long succession of mild winters the public had been cultivating the surmise that the old-fashioned winters would never be repeated. A number of the brick yards which supply the local market are closing down this week, and ere Thanksgiving arrives brick manufacturing will have ceased, but the shipping of material will continue until navigation is suspended. Nine dollars a thousand is the top price now commanded by the best common brick in the wholesale market.

—Chief Engineer Nelson P. Lewis, of the Board of Estimate, thinks the time has arrived that the question of adequate access to the Manhattan end of the Blackwell's Island Bridge be seriously taken up, as a very difficult problem will present itself. Fifty-ninth st, which will be the principal approach to the bridge, is already greatly overcrowded. Its widening has been frequently suggested, but has not been authorized owing to the enormous expense. Whatever the ultimate solution of the problem, it will be costly and will require some years, and Mr. Lewis believes that the time has already arrived when the Department of Bridges, or such other Department, should be requested to submit a plan for the accommodation of the traffic at the Manhattan end of this bridge.

Modernly Planned Dwellings.

A FUNDAMENTAL REASON FOR BROOKLYN'S ENORMOUS BUILDING MOVEMENT—VIEWS OF FRANK. H. TYLER.

(From the Record and Guide's Brooklyn Edition.)

Brooklyn real estate midway of the fall season has several new aspects plain to close observers that have not yet been referred to in the formalistic reviews of the market in the daily press, yet are peculiarly significant of the changing processes of the times. The general characteristics of the season are familiar to every observer, but if there is one predominant it is the eager search of the multitude for modernly-planned housing.

This inquiry comes not alone from the natural increase in population and the overflow from Manhattan, but seems to be mostly born of a new desire among the old residents—a desire to be more comfortably housed. If any broker will analyze the applications that come to his office he will find that the enormous rents the public hear about are being paid for the modern house and the modern apartment, and not for old style houses. Several fashionable neighborhoods, it is very apparent, while still appreciated, do not cast the same spell as in other days, while less fashionable neighborhoods are distinctly not improving in value, unless modern houses are being erected.

Fashion certainly is subordinate when people are emigrating in enormous numbers to outlying districts only recently woods and fields and having no claims at all to exclusiveness, to occupy new houses simply because they fit the fancy better. The house that is narrow and shallow, or has dark rooms, finally grates on the nerves, even if it has a brownstone front and is situated in a fashionable street. When the chance offers families will break away from such limitations and seek the spacious dwellings of Flatbush and other suburbs. It is the well-planned house, whether brick or frame, and no matter almost where situated, that is being preferred and snatched from the builders' hands before it is fully completed, and which returns the largest profit to builder and owner.

A consequence of this new movement is seen in the remarkable number of old-fashioned single-family houses offered for sale. Take the Daily Standard-Union, for example, and notice four solid columns of houses for sale, the great majority of which are old single-family houses, but with some alleged two-family houses, most of them planned with two large rooms and one or two small ones on a floor. Miles of these were built in past times in Brooklyn, and most of them are on the for-sale list to-day at very reasonable prices, not because they are worn out or in bad repair or in a poor neighborhood, but simply because they no longer appeal to the class of owners and tenants for whom they were built. These are finding homes more to their taste elsewhere.

The number of old-style houses in good streets in the old sections of the borough that are for sale at low prices is to our mind one of the significant signs of the times. Evidently the first sign of over-production in building will be noticed in the vacant tenements and in the upper parts of such houses as these.

Another distinct feature of the market is the enormous demand for commodious two-family houses. Fewer of these have been built during the last few years than of single-family houses in the new parts of the city, but next year is likely to see an extremely pronounced movement in this direction. In such houses families get practically the same number of rooms as in choice elevator apartment houses, with the additional advantage of exclusiveness.

A Wanamaker Tunnel.

The firm of John Wanamaker has received the permission of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment to construct and maintain a tunnel under and across East 9th st, between Broadway and Fourth av, in the Borough of Manhattan, to connect with the property controlled by the firm on either side of the street. The firm at the present time has connection by tunnel under 9th st between the two properties, and by this application it proposes to enlarge its tunnel from 9 feet in width to 39 feet.

Since the original permit was given the Board of Estimate and Apportionment has adopted a basis of compensation for tunnel, pipe and track privileges, which is dependent upon the assessed valuation of the abutting property, and the annual charge made varies between 4 and 12 per cent. of such assessed valuation, dependent upon the use to be made of the privilege.

THE MANHATTAN VALLEY VIADUCT.

New York City. F. Stuart Williamson, Engineer.

The usual charge for a pipe tunnel has been 4 per cent. of such assessed valuation, but the purpose for which this tunnel is proposed to be used is entirely different. It will not only form means of connection between the stores, but will also presumably be used in the same manner as the existing tunnel connection with the subway, wherein the space is utilized purely as an enlargement of store space, and where goods are exposed for sale. Under these circumstances the Board fixed the annual charge at 12 per cent. of the assessed valuation of the property to be used for tunnel purposes. This will make an annual charge for the first term of five years of $2,735, which sum will be increased in the usual manner 5 per cent. each five years.

—Charles D. Barney, George R. Sheldon, W. G. Oakman, Anson M. Bangs and other good men have taken hold of the old Hackensack Meadows Co. and reorganized it as the New Jersey Terminal Dock and Improvement Company, with a capital of three million dollars. The company owns 4,600 acres of land between the Hackensack and Passaic rivers, and is engaged in dredging channels for navigation by sea-going vessels and filling in the lowland. Eventually the property will thus be made very desirable for commercial purposes. The firm of B. T. Babbitt is building a great soap works establishment on the Meadows near Hackensack, and altogether business men are taking a marked interest in the region.

SALE OF

Sash and Blind Mill Plant.

Charles Shongood, United States Auctioneer, will sell at public auction, on the premises, on Thursday, November 9th, 1905, at 11 A. M., at Avenue D and Twelfth Street, Unionport, Borough of the Bronx, New York City, a complete and valuable sash and blind mill-plant, consisting of a plot of about sixteen (16) city lots, with the buildings thereon, boilers, engines, wood-working machinery, etc. There will be sold also about 100,000 feet of rough lumber of various kinds, dressed lumber, mouldings, doors and sashes, trucks, business wagons, coach and truck harness, blankets, etc.

A description of the foregoing property, terms of sale, etc., may be had upon application to the attorney for the trustee.

GEORGE F. DARRELL,
Trustee in Bankruptcy of John Lanzer.

AUGUSTUS H. SKILLIN,
Attorney for Trustee,
No. 34 Pine Street, New York City.

Must Complete the Connection.

The Union Railway Company of New York City received a franchise from the City of New York by ordinance approved by the Mayor on September 14, 1903, for the construction and operation of a street surface railroad along the westerly approach, known as the Sedgwick avenue approach, to Central or Macomb's Dam Bridge; and along the bridge and the 155th st viaduct and Macomb's Dam road to the terminus of the railway of the Eighth Avenue Railroad Company, between West 154th and West 155th sts.

The period allowed for the construction of the railroad on this line has expired, and as no railroad has yet been constructed on part of the route between the Eighth avenue railway and the viaduct, where the Union tracks at present stop, the Board of Estimate has penalized the company in the sum of $2,500, and has ordered it to complete its road to the end of the route designated within ninety days.

City Engineer Nichols says the invariable attitude of the Union Company has been to ask for such rights as it deems profitable to construct at the time of application, and which it intends immediately to construct, and also to secure franchises upon which it does not intend immediately to construct its railroad; intending to hold the franchises until such time as it deems profitable and advisable to use them.

Tax Budget for 1906.

The increase in the budget for 1906 over the one made a year ago for 1905 is slightly less than $7,000,000. In considering the requests of the various departments, which amounted to very much more than this sum, the Board of Estimate first determined this as the limit of increase, fixing it by estimating the increase in the city's resources from the General Fund and the Sinking Fund, and from the income which the normal increase of assessments next year will produce. The Board believes that, except under extraordinary conditions, expenses of government should not be permitted to increase faster than income, and we have applied that rule. It is therefore to be noted that the increase in the budget just made will not increase the tax rate next year.

The greatest possible care has been taken in the consideration of the budget of the Board of Education, and a thorough analysis by experts, especially employed for the purpose, has been made of the requisition of that board. The result is that the Board of Education receives in this budget the largest increase given to any department and the largest increase for its general administrative purpose which that board has had since consolidation, an increase of $1,361,170.92. We have also stated in detail the various purposes to which we believe that the Board of Education should apply its appropriation, so that no doubt can be raised as to the purpose of this board to meet the proper demands for night schools, playgrounds, recreation centers, etc. The detailed analysis and reports upon which this particular item of the budget is fixed has been published as a separate pamphlet for the information of those interested.

The demands of the city debt for interest, installments on principal and redemption required an increase of $1,849,512.48. This was mandatory, and was due to the increased amount of bonds which the city's activity in public improvements required. The State taxes are $186,608.20 larger than in the previous year. The Police Department requires an increase of $626,236.72, because of the increase in the force and the deficiency in the pension fund. The President of the Borough of Manhattan has had to have an increase of $234,356, most of which is due to extensive street repairs in streets where the repair guarantees of the asphalt companies have expired. The extension of the paid Fire Department into the Boroughs of Richmond and Queens has required an increase of $337,090.68. The Public Libraries have required, by the opening of additional Carnegie branches, an increase of $138,037.20.

From an examination of these items it will be seen that the increase in the budget, while it is kept within the increase of revenues for next year and will not increase the tax rate, is demanded by the enlarged activities of municipal government and the increase of population.

CONVEYANCES

Whenever the letters Q. C., C. a. G. and B. & S. occur, preceded by the name of the grantee, they mean as follows:

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Baragain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it. The street or avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

4.h.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

5th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

6th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

7th.—A $20,000—$30,000 ndicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only, and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before 2d figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction.
